DIESEL ENGINE SPURS CHICAGO RAIL INDUSTRY

New Freight Service Planned to West.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Marking a revolutionary step in railroad transportation, a 5,400 horse power Diesel-electric locomotive will be placed in main line freight service next month by one of the transcontinental lines running west from Chicago.

Railroad men said the plan—announced yesterday by officials of the Santa Fe railroad—will strengthen Chicago's position as the leading center for the construction of Diesel-electric engines. Steam locomotive building has been concentrated largely in the east in the past, altho Chicago has been a center for both railway passenger and freight car building.

Chicago Industry Boosted.

Development of the Diesel-electric locomotive has given Chicago an outstanding industry. The new Diesel was built in the La Grange plant of the Electro-Motive corporation. The plant, established in 1935 by the General Motors corporation, gave Chicago its first big rôle in the construction of motive power.

Continued expansion in the use of Diesel-electric power has caused a steady expansion in the plant, which now employs approximately 3,500 persons. This addition to industrial Chicago was created by the demand of railroads for more speed in their passenger service to meet competition from air lines and private automobiles.

Challenge to Steam Locomotives.

It was said the introduction of the new locomotive will mark the first time a Diesel-electric engine will be used in regular, main line freight service. The Diesel has proved its value in hauling streamlined passenger trains and now is said to be offering a real challenge to the steam locomotive, which heretofore has been king of railroad freight service.

The new locomotive, which has gone thru preliminary tests, consists of two units of 2,700 horsepower each. Each unit is powered with two 16 cylinder two cycle engines rated at 1,350 horsepower each. It is said to be capable of hauling 100 loaded freight cars with ease over level track, and is geared to a maximum speed of 75 miles an hour.

Construction Costs Cut.

One factor which has held back the development of Diesel-electric locomotives for freight service has been their high cost in comparison with the cost of steam locomotives.

The original cost of a Diesel has been as much as three times that of a steam locomotive of comparable power. Manufacturers, however, have succeeded in reducing the costs of Diesel construction.

One valuable feature of the Diesel is that it may be kept in service 24 hours a day for long periods, while steam locomotives must be retired for servicing every few hundred miles. The fact that it is a 24 hour engine permits a reduction in the number of service stops, thus saving time.

PILOTS SEARCH FOR BOMBER IN MOUNTAIN AREAS

McChord Field, Wash., Jan. 17 (AP).—Air corps and commercial pilots scanned wilderness areas of the storm-strewn Pacific coast today for an army bomber missing more than 24 hours with seven men aboard.

The search centered in the Mount St. Helens area of southwestern Washington and along the California-Oregon line, on reports a big plane had been seen in those vicinities, apparently in trouble, a few hours after the B-18A Douglas plane left here for Muroc Range, Cal.

Operations officers said a report that the plane had been found wrecked near Yreka, Cal., could not be confirmed.

The bomber, with First Lieutenant R. M. Krummes, pilot, and Second Lieutenant C. T. Nielsen, co-pilot, in charge, left yesterday for the bombing range in southern California. Others aboard were Second Lieutenant J. F. Geis, navigator; First Lieutenant L. E. Mackay, Sergeants L. H. Neitling and P. L. Maas, and Technical Sergeant H. A. Davis, a passenger.

Aviation Chief Urges Airport on Lake Front

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

L. B. Manning, chairman of Aviation corporation, one of the country's largest aircraft and engine manufacturing concerns, yesterday joined a group of other Chicago civic leaders who have reopened efforts to obtain a downtown lake front airport. Manning notified Congressman Charles S. Dewey, Republican of the 9th district [near north side], that he would assist in any way possible.

Revival of civic interest in the lake front airport came Thursday night when Congressman Dewey met with 75 business leaders at a dinner in his honor in the Chicago Athletic association. Dewey asked the formation of a committee to develop a sound program for construction of the lake front field.

Manning Hails Program.

"This is the best thing I have heard about for Chicago's aviation future," Manning said. "I thought it was shameful that Harold Ickes [secretary of the interior and former Public Works administrator], as an autocratic controler of federal funds, should kill the project the way he did a few years ago.

"Since Ickes has lost control of the PWA, it's just possible we can do something about this logical, inevitable development that would be a great move to push Chicago ahead in the national aviation picture. Maybe we can revive the corpse of the project that Ickes slew."

Widely Experienced in Aviation.

Manning's interest in the proposal is considered important because of his wide experience in aviation. For years he was No. 2 man in the Cord corporation affairs, was an executive of American Airlines, and today controls the widespread interests of Aviation corporation.

Congressman Dewey indicated yesterday he may ask Manning to serve on a committee of Chicagoans who will make the creation of a lake front airport their first duty. Members of the committee are to be announced Monday. Consulting with Dewey in this matter are Nathaniel Leverone, who was toastmaster at the dinner Thursday, and Ben E. Regan, who was one of those at the dinner.

Other Aviation Goals Sought.

Among civic agencies that will be represented on the committee are the Chicago plan commission, the Association of Commerce, and the Illinois Manufacturers' association. The committee's campaign is to have other goals as well. Among them are:

1. That Chicago prepare itself as a site for a federal aircraft research laboratory, which Dewey predicted ultimately will be constructed.

2. That a stronger campaign be waged to attract light plane manufacturers to this city.

3. That the city make itself ever more attractive to the commercial air lines that already operate here and to future companies flying in the middle west.

'Enough,' Cry These Italians of Greek War

SOMEWHERE OFF THE GRECIAN COAST, Jan. 17 (AP).—A group of young Italians, their frayed uniforms still soiled with blood from the lost battle of Klisura, are squeezed in the dark hold of a Greek prison ship nearing Piræus.

They curse the war, their sickness from bad Albanian water, and their officers who let them be caught in a Greek trap. But they are glad to be alive.

Six hours ago Italian bombers very nearly killed them all, as they huddled in a dugout near the docks during a raid on a small northern Greek port. Flying so high that they were mere silvery specks, the Fascist planes dropped more than 300 bombs.

A Welcome Refuge.

Hugging the earth and sweating with the nervousness that even veterans feel when the bombs scream down, some of these young prisoners prayed repeatedly while buildings were smashed into matchwood a few hundred feet away.

When the attack paused at dusk they shuffled aboard the tramp freighter, carrying slabs of brown bread, moist white cheese, and oranges the Greeks had given them. For these Alpine troops—among the finest in the Italian armies—this prison ship offered a welcome refuge.

Conscripts in the early twenties, reared from childhood under Fascism, the Italians arrived in Albania two days before Christmas and were thrown immediately against the Greeks in the Klisura sector.

Say They Have Had Enough.

Their resistance at the front line was tough, superior to anything heretofore shown by the Blackshirt companies. Yet, the Greek charges broke them.

Now, on a voyage thru the mine fields, their war weariness was expressed in a single word: "Enough."

Army Moves to Acquire Pacific Embarkation Base

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—The war department said today condemnation proceedings were being started to acquire 74 acres, owned by Oakland, Cal., to provide for expansion of the army's San Francisco port of embarkation. The site includes a part of the port of Oakland terminal facilities.

WOMEN PICKETS FIGHT POLICE IN DETROIT STRIKE

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 17 (AP).—Swinging purses and wielding hatpins, an estimated 200 women pickets tonight battled police attempting to escort workers from the strike-bound American Lady Corset company. The A. F. of L. Ladies' Garment Workers union is on strike at the plant.

Two detectives reported minor injuries, and several policemen's uniforms were torn in the 20-minute struggle.

STRIP FRILLS FROM CLIPPERS TO INCREASE CAPACITY OF CARGOES

New York, Jan. 17 (AP).—To increase the carrying capacity of the Yankee, Dixie and Atlantic Clippers by 4,000 pounds each, Pan-American Airways has stripped these giant flying boats of the trans-Atlantic service of 1,700 pounds of their expensive furnishings, stepped up the horsepower of their engines and increased their fuel capacity.

So great have been European mail loads recently that the line has found difficulty in carrying both passengers and mail. All but five of the ships' 30 berths have been removed, as was every frill not deemed necessary to flight.

Even the glistening coats of aluminum paint have been scraped off, making the ships 93.5 pounds lighter in that respect.

BRITAIN WILL REQUIRE MORE WEAPONS THAN SHE CAN PAY FOR, PREMIER STATES

Hails Roosevelt's Special Envoy for Visit.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 17.—With Harry Hopkins seated at his side, Prime Minister Winston Churchill tonight praised efforts now being made in America to help Britain to victory. He spoke at a meeting of Glasgow's city councilors. He said Britain will not require "large armies from overseas" in 1941, but will need "far more" weapons than "we shall be able to pay for."

Winston Churchill.

The prime minister proudly introduced President Roosevelt's special envoy, and pointing toward Hopkins as he sat with his face half hidden in his hand, declared:

"Mr. Hopkins has come in order to put himself in the closest relation with things here. He soon will return to report to his famous chief the impressions he has gathered in our islands. We don't require in 1941 large armies from overseas. What we do require are weapons, ships, and airplanes.

Watches U. S. Processes.

"All that we can pay for we will pay for, but we will require far more than we shall be able to pay for.

"I watch with deep emotion the stirring processes by which the democracy of the great American republic is establishing its laws and its decisions in order to make sure that the British commonwealth of nations is able to maintain, as it is at the present time, the front line of civilization and progress."

Churchill's speech in Glasgow followed an earlier tour with Hopkins and Mrs. Churchill of the city's defense centers during which air raid precautions workers paraded at Clydeside. He talked informally to the workers and thanked them for their part in a "great crusade."

Not at End of Road.

"Do not suppose," he said, "that we are at the end of the road yet. Tho long and hard it may be I have absolutely no doubt we shall win a complete and decisive victory over the forces of evil."

He took up this theme during his night speech also and told his audience that "whatever the suffering, we shall not fail mankind at this turning point of its fortunes. My one aim is to extirpate Hitlerism from Europe."

He warned, however, that Britain still is a "partially armed nation," but declared himself confident of this country's ultimate victory and insisted that if Hitler had found invasion of Britain difficult in July and September it would not become easier by February, March, or April.

He told his audience they could "hold no hopes of an easy passage—before us lie dangers. I hardly like to say as great as those thru which we have passed, but at any rate dangers which if we neglect anything will be fatal, mortal.

Warns of Terrible Experiences.

"Before us lie many months of having to endure bombardment of our cities and industrial areas without the power to make equal reply. Before us lie sufferings and tribulations. I am not one who pretends that smooth courses are open to us or that our experiences during this year are going to be deprived of terrible characteristics.

"But what the end will be I cannot have the slightest doubt," the prime minister then declared emphatically.

"The two dictators are already endeavoring to feed their people with every kind of optimistic tale, but here we have made up our minds. Here we look at facts with unillusioned eyes because we are conscious of the rightness of our cause and because we are determined that whatever the cost, whatever suffering, we will not fail mankind at this turning point in its fortunes."

Turning to Hitler's invasion chances, Churchill declared:

"That bad man has never had so

WHEELER TELLS BRITISH DEMAND WE ENTER WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] has received information from "several reliable sources" that President Roosevelt sent Harry L. Hopkins to London in response to a British demand for an immediate declaration of war on Germany by the United States, the senator declared tonight.

Senator Wheeler said he was informed that Hopkins went to London to ascertain from Winston Churchill, the British prime minister, whether the British would be satisfied with anything this country could do short of an immediate declaration of war.

Wheeler, leader of the senate noninterventionists, made his statement in commenting on the speech delivered in Glasgow, Scotland, tonight by Churchill. Wheeler interpreted the Churchill speech, delivered in the presence of Hopkins, as the British answer to the American inquiry.

Interprets Churchill Remark.

The Montana senator noted specifically Churchill's declaration that: "We don't require in 1941 large armies from overseas. What we do require are weapons, ships, and airplanes."

It was significant, Senator Wheeler suggested, that Churchill did not close the door to a request for manpower in small forces during 1941 or to a request for large armies in 1942.

"Of course if there's any question about American boys being plowed under if Mr. Roosevelt's war dictatorship bill is passed Mr. Churchill's statement ought to settle it," Senator Wheeler said.

"My understanding is that they not only want planes and ships at this time, but that they also want pilots to man the planes and sailors to man the ships. The next step will be an expeditionary force.

Wants People to Realize.

"Every American ought to realize that Mr. Roosevelt is leading us down the road to war. Not step by step, but leap by leap, and if this dictatorship bill passes it won't be long before we'll be asked for a declaration of war.

"It has come to me from several reliable sources that Mr. Churchill has been insisting upon a declaration of war by this country, not with the idea of sending an expeditionary force immediately, but with the idea of bolstering the morale of the small nations of Europe as well as the morale of his own people.

"Also, my information is that Mr. Hopkins was sent to England for the purpose of determining just what immediate steps could be taken short of a declaration of war. Regardless of how many denials there may be, the fog is gradually being lifted and the American people will soon be able to get a correct picture of what is behind the program of the administration. Let nobody be fooled. The final goal will be complete and total war."

Explanation Deemed Logical.

Senator Wheeler refused to identify the sources of his information, but it is understood that the explanation of the Hopkins mission came from official quarters. The senator believes it to be the only adequate explanation for the sudden and urgent flight to London by a man who is so close to the President that he lives in the White House.

Two days ago Senator Wheeler said it was well known "that many high officials in the administration have been talking about the possibility of a declaration of war in April."

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has stated, and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson testified before the house foreign affairs committee today, that England would confront a supreme crisis within 60 or 90 days. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, also testifying before the house committee, agreed with this opinion. A crisis in 90 days would come in mid-April.

Senator Wheeler interpreted Churchill's speech to mean that England will not demand an immediate declaration of war unless a supreme crisis does occur in 60 or 90 days.

Radio Talk Exposes Willkie Link to Propaganda.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17. — A propaganda organization reaching into every community in the country, the like of which the capital has never seen before, is noiselessly operating to put across President Roosevelt's war dictatorship bill.

The biggest cog in this Roosevelt propaganda machine is Wendell Willkie, Republican candidate for President last November and by that token the titular leader of the Republican party. The very fact that he was Mr. Roosevelt's opponent in the election makes his support of the war dictatorship bill one of the most potent influences the President has been able to invoke to obtain public support of the measure.

Visit to England.

With the way paved for him by the administration, Willkie is about to go to England to survey the war situation. While in London he is to participate in a joint broadcast with Harry Hopkins, the manager of Mr. Roosevelt's third term nomination at the Chicago convention, who is now the President's special emissary to Britain. From England Willkie will return to tour the United States, speaking in support of the Roosevelt war policy and the British cause.

There is a good deal of comment here on the superb stage management of the Roosevelt propaganda, particularly that in which Willkie is the central figure. It has all the appearance of the stage management that was successful on the eve of the Republican national convention in sidetracking anti-interventionist candidates for the nomination and bringing about the choice of Willkie, who was no less an interventionist than Mr. Roosevelt.

The President himself is suspected of being the brains of these manipulations, which are of the same kidney as his introduction into his cabinet of two Republicans who are arch-interventionists.

Willkie's Latest Effort.

Willkie's latest activity in behalf of the Roosevelt war policy was staged last night at the New York Town Hall forum under circumstances suggesting deft management. Willkie was not on the program. Those in charge announced that Willkie "just dropped in to listen" and was called on by Moderator George Denny for some "extemporaneous remarks," ostensibly because the program had been concluded earlier than was expected.

That the appearance of Willkie was prearranged, and his talk was not extemporaneous, was disclosed today by Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, who was on the program. Thomas said Denny came to him before the meeting and said that Willkie was planning to attend. Denny asked Thomas if he would mind if Willkie were called on to speak. Thomas said he would not mind, provided he were allowed time to reply to Willkie.

"I wouldn't complain over the loss of radio time itself," said Thomas. "What I do regret is that I had no chance to reply to a personal and individual attack on me that was uncalled for. It was all right for him to make a stump speech for the President, and I'd like to debate with Mr. Willkie any time.

"Wouldn't Sit Down.

"The fact that Willkie would not sit down was not Denny's fault. He wigwagged and signaled to Willkie to quit talking, but Willkie either did not see or chose not to heed this attempt at remote control.

"Whatever the preliminary arrangements may have been—and those I do not know—Denny did intend to stop Willkie about halfway in his speech and tried to do so."

In the course of his remarks Willkie said:

"If I believed that Britain would collapse and America could survive economically, then I would not take a single risk in involving this country in any international entanglement. But, if, on the other hand, I believed, as I do believe, that if Britain collapses, within a few years the free way of life will pass from America, then even I, who opposed the election of President Roosevelt with all the resources of my being, would grant to him such extraordinary powers as might be needed.

"We shall not keep America out of war by mere strong statements. We will keep America out of war if we supply to the fighting men of Britain the resources they need to defeat and crush the ruthless dictators.

"We shall not preserve this great standard of living in America by withdrawing within ourselves. It is only in expanding trade, in the opening of the world markets, in the peace that will come after the crushing of dictatorship, that America can go on to its greater development. I, who opposed Franklin Roosevelt with all my resources, I call on all Americans to give him such power in this crisis that we can save America so that we can debate with him again in another election."

Republicans Are Wondering.

In Republican circles there is no end of theorizing on the mystery of Willkie. It is recalled that in his postelection broadcast he set himself up as the leader of a constructive minority opposition. Now he is found to have gone over to the Democratic administration bag and baggage.

Not a few Republicans are wondering what happened to Willkie after his postelection broadcast while he was wintering with the millionaires at Hobe Sound, Fla. Not a few are speculating on what his reward is to be, some predicting that it will be appointment as czar of armament production on the strength of what he learns of British needs while abroad.

So far the President has refused to place in one man's hands the power to mobilize production, having divided it under the existing setup between William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman. It was learned today that Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board during the world war, advocated to important industrial leaders at a private meeting last Dec. 9 that mobilization for total defense should be entrusted to a single responsible head. Baruch cited this rule of 1917-18 setup:

"Committees for counsel, a single responsible head for action."

Agencies for Propaganda.

The distribution of the propaganda for the Roosevelt war dictatorship bill is managed by several agencies, the most important of which is the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. The press, the radio, and motion pictures also are being utilized.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], leader of the fight in the senate against the President's bill, today demanded that "The March of Time" delete his picture and statements from the film "Uncle Sam, the Nonbelligerent," which he saw in a preview yesterday. Wheeler pronounced the film rank prowar propaganda.

Louis de Rochemont, editor of The March of Time, replied with a telegram from New York in which he said Wheeler's picture and remarks would not be deleted as requested.

LIST 3 FAMILIES GIVING $276,725 TO AID WILLKIE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—Three wealthy families—the du Ponts of Delaware, the Rockefellers of New York, and the Pews of Pennsylvania—were credited today by a senate committee with contributing $276,725 to organizations supporting Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican presidential candidate in the last election.

Chairman Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] of the special senate committee appointed to investigate campaign expenditures made public a study of their individual contributions and said lack of time made it impossible for the special senate group to hold hearings on these matters.

The 1940 contributions of members of the three families were less than one-fourth of the aggregate they gave to the Republican cause in 1936. A senate committee for the 1936 election reported that the du Ponts contributed more than $600,000 to Republican groups, the Pews more than $300,000, and the Rockefellers more than $160,000.

The senator said that the du Pont family contributed $121,225 to groups that supported Willkie; the Pew family, which has extensive oil interests, $96,500, and the Rockefellers, $59,000.

INVESTORS' CHIEF TELLS ISSUES IN WAR POWERS BILL

Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Investors, said last night that certain pertinent questions have arisen in connection with President Roosevelt's war powers bill and should be answered before the public will approve passage of the bill by congress.

Among such questions, he said, are these: [1] Is it necessary to give the President such extensive powers in order to extend even unlimited aid to Great Britain? [2] Since congress is now in session ready to meet any emergency, why should the law making body abdicate its constitutional responsibilities? and [3] Why should congress unload such enormous, almost incomprehensible powers and responsibilities upon the shoulders of one man?

"Is it necessary for this nation," Dr. Magill asked, "to adopt policies that approach dangerously near to dictatorship in order to protect our free representative democracy from the horrors of dictatorships that imperil the world?"

ROOSEVELT AIDS OPPOSE BAN ON NAVAL CONVOYS

Stimson and Knox Urge Free Hand for F. D. R.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

John Bassett Moore.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox today opposed amending President Roosevelt's dictatorial war powers bill to forbid sending American ships, convoyed by naval vessels, into the European war zones.

Testifying before the house foreign affairs committee, Stimson and Knox took the position that the administration's hands should not be tied in any particular. Stimson said conditions might arise "which would make it essential—in the light of our own defense—for our country to send its warships into the war zones."

Disputes Sponsors' Claim.

The significance of the administration's position is its implied assumption that the war powers bill would give President Roosevelt authority to use the navy to convoy merchant ships transporting war munitions to Great Britain. The congressional sponsors of the legislation, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky and House Majority Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, have denied that the legislation would give Mr. Roosevelt any such power.

The noninterventionists, however, have contended that the unlimited scope of the bill would give the President such power and that the first sinking of an American vessel on convoy duty by a German submarine or dive bomber would plunge the United States into war.

Moore's Letter Submitted.

At today's hearing, Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], ranking minority member of the foreign affairs committee, released a letter by John Bassett Moore, noted authority on international law, who said the war powers bill would transfer the war making power to the President and establish a totalitarian dictatorship in this country.

Dr. Moore, whose writings have been quoted with approbation by Mr. Roosevelt, had been asked to testify on "the President's dictator bill," but replied that illness prevented him from doing so.

"There can be no doubt," he wrote to Fish, "that under the guise of certain phraseology, the pending bill assumes to transfer the war making power from the congress, in which the constitution lodges it, to the executive. This is evident upon its face.

Warns Against Trend.

"I have consistently opposed this tendency during the last eight years, but my voice has not always been heeded, even by those who wished to maintain our neutrality. It is evident that the tide of totalitarianism in government which has swept over many other lands has not only reached our shores, but has gone far to destroy constitutional barriers which, once broken down, are not likely to be restored."

Stimson advocated the use of American merchant ships, convoyed by war vessels, to transport war munitions to Great Britain as long ago as June 18, 1940, two days before his appointment as secretary of war. Altho Secretary Knox declared today that he did not favor the use of convoys at the present time, he said he would "very much oppose" any amendment denying the President such power.

Against Tying of Hands.

"I'm opposed to tying our hands in any particular until we know the conditions under which we've got to act," he said.

Knox also said he would oppose the release of any American naval vessels to Great Britain. However, he did not say he favored an amendment forbidding President Roosevelt to sell, give away, or otherwise dispose of any part of the fleet.

"Would you object to such a proposition?" asked Representative Fish.

"No, but the last thing in the world that's humanly conceivable is that the President would give away any part of the navy," Knox replied.

Fish reminded Knox that Mr. Roosevelt exchanged 50 navy destroyers for air and naval base leases in British western hemisphere possessions last summer and that "an attempt to transfer the navy's 'mosquito fleet' was blocked by congress."

Knox defended the destroyer deal on the ground that it gave the United States vitally needed bases in the western hemisphere.

"If any of our present naval vessels were given away, would it impair the efficiency of the fleet?" Fish asked.

"It certainly would," Knox responded.

"The present navy? I certainly would," Knox declared.

With this background, Fish sought to ascertain from Knox how the United States, short of going to war, could give Great Britain any more assistance under the bill than is being given now. He referred to apprehensions expressed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary Stimson, and Secretary Knox, that Great Britain will confront a supreme crisis within 60 to 90 days.

Calls Morale Important.

"How would this bill, so far as production is concerned, affect that crisis in the next 60 or 90 days?" Fish asked.

"The question of morale is immensely important," Knox said.

"It wouldn't afford a single ounce of material in the next 60 or 90 days that would not be furnished anyway, would it?" Fish inquired.

Knox admitted that we are already producing war munitions for Great Britain as rapidly as they can be produced but expressed the hope that the rate would be accelerated.

Knox exploded a major argument made by the administration in support of a provision of the bill which authorizes Mr. Roosevelt to open American ports for the repairing or outfitting of British warships. When the destroyer deal was consummated, Winston Churchill, the British prime minister, solemnly promised that the British fleet would never surrender, but would withdraw to the western hemisphere if the waters of the British Isles should become untenable.

Knox Statement Differs.

Secretary Stimson justified the proposed authority to open American navy yards to belligerent warships on the ground that it would meet such a contingency as the withdrawal of the British fleet to North America.

But in his prepared statement, Secretary Knox declared:

"The British navy can survive only if the British Isles survive. Should the British Isles fall, we can only believe that the British navy, which never runs from danger, will fall at the same time. I think we can safely assume that the British navy will share the fate of the courageous nation that supports it."

Secretary Stimson, who began his testimony yesterday and concluded it today, conceded in response to questioning that President Roosevelt would have authority under the bill to lend, lease, or otherwise dispose of any part or all of the defense equipment heretofore or hereafter ordered for the army and the navy under the 28 billion dollar three year program.

"If he thought that that would defend the United States he might do so," Stimson said.

Representative Bartel J. Jonkman [R., Mich.] asked Stimson whether he thought passage of the bill would be necessary to prevent the defeat of Great Britain.

"In my opinion, yes," Stimson said.

Argues War Involvement.

Jonkman then sought to establish that the power proposed to be vested in the President would give him final authority with respect to the conduct of the war against Germany and that the undertaking to prevent the defeat of Great Britain necessarily would involve the United States in the war.

"If the President has the power of determining the strategy of distributing these materials—how much shall be kept for the United States and how much shall be sent to England—doesn't he have the final authority and control of the conduct of the war, and if that is so, haven't the American people inherited the war?" asked Jonkman. "Won't it lead inevitably into the war?"

"I do not think so," Stimson replied. "The primary objective of the bill is not to prevent the defeat of Great Britain but to prevent such a disastrous defeat as to deprive us of the protection of the British fleet in the Atlantic."

Man Power Question Raised.

Stimson agreed in response to a question by Representative John M. Vorys [R., O.] that the axis powers have overwhelming superiority in man power over Great Britain.

"Is there any way a military defeat can be administered to the leader of the axis powers [Hitler] without more man power than Great Britain can provide?" Vorys asked.

"I am willing to admit that the military power of Germany is much greater than the military power of Great Britain, but I'm not willing to admit that a military defeat is the only way of defeating Germany," Stimson said. When asked whether he foresaw the possibility of a collapse in Germany, or any other means of defeating her excepting man power, Stimson said he could not "talk freely in an atmosphere like this."

But Stimson refused to leave the impression that American man power might be required to defeat Hitler.

"I was speaking only of the British Isles," he said. "When you speak of the British empire you've got a much bigger thing. The British empire raised 9,000,000 men in the last war. I don't wish to express an opinion on the military power of Great Britain today. It isn't hopeless—far from it, even in infantry power. Those other countries have just got the jump on her."

Catholic Paper Warns Against Dictatorship in Defense Plans

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The New World, official Catholic archdiocesan weekly journal of Chicago, warned in a front page editorial yesterday against public consent to measures which may finally shackle a nation with the very evil it strives to avert, and asked congress to weigh every proposal for expenditures for national defense.

The editorial referred to crises "such as we face today," and declared that "it is not enough to formulate sane public policies. A nation must also choose sane measures in executing these policies."

Against Dictator Economy.

"Sane conclusions in this matter are important: we do not want the economy which prevails in dictator countries," the editorial said. "False prosperity is less desirable than honest economic hardships. Accordingly, congress should weigh carefully every proposal for expenditures for national defense and not burden the nation with a huge, unnecessary debt which certainly will bring on political economic absolutism from which there always follows political absolutism.

"It is unfortunate that high officials in our government speak lightly of important fiscal matters. To treat debts lightly is unmoral. A government is the trustee of the resources of a people. The squandering of these resources is sinful. Right reason demands that public debts be kept to the minimum that necessity imposes.

Cites Constitutional Balance.

"A right balance in the exercise of sovereign authority in our nation is fixed by our constitution. No emergency is a warrant for upsetting that balance. We look to our public executives and legislators these days to be in every sense the safe custodians of our liberties. And we should pray incessantly that God will give them the light and strength to use safe, tried measures in setting up for us a fully adequate national defense.

"We are not militaristic, we want no position of domination, we do not even feel obligated to assist other nations in this war except in the terms of our own national defense. We want our dearly bought liberties to persist, and we are ready to use sane, sound measures to preserve them."

ILLINOIS CONGRESSMAN IS DELUGED WITH MAIL DENOUNCING WAR BILL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 [Special].—Representative George A. Paddock [R., Ill.] said today he is receiving about 100 letters a day from residents of the 10th Illinois district strongly opposing the war dictatorship bill.

"I shall vote against H. R. 1776," said Paddock, "because it gives the President a blank check on foreign policy. The people of the 10th district elected me their congressman to speak for them on foreign policy, and they evidently do not wish me to delegate that power to the President.

"Mr. Roosevelt already has unprecedented powers, with enormous appropriations to carry them out. Whenever national defense requires additional action by congress, the people's representatives can be relied on to protect the nation's interests."

ROBS FOUR FILLING STATIONS.

PREDICT SECRET TOKIO PARLEY ON U. S. RELATIONS

Press Continues to Rage Against Hull.

TOKIO, Jan. 18, Saturday (AP).—The gravity of Japanese-American relations was expected to be the key topic of a secret session of the diet [parliament] Tuesday as today's press still raged against American Secretary of State Cordell Hull's testimony before the house foreign affairs committee.

The newspaper Yomiuri said the Japanese government had decided "definitely to ignore" the declaration in which Hull asserted that danger to the United States would be "multiplied many fold" if the axis military allies, Japan, Germany, and Italy, gain control of the seas.

Brand Statement a "Lie."

Other papers called the statement a "barefaced lie," and "outrageous utterance," and there were accusations that the United States sought to control the East Indies, Australia, New Zealand, and Singapore.

There were indications that high officials had debated most of yesterday whether to make an immediate reply to Hull.

Premier, High Aids Confer.

Other probable subjects to be taken up at next week's secret sessions of the diet are the lapsed fisheries pact with Russia, the status of the "China affair," and progress of trade negotiations with French Indo-China.

High military and cabinet officials met with Premier Prince Fuminaro Konoe yesterday for the third time this week. Foreign observers expressed the belief that the almost unprecedented series of conferences indicated closer collaboration between the cabinet and army and navy chieftains.

METHODIST JOURNAL ASKS ROOSEVELT TO KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR

The current issue of the Christian Advocate, official journal of the Methodist church, carries an open letter to President Roosevelt in the name of "millions of people who call themselves Methodists," and pleading with him "to save their sons from the desolation of war."

"We are desperately concerned over what appears to some of us to be a steady and relentless drift toward war," the letter states. "On every hand we hear the ominous prophecy, 'We will be in by spring,' and the terror of the very words benumbs our souls. Our sons, dearer to us than life itself, are already on their way to the training camps by the scores of thousands.

"Some of us are gravely disturbed over steps that have already been taken. Destroyers have been sold to Great Britain. . . . Vast loans are being discussed and some of us remember the ugly hatreds that have grown up because of other war debts. We do not prented to know, as you must know them, the inside facts concerning this devastating conflict. Nor do we presume to advise you out of our ignorance. But we are putting our trust in this tragic hour, imploring you to turn back the tide. Try again, Mr. President, to bring about a just and honorable peace!"

300,000 SIGNERS PROTEST F. D. R.'S WAR POWERS BILL

America First Petitions Go to Congressmen.

The Chicago chapters of the America First committee and the Citizens' Keep America Out of War committee reported last night that they have obtained a total of more than 300,000 signatures protesting the Roosevelt administration's war policy and the President's war powers bill.

Already a flood of petitions have been sent by the America First group to Illinois congressmen in Washington, D. C., as a reflection of the sentiment of their constituencies.

150,000 on America First List.

Mrs. Janet Ayer Fairbank, vice chairman of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee, said that 150,000 names already were on the organization's petitions, and that 50,000 more are expected. The petitions are being assembled by congressional districts and are to be sent to each district's representative in congress.

To arrange the signatures and petitions by congressional districts, it has been necessary for the Chicago chapter to increase its staff almost threefold. Young women employed in loop offices quickly solved the problem by volunteering for evening work.

Move to Larger Offices.

At the same time the committee moved yesterday to larger offices at 122 South Michigan avenue because of the large number of signatures and responses rolling in. This was done without any letup in activity. Telephone numbers at the new quarters are the same—Wabash 5473, 5474, 5475, 5476, and 5477.

National headquarters of the America First committee also reported enlargement of its movement with the organization of 15 new chapters yesterday. This represents the largest single day's gain since recruiting began. The committee now has 45 chapters. The new ones, announced by Robert Bliss, director of organization, are in the following cities:

Denver, Colo.; Akron, O.; a junior chapter in Akron; Dayton, O.; El Dorado, Ark.; Coal Center, Pa.; Burlington, Ia.; Sioux Falls, S. D.; Highland, Wis.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Waupun, Wis.; Seattle, Wash.; Providence, R. I.; Davenport, Ia., and Aurora, Ill.

Senator Willis Lauds Drive.

The committee announced receipt by Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman of the America First committee, of a message from Senator Raymond E. Willis [R., Ind.] praising the committee's drive, and warning against the dangers from within the country.

At a meeting of 400 members of the Citizens' Keep America Out of War committee in the La Salle hotel last night, it was announced that more than 150,000 persons have signed the committee's anti-war petitions protesting against the President's bill. Dozens of these petitions are to be airmailed to Illinois congressmen today. The committee plans to obtain millions of signatures.

The members last night approved a resolution warning that "the lend-lease bill gives the President authority to make war as he sees fit and when he so desires."

ARMY REQUIRES 1,955 DOCTORS IN RESERVE CORPS

Vacancies for 212 men in the medical administrative reserve corps and for 1,955 physicians in the medical reserve corps of the army, were announced yesterday by Brig. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commander of the 6th corps area.

Gen. Bonesteel said the openings in the administrative reserve are for men between the ages of 21 and 35 who have had at least three years' experience in such vocations as the administration of medical department units, hospital management, pharmacy work, or maintenance of hospital records and medical supply accounts. Two years of college, or its equivalent, are required.

Applicants for the medical corps must be graduates of recognized medical schools, and within the same age limits.

REVEALS 9 SHIPS WITH IRISH FLAG HAVE BEEN SUNK

DUBLIN, Ireland, Jan. 17 (AP).—Nine ships of Irish registry and flying the Irish flag have been sunk off Ireland during the war, Minister of Supplies Sean Lemass asserted today in a parliamentary debate on Ireland's supply needs.

The disclosure came after John MacEntee, minister for industry and commerce, said Ireland would be compelled to rely on her own resources for shipping. Britain, he said, was helpful in supplying shipping in the early stage of the war but now is in a changed situation. Most incoming cargoes are brought on neutral ships chartered by Irish agencies, MacEntee said.

The government information bureau announced the British agriculture department had barred importation into Britain of cattle, pigs, sheep, and goats from Ireland, Northern Ireland, and the Isle of Man because of an outbreak of the hoof and mouth disease in County Derry.

TEST OF CANADA'S ECONOMIC PLAN BY POLL LIKELY

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 17 (AP).—Political speculation centered today on the possibility of elections in Ontario and British Columbia to test the stands of their premiers against a broad economic reorganization plan for the dominion and its provinces. Similar action in Alberta was deemed unlikely.

The present Ontario legislature still has nearly two years of life, while in British Columbia there is no constitutional requirement for an election within a year and a half.

A provincial-dominion conference in Ottawa, called to consider Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's recommendations on the economic reorganization program—known as the Sirois report—broke up this week when the premiers of Ontario, British Columbia, and Alberta refused to serve on committees.

DEATH SENTENCE FOR VIOLATORS OF GERMAN WELFARE

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—The severity with which German courts are meting out sentences for crimes against the community was exemplified in a case reported by the press here today. Paul Mathes, 40 years old, was sentenced to death for selling coal stolen from freight yards.

Mathes "deserved the death sentence" the prosecutor declared, and a special court agreed because the coal was stolen at the beginning of the winter, thus "committing a crime against the community." Several colleagues who were judge less involved than Mathes were sentenced to prison.

Last week a man in Dresden was sentenced to death for forging food cards, thus similarly injuring the "welfare of the community."

BRITISH BOMBERS LOOSE DAYLIGHT AND NIGHT RAIDS

Attack French Coast and German Sea Base.

LONDON, Jan. 18, Saturday (AP).—British airmen gave their attention to German bases in occupied France during the daylight hours yesterday following their 41st night raid on the German naval base of Wilhelmshaven in weather described as more suitable to a polar expedition than bombers.

R. A. F. squadrons nosed into a channel mist and headed for France. Thereafter, explosions could be heard along the Kentish coast, but whether they were from British guns hammering objectives across the channel or bombs could not be determined.

At home, firemen in Bristol stamped out embers left by Thursday night's shower of incendiaries from German raiders. One hundred fires, some of which the British acknowledged were serious, were started in that western coastal city, but authorities reported at least 60 were extinguished within 10 minutes.

Call It "Ghastly" Weather.

Pilots returning from the Wilhelmshaven foray, termed "highly successful" tho lighter than the previous night's assault, declared they flew thru "ghastly" storms.

The British acknowledged the loss of five planes during the continental operations. They extended also to the German port of Emden, Ostend in Belgium, and Calais and Boulogne in occupied France.

German raiders swooped in on London shortly after midnight for an assault that lasted about three hours. The attack came after earlier raiders concentrated on South Wales and a town in Devon where a "small number" of persons were killed by bombs.

This foray was met by the heaviest antiaircraft fire ever reported from the district.

German Buildings Damaged.

BERLIN, Jan. 17 (AP).—A few British planes scattered bombs over northwestern Germany early last evening, slightly damaging a number of buildings, the official German news agency, DNB, reported today. The news agency said incendiary bombs had started a fire in a school in an unidentified city, but declared there were no civilian casualties. Authorized sources reported the sinking of the 10,000 ton freighter Brisbane by a German surface craft, but gave no details. [Lloyd's register of shipping lists no Brisbane, but does list the 12,791 ton Brisbane Star, a British vessel.]

NAZIS USING NEW BOMBER TO HUNT SHIPS FAR AT SEA

BERLIN, Jan. 17 (AP).—Informed Germans tonight said the reich was using a new "all-weather bomber" for sinking British ships far at sea. The plane has four motors and a wide cruising range, plus a heavy bomb load and "numerous machine gun and cannon," the sources said. It carries a crew of six.

"It recently sank numerous British ships far out in the Atlantic," they said. The new plane is called the Focke-Wulf Courier, developed from the FW-200 Condor, a commercial plane which made flights to New York and Tokio. The de-icing system on the new craft, informed persons said, enables the carrying out of attacks under all weather conditions.

JAPAN TO TRY 9 IN PLOT TO SLAY AID TO EMPEROR

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 17 (AP).—Nine "reactionaries" will be tried on charges of attempting to assassinate "a certain important statesman close to the throne" last July, it was disclosed today with the lifting of an official press ban.

The would-be assassins, according to Domei, Japanese news agency, planned to ambush the official and dynamite his automobile as he was en route to his office. The plot was said to have failed when they were unable to locate his car. A second attempt on the life of the statesman, who was not identified, was foiled by police, Domei said.

The agency quoted police as saying the prisoners believed Japan would be at a disadvantage were a British-Japanese conference on the Tientsin river blockade held at Tokio, and sought to force transfer of the parley to Tientsin by assassinating one of the emperor's advisers.

PETAIN RECEIVES HERRIOT, FORMER FRENCH PREMIER

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 17 (AP).—Edouard Herriot, former premier, former president of the chamber of deputies and "elder statesman" of republican France, was received today by Chief of State Petain, according to authoritative reports from Vichy. It was believed the meeting was a prelude to formation of a consultative assembly in which Herriot may be given a seat.

Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin received Paul Faure, pre-war head of the minority wing of Leon Blum's Socialist party, along with two other Socialist former deputies, Rene Brunet and Jean Barthelemy.

Admiral Jean Darlan, French naval minister, was reported to have left Vichy and it was believed he had gone to the occupied zone to consult German authorities.

AUSTRALIAN AID PLEDGED IF U. S. GETS INTO WAR

Envoy Says His Country Will Help in Pacific.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 17 (AP).—An implied pledge of Australian coöperation in event of American involvement in war in the Pacific came tonight from Richard G. Casey, Australian minister to the United States.

"No one can tell what turn this war will take as time goes on," Casey said in an address before the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Australia Ready, He Says.

"But I can assure you," he continued, "that Australia is ready and able to play its part in any extended field of operations if by evil chance this should come about.

"And I venture to believe that it is not a matter of indifference to you that there exists, diametrically across the Pacific from you, a large area peopled by a robust and friendly race with substantial forces of trained men and the means and ability to provide most of their own munitions and weapons. And, more important perhaps than material weapons, is the spirit with which we enter a struggle against the forces of evil."

Defense Parley Participant.

Casey, who has participated in extended Anglo-American diplomatic conversations in Washington on defense problems in the Pacific, especially since Japan joined Germany and Italy in the tri-power alliance, compared the United States and British empire in an earlier speech today with "two blades of a pair of scissors—they must work together to do the job."

In a luncheon address before the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Casey asserted the continued existence of the British empire and the United States is so essential to each other as to constitute "a compelling case for coöperation, each in his own sphere."

Says Australia's Relations with Japan Still 'Cordial'

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 17 (AP).—Relations between Australia and Japan, Minister of External Affairs Sir Frederick Stewart declared today, remain "cordial despite unavoidable trade and financial restrictions caused by the war."

HOOSIER 2 PER CENT CLUB HAS DISSOLVED, SCHRICKER ASSERTS

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 17 [Special]. —Gov. Henry F. Schricker today reaffirmed his recent verbal dissolution of the Hoosier Democratic [Two Per Cent] club and said no state employé will be solicited by the Democrats for political contributions. Any voluntary contributions will be made to the Democratic state committee, receipted and accounted for, he said.

"Recently two or three queries have been made to me about contributions and I referred them to the state committee office," the governor said. "In fact I made a contribution to the committee myself yesterday and got a receipt for it. We must keep the headquarters open and no one can expect us to pay the bills out of thin air. There's nothing wrong about that system."

196 MINERS FACE BRITISH COURT ON LIGHTNING STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The first mass action to halt labor stoppages which have retarded production was taken in a Doncaster court today when 196 miners were summoned for participation in lightning strikes. The summonses were taken out by colleries which claimed damages from the men for a breach of contract under the government emergency regulations outlawing strikes.

The court fined 17 miners 3 pounds each [about $12]. Eighteen others were ordered to pay the court costs. In 54 cases, it is stated, damages were agreed upon out of court. Hearings on the remaining summonses were adjourned on prospects of similar settlements.

U. S. Ambassador Phillips Calls on Ciano in Rome

ROME, Jan. 17 (AP).—United States Ambassador William Phillips called on Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano today in what was described as a courtesy visit customarily paid by ambassadors returning from leave in their home countries.

BRITAIN WANTS BLOCKADE POST IN WEST INDIES

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP).—An authoritative source said today that Britain was seeking the United States' views on the establishment of a British contraband control base in the western hemisphere, possibly in the West Indies. There is nothing to stop the British from establishing such a control base in the West Indies, this source added, but he said that because of "close relations" between Britain and the United States the British were seeking Washington's views.

If a control station were set up in the West Indies, the mostly likely port would be Trinidad, he said. The base would be designed to halt trade between the Americas and Germany in goods the British class as contraband, it was said.

There now is reported to be a leakage thru the British blockade of cotton, grain, and oil plant machinery which is shipped thru the Panama Canal to the Pacific, thence to the Russian port of Vladivostok and from there to Germany via the Trans-Siberian railroad. The British estimate that the Trans-Siberian can carry 500,000 tons of war goods a month for Germany.

New Admiral Takes Over U. S. Scouting Submarines

U. S. AND MEXICO WILL NEGOTIATE ON NAVAL BASES

Conferences Will Start This Month.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—The United States and Mexico will open negotiations this month looking toward mutual development of naval bases, it was learned today.

Successful conclusion of the negotiations may make possible the start of construction work in February of two strategically situated bases on Mexico's west coast and bridge the American defense gap on the west coast between continental United States and the Panama canal.

One base would be constructed at Isle Margarita in Magdalena bay, near the tip of Lower California and the other in the vicinity of Acapulco, about 250 miles south of Mexico City. Possible sites for bases on the Gulf of Mexico may be discussed, but these are not so vital to hemisphere defense because of the bases this country already has in the Caribbean, as defense centers on the 1,000 miles of Mexico's Pacific coast line.

Will Be Developed Jointly.

The two bases would be developed by American and Mexican naval engineers. They would have air as well as naval bases and be available for use of all Pan-American men of war and military planes.

Later, it is expected, that additional west coast bases would be built at Guaymas on the Gulf of California and Salina Cruz on the Tehuantepec isthmus. Both are busy Mexican ports.

During the negotiations, which are expected to embrace economic problems as well as the military situation, Mexico may ask for a loan of 50 million dollars to aid that country in building up her defenses. Mexico is seeking to add to her naval strength, which is negligible, four reconditioned American world war destroyers at once and to obtain half a dozen more later.

May Include Oil Question.

Preliminary conversations have already been under way on the agreement which would be another expression of the "good neighbor" policy. It is hoped that the matter of expropriation of American owned oil and farm land may be settled.

Mexico expropriated American, British, and Dutch oil properties in March, 1938, and has resisted all settlement overtures to date, including the suggestion of Secretary of State Hull that the matter be arbitrated. The problem of farm land expropriations dates back to the early 1920s.

The negotiations here will be conducted between Francisco Castillo Najera, the Mexican ambassador, and Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles, an expert on Latin American affairs. The two may meet Wednesday.

Among problems related to defense, which are expected to arise, are rapid completion of the Pan-American highway thru Central America, improvement of Mexican railways, and a roadway across the Tehuantepec isthmus, which would afford another highway link between the Atlantic and Pacific.

Get Plane Base on St. Lucia Isle.

An agreement with England for the establishment of an American land plane base in the Island of St. Lucia in the West Indies, 20 miles from the French owned Island of Martinique, was announced by Secretary of State Cordell Hull today.

The base, to be located at Vieux Fort, will be in addition to a site at Gros Islet bay on the island, previously announced, for a seaplane base.

Both bases will give the United States domination of Martinique. Altho no official explanation was vouchsafed, it is understood one of the considerations entering into the selection of a land plane base was the possibility that, in the event of a German-Italian victory, German plans in South America might make desirable land plane operations from a strategic point at St. Lucia.

Harbor Is Far Superior.

Request for the land plane base was said to have been made after the application for the seaplane base, and in the light of a reveiw of possibilities by strategists. Both sites were recommended by American experts. The importance of the seaplane base was pointed out recently by President Roosevelt. He said the harbor there was far superior to the one at Martinique, and that because of this St. Lucia dominated the French island.

Today's announcement came on the heels of one last Saturday of a final agreement concerning United States naval, army, and air bases in Trinidad. While resistance had been encountered from Trinidad officials to sites recommended by the American experts, there was understood to have been no objection offered in St. Lucia.

School in Greece with Link to U. S. Damaged in War

ATHENS, Jan. 17.—The Anagnos Agricultural school at Konitza, in Epirus, belonging to the Michael Anagnos School corporation, an institution incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts under the presidency of a prominent Boston banker, Robert H. Gardiner, was heavily damaged by Italians during the occupation of Konitza early in the war, it was reported today. The pillaging, it was said, was done despite protests of the corporation's representative, who allegedly told an Italian commander that the school was an American institution. The American flag was said to have been prominently painted on all school buildings.

NAZIS HAIL PLANE INDUSTRY; CITE ITS UNIFORMITY

Each Plant Can Build Other Types.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—A military spokesman at the propaganda ministry today explained why, according to German belief, the organization of the German aircraft industry is superior to that of the United States and Great Britain. His reasons follow:

1. State control and complete standardization of all aircraft factories in Germany; 2, the existence of their own repair shops in airplane plants in Germany; 3, the exploitation by Germany of airplane factories in occupied territories, and 4, wide scale training of young engineers and technicians, and the large funds Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering allotted for aeronautical research.

Praises "Standardization."

The spokesman declared that the standardization of the German airplane industry made it possible to place a contract for any type of plane at every one of the numerous German airplane plants.

The Junkers' works, he said, can turn out a Messerschmitt fighter or pursuit ship, and the Messerschmitt works can build Junkers dive bombers. The spokesman declared that this system enables Germany to employ mass production methods unrivaled in any other country.

Repair Shops in Factories.

The spokesman said that every German airplane plant has its own repair shop, which he claimed was not the case in America and Britain. In addition, German air force units have their own repair shops. Only if the damage to an airplane exceeds 25 per cent is it sent back to the factory. Lesser damage is repaired by the air force unit itself.

At the beginning of the war three times as many men were employed in the German aircraft industry as in English plane factories, the spokesman asserted.

NEW JAP ENVOY TO BRING EXTRA "EYES" TO U. S.

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 18, Saturday (AP).—Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, who lost an eye in a bombing in Shanghai in 1932, stocked up on spare glass eyes today prior to his departure Thursday for his new post as ambassador to Washington.

"I have a hunch my stay in the United States will be a long one, so I thought I'd take four or five extra eyes to 'see' me thru the years," the newspaper Asahi quoted him. "Suppose I got an eye broken. It wouldn't do to have a blue one put in by mistake!"

In more serious vein, he said he advocated "no stiff diplomacy but no favor courting—just a straightforward, sincere effort to do good."

No Close Shave in Shanghai—6,000 Barbers on Strike

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17 (AP).—Getting a shave in Shanghai is no easy matter. Six thousand barbers remained out on strike in the city today. An estimated 4,000 workers in various other industries, including garbage collectors in the French concession, were affected by other walkouts.

12 Killed, 4 Hurt in Crash of Hungarian Airline Plane

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 17 (AP).—Nine passengers and three members of the crew were killed today when an airplane on the regular Budapest-Marosvasarhely flight crashed in landing near Nagyvarad airdrome. Four other persons were injured.

TELLS OF NAZIS SEIZING OIL SHIP IN ASIATIC SEAS

San Pedro, Cal., Jan. 17 (AP).—A skipper's story of the seizure in Asiatic waters of his benzine-laden tanker by a German auxiliary cruiser was told today by Capt. Leif Krogh. Arriving with five members of his crew, the former skipper of the Norwegian tanker Ole Jacobs said he was en route from Singapore to Colombo the night of Nov. 10 when:

"The Nazi signaled us to heave to. He said he was a British warship and wanted to inspect us. Not until Nazi officers and a prize crew came alongside did we know we were in the hands of Germans.

"I quickly saw it would be useless to give battle because the raider could have blasted us out of the water. Leaving myself and two of my officers aboard the Ole Jacobs, the Nazis took the rest of my crew to the raider and escorted the Ole Jacobs to Kobe, Japan."

The captured Norwegians were put ashore at Kobe, Capt. Krogh said, and the German prize crew sailed the tanker to sea, evidently to act as a fuel ship for other Nazi raiders.

TELL SABOTAGE ON AXIS' OIL BY JUGO-SLAV RING

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 17.—Sabotage of Rumanian oil shipments to Germany and Italy on Jugo-Slav state railways has been going on nearly 90 days, and three Jugo-Slav railway employés are under arrest as a result of it, according to information from Slovene sources today.

According to reliable information the three prisoners were acting for a sabotage ring which provided an ingenious chemical compound with a rubber base which was dropped into railroad tank cars. This compound, it is understood, when burned in combustion engines clogs the engine valves and in most cases renders them useless.

Sabotaged oil shipments are reported to have ruined many German and Italian motors before investigators discovered the source of the trouble. Thereafter it was necessary to refine all shipments again at considerable delay and expense in Germany and Italy.

CHURCHILL HAILS U. S. WAR AID AS HOPKINS LISTENS

Says Big Overseas Armies Not Needed in '41.

great a need as he has now to strike Britain from his path. He is master of a great part of Europe. His armies can move almost wherever they will upon the continent. He holds down eight or ten countries by force, by secret police, and by still more odious local Quislings.

"But every day this occupation of Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France—and presently perhaps Italy—lasts, is built up a volume of hatred for the Nazi creed and for the German name which generations and perhaps centuries hardly will efface.

Has Faith in Nation.

"It is for Herr Hitler a matter of supreme consequence to break down the resistance of Great Britain and thus rivet effectively the shackles he has prepared for the people of Europe. But it is one thing to have a need and another to be able to satisfy that need.

"We are given as our priceless spirit the faith to supply what human judgment cannot outline or know, and that faith will carry us forward thru this struggle at the head of a liberated Europe.

"It will carry us forward when these countries which I have mentioned, who are now subjugated and trampled down, will bless the British name, and we shall be able to hand on to those in this island who come after us, to our children and grandchildren, a record of duty done which will not have been surpassed in all the rugged annals of our island home."

The prime minister asserted that British triumphs in the middle east had succeeded beyond British dreams and gave "opportunity to address ourselves to the problems of the perils of 1941 with far greater advantages than were at our disposal six or eight months ago."

NAZIS CLAIM HITS ON BATTLESHIP IN MEDITERRANEAN

British Make New Raid on Sicilian Air Base.

BERLIN, Jan. 17 (AP).—The official German news agency, D. N. B., said today that the British battleship Malaya had reached Gibraltar showing extensive damage from the attack on a British flotilla made Jan. 10 by German and Italian planes.

The agency asserted that the British had tried to conceal the identity of the 31,100 ton vessel and to hide traces of damage.

[Previously, the British acknowledged hits on the 23,000 ton aircraft carrier Illustrious, upon the cruiser Southampton—later lost—and upon a destroyer in the Jan. 10 engagement.]

British Attack Catania Again.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 17 (AP).—A new and heavy British aerial attack which left fires and explosions erupting in the axis airdrome at Catania, Sicily—the nest from which German dive bombers have been harrying the British Mediterranean fleet—was reported today by the royal air force.

This assault, one more in a continuing series in which the British claim that some 40 aircraft already had been destroyed at Catania, was declared to have left "several" more axis planes ablaze on the ground. Others were reported to have exploded.

The base itself was said to have been heavily damaged, a hangar left covered by a sheet of flame visible 50 miles away, and the administration buildings set afire. The raid was carried out thru late Wednesday night and yesterday morning. The British said they had no losses.

Heavy Attack on Malta.

It is from Catania that the Germans have been springing out against British shipping and the British navy, one of their heaviest thrusts having been a long and violent dive bombing attack yesterday on the British naval base of Malta.

Against this assault the British claimed a successful defense during which 10 of the attacking planes were shot down. A communique by the R. A. F. called it "a very heavy raid" and declared that while there was no damage to "R. A. F. property," civilian property "suffered considerably."

[This communique made no mention of German and Italian claims that in the raid the aircraft carrier Illustrious had been hit again at Malta; that a British merchant ship was hit squarely, and that a British arsenal was bombed. The Italians also asserted that a British cruiser was "seriously damaged."]

Turkish President Receives British Envoy, Army Aids

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 17 (AP).—President Ismet Inonu and Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu today received British Ambassador Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen and officers of the British Middle East command who are in Ankara for conversations with the Turkish high command. The British officers, among whom are Admiral Sir Howard Kelly, Lieut-Gen. Sir Marshall-Cornwall, and Air Vice Marshal T. W. Elmhurst, have been here two days reviewing the military situation with Turkish officers.

Chilean Parties Sign Pact for Democracy; Omit Reds

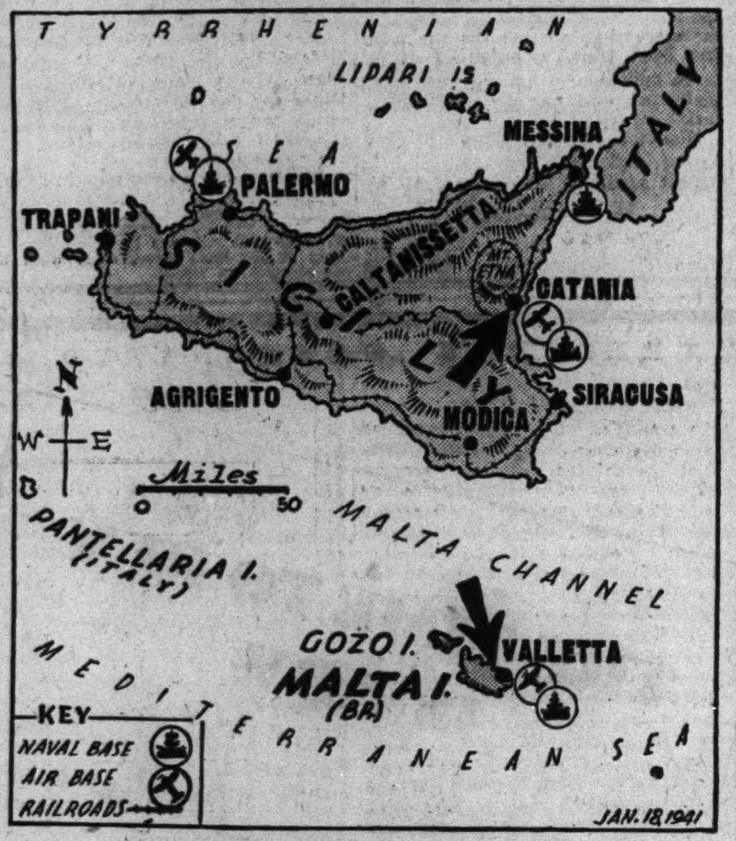
SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 17.—The signing of a pact today by the Radicals, Democrats, and Radical Socialists to "uphold democratic and republican ideals and work together in order to maintain popular unity" ended weeks of hectic activities in which Chile's Popular Front was severely shaken. As a result of the pact, which does not include the communists, the leftist combination appears more inclined toward the center, with the Radicals gaining in importance.

Guy Murchie Jr. Calls Report of Marriage Error

Guy Murchie, Jr., of Chicago, a TRIBUNE correspondent assigned to the London bureau, denied yesterday in a cablegram from Dublin, Ireland, that he was married last month. A published report that Murchie had married Miss Josephine Egan, a nurse, on Dec. 16 "originated thru a misunderstood message sent to London" from Manchester, England, according to his cablegram.

British and Axis Exchange Raids

(Story in adjoining column.)



Upper arrow indicates axis air base of Catania, Sicily, where British reported their bombers had caused heavy damage to planes and hangars. It was from Catania that German flyers took off to attack British base at Malta, also marked by arrow.

GREEKS CAPTURE 1,000 FROM CRACK ITALIAN DIVISION

Storm Fortifications Beyond Klisura.

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 18, Saturday (AP).—The Greek high command early today announced that 1,000 soldiers of Italy's "Wolves of Tuscany" division had been captured in Albania, and a government spokesman said two Italian "warships" carrying other reënforcements from Italy had been torpedoed in the Adriatic sea.

Italy's famous "Lupi di Toscana" troops belonged to the 77th regiment of the newly arrived 7th division and had been hurriedly sent to Albania to hold up the Greek advance, the Greeks said.

Many officers were included in the 1,000 prisoners who, the Greeks said, were captured when Greek troops overwhelmed a fortified Italian position northwest of Klisura.

Valona, one of the immediate goals of the Greeks in their northward drive, was bombed heavily again, the spokesman said.

Identity of Warships.

The torpedoed Italian "warships" were identified as the Liguria and the Lombardia.

[The London Daily Mail attributed to the Athens radio a report that the vessels were troopships—the Liguria of 15,354 tons and the Lombardia of 20,066 tons. The authoritative naval handbook Jane's Fighting Ships lists neither ship. Lloyd's register lists an Italian Liguria, a commercial vessel of only 174 tons.]

Aside from this success at sea, the Greeks contended that a third of Italy's forces in Albania had been killed, wounded, captured, or taken home for frostbite treatment, and dispatches from the front reported new but ill defined gains in Greece's counterinvasion. Newspapers estimated the Italian losses at a total of 70,000.

[Officially Italy has acknowledged 12,377 casualties in the war with Greece up to Dec. 31. The war started Oct. 28.]

Front line dispatches said the Greeks had gained territory both in the Tepeleni area and the region north of Klisura. Klisura is in Greek hands, Tepeleni in Italian.

Hand to Hand Fighting.

AT THE JUGO-SLAV-ALBANIAN FRONTIER, Jan. 17 (AP).—Bitter hand to hand fighting in the central sector between Tepeleni and Klisura was reported today, with both the Greeks and Italians concentrating troops on that front. Some military experts believe a decisive battle soon will take place there.

Many Italian Workers Killed.

ROME, Jan. 17 (AP).—The Tirana, Albania, newspaper Tomori said today that many among the thousands of Italian laborers working with Fascist troops confronting the Greeks had been killed or wounded in bombardments.

CHINA'S COMMUNIST ARMY DISBANDED FOR PLOT TO STAGE REVOLT

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 17 (AP).—The national military council tonight announced the communist new 4th army "as a unit has been abolished and disarmed for its defiance of military orders and a plot to stage a revolt." The commander, Yeh Ting, was arrested and held for court martial.

The council spokesman said the action was strictly a question of military discipline. He said the army refused to move into designated areas as ordered and instead attacked other Chinese units, seeking to waylay the government's 40th division.

The 40th, however, "fought in self defense" and succeeded in disarming the new 4th by Jan. 12, he said.

SOLDIER BEATEN; BAN CAB DRIVERS AT FT. SHERIDAN

Lieut. Sidney De Love, assistant provost marshal at Fort Sheridan, notified Chief of Police John De Smidt of Highwood yesterday that drivers for the Black and White Cab company of Highwood, will no longer be permitted to enter the military reservation. The action was the outgrowth of the alleged beating of a soldier at the fort Wednesday.

Assault and battery charges were filed in Waukegan meanwhile against Roland Stanley, 20 years old, and Peter Murphy, 24, both drivers for the company. They were charged with beating the soldier, Private Le Roy Polzin, 22, of Company D, 2d infantry, after an argument about a taxi fare. The two were held in the Lake county jail.

HEAR NAZIS SEEK PEACE IN ITALIAN, GREEK CONFLICT

Hitler and Mussolini May Confer Over Week-End.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 17 (AP).—A highly reliable informant said tonight that Germany was endeavoring to end the Italian-Greek war by negotiations in Athens. One informant suggested the presence of German troops in Rumania was part of a "diplomatic argument" designed to spur peace negotiations with Greece.

[In Berlin, authorized sources said there was no change whatever in German relations with Greece, and therefore it could be denied, they said, that German diplomatic activity had been intensified in Athens. Germany has maintained her normal diplomatic mission in Athens thruout the Greek-Italian hostilities.]

Would Welcome Settlement.

German sources here did not rule out the possibility of armed Nazi intervention in the Greek-Italian war, but declared Germany certainly would welcome a peaceful settlement.

It was believed by some informants here that Germany, in attempting to negotiate peace, would indorse proposals that Greece reasonably could accept even if they gave Italy a poor return for her war efforts.

There have been some reports that the negotiations were in part being carried on in Sofia following a series of visits to the foreign office here the last three days by German, Greek, Jugo-Slav, and soviet ministers.

But Bulgarian official sources said this was not so, and that presumably the diplomats had called seeking information on Bulgaria's position. [German troops probably would go thru Bulgaria to reach Greece.]

Hitler and Duce May Meet.

BERNE, Switzerland, ~~Jan. 17 (AP)~~.—Reports reaching diplomatic quarters from axis and Balkan capitals tonight indicated a meeting between Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini was "quite likely" this week-end.

There was no indication of exactly when or where the meeting might take place, but it was believed such a conference mainly would be concerned with means of giving additional Nazi aid to Italy in the Fascist campaign against the Greeks in Albania and the British in North Africa.

Mussolini Changes Plans.

ROME, Jan. 17 (AP).—Premier Mussolini's scheduled personal appearance Sunday to award prizes to Italian farmers in the country's campaign for self-sufficiency in wheat growing has been canceled, it was learned tonight.

Seeks Adventure

JUNE SPRAU.

June Sprau has been reading the travel columns of newspapers again. The last time Miss Sprau read such a column, in THE TRIBUNE, a year ago, she accompanied a party of other adventurous souls on an air tour of South America which ended on the shore of a tiny Brazilian lake when their plane ran out of fuel.

Now, Miss Sprau, 25 years old, a tall, slim, brunette, is on the high seas, bound for adventure in Hawaii. She sailed Thursday from San Francisco, Cal., aboard the Sindri, a 16 ton sloop belonging to George and Judy Hall of that city. One other passenger, a man, who is a photographer-lecturer, is aboard.

The latest adventure for Miss Sprau, who was formerly a Lake Forest governess, started when a job in a loop department store began to pall. Miss Sprau took her last $100, got another job driving a new automobile to California, and left.

DEMANDS SPEEDY DEFENSE HOUSING AT RANTOUL, ILL.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—President Roosevelt today ordered the immediate construction of 100 dwelling units at Rantoul, Ill., as part of a general building program to avert a serious housing shortage for defense workers.

Recommended by C. F. Palmer, defense housing coördinator, a total of 1,982 new dwelling units will be built in eight communities thruout the nation by the Federal Works agency. This would be in addition to 1,435 units already assigned to the federal agency. Housing projects to be built by other government agencies or by private industry would bring the total to 9,029.

The 100 units recommended for Rantoul, Ill., would house the families of civilian personnel at Chanute field at rentals of $21 to $45 a month. They would be in addition to 200 units recommended for enlisted personnel at $16 to $20 a month, also assigned to the Federal Works agency for construction, and in addition to 100 units for civilian personnel under construction by a local authority with a U. S. H. A. loan, with rentals fixed at $21 to $45 a month.

James Gleason, 26 years old, 8952 South Aberdeen street, was shot in the abdomen last night by one of two companions during an altercation near 48th street and Ashland avenue. Gleason, who said he was a laborer, refused to name his assailant, who fled. Gleason is in Southtown hospital.

BRITISH PLANES RAID ITALIAN BARRACKS AT DERNA, IN LIBYA

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 17 (AP).—The R. A. F. has bombed Italian military barracks at Derna, 100 miles west of besieged Tobruk in Libya, and continued patrol activity in support of the British offensive into Libya, the British command reported today.

Report Artillery Duels.

ROME, Jan. 17 (AP).—Normal artillery activity in the Gallabat zone of East Africa and artillery and patrol activity in Libya were reported by the Italian high command today.

Two Children Perish in Fire in West Side Flat

Two Negro children were burned to death last night in a fire in their first floor rear flat at 328 North Washtenaw avenue. The dead were Marilyn Collins, 2 years old, and her brother, Albert, 7 months old. Robert Collins Jr., 4, escaped injury by running out of the flat in which the children were alone. Police said the fire may have started from an oil stove. Coroner A. L. Brodie ordered an investigation into the blaze.

NORSE UPRISINGS SAP NAZI NERVES, ASSERTS DOCTOR

Puppet Rulers Hamstrung, Says King's Aid.

Norwegians are not only revolting against the Nazis and their puppet government but also are spreading word of the uprising to the outside world almost as soon as such events occur, Dr. Karl Evang, surgeon general of the Norwegian public health service, said here yesterday.

Dr. Evang is touring the United States as a representative of the Norwegian crown and is seeking funds to relieve the housing shortage in Norway, which he said resulted from the devastation caused by the German invaders.

"My countrymen are showing an unexpected adeptness in making the Nazi invaders uncomfortable and evading their censorship," Dr. Evang said. "Germany has found it impossible to bottle up information along the Swedish frontier and the thousands of miles of seacoast facing England. News from Oslo often is sent to America and broadcast to northern Norway so quickly it beats domestic channels of communication by as much as 7 to 10 days."

Resistance on Increase.

Dr. Evang said the news that is smuggled out indicates that the underground resistance to the Nazis and their puppet Quisling government has been increasing since September.

"Even Norwegian Nazis are becoming dissatisfied with the government of Hitler's henchmen," he said. "Civil disobedience is spreading so fast that the present administration finds it almost impossible to operate."

"We learned, for example, only the other day that the Norwegian Supreme court simply melted away—members departed silently for home—when asked to approve Quisling's actions. When the puppet government attempted to find a reputable physician to take the post I was forced to abandon, they could find nobody except a discredited psychiatrist willing to coöperate with the government.

People Obstruct Nazis.

"In other ways, too, the people are obstructing the Nazis. We learned of an instance last week when a Nazi official agreed to make a public address. It was widely publicized, but only a handful of sympathizers drifted into the hall. A great crowd of Norwegians gathered outside. Midway in the address the public address speaker blew up. It had been charged with dynamite. The country joined in a universal laugh about the way the Nazi's strong words were exploded.

"It is the season of long nights in Norway now, and the loyal population spends the hours of darkness painting caricatures and mocking legends on public buildings ridiculing the Nazis. The six or seven hours of daylight are not enough to allow the Germans to erase them.

"The long nights and the persistent hostility of the Norwegians are fraying the nerves of the German soldiers. In isolated spots some commit suicide; others need frequent relief. The war of nerves is beginning to tell on them.

Bodies Found in Fjord.

"The resistance is not entirely psychological, however. Almost every day Oslo fjord yields the body of some mysteriously drowned German or Nazi sympathizer.

"Loyalist sympathy has increased until now the 1 per cent of the population that Quisling could command has shrunk to less than one hundredth as many."

Dr. Evang's wife and three children escaped to Sweden last month. They had been held as hostages after he fled to London last June with King Haakon VII. of Norway and other government officials. Dr. Evang has been in the United States since July.

PRINCESS RIDES IN AMBULANCE TO U. S. HEARING

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 17 (AP).—A deportation hearing against Princess Stephanie Hohenlohe was transferred to her Palo Alto apartment today after the Hungarian princess rode to the immigration offices here in an ambulance. A transcript of the proceedings will be sent to Washington. The princess is free on $25,000 bond.

The princess waited on the ambulance stretcher outside the immigration building for 10 minutes while her attorneys conferred with officials. Immigration officers then announced that because of her illness the session would be held at her bedside. The ambulance headed back to Palo Alto.

The hearing was ordered after she failed to comply with a department of justice order to leave the country by Jan. 11. The government announced her continued presence here was considered inimical to the nation's best interest.

Her attorney, Joseph Bullock, who protested that the Hungarian princess was not pro-Nazi, unsuccessfully sought a postponement of the hearing because of her nervous condition.

Boy Killed by I. C. Train on His Way from School

Jack Hagan, 12 years old, was struck and killed by an Illinois Central suburban train yesterday on the right of way between Dante and Dorchester avenues. His parents told police he was returning from the St. Lawrence Parochial school, 72d street and Dorchester avenue, to their home at 6942 Kimbark avenue. A gateman told police the boy ran across a vacant lot into the path of the train.

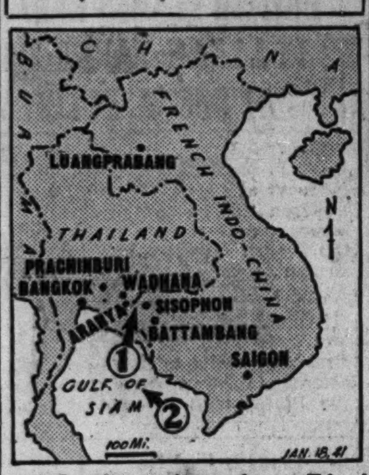
Defeats for Siamese



1. Jungle region where Thai (Siamese) column was wiped out in French machine gun trap. 2. Waters in which two Thai warships were sunk and a third damaged.

2 SIAMESE SHIPS SUNK BY FRENCH; KILL 600 IN TRAP

Column Mowed Down on Jungle Road.

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Jan. 17 (AP).—Units of the French Asiatic squadron today were reported to have virtually wiped out a three ship Thai [Siamese] flotilla while the jungles of western Cambodia yielded a story of how nearly 600 invading cavalrymen from Thailand perished in a machine gun trap.

The French, however, acknowledged they were withdrawing to "the little Maginot line" shielding Sisophon, western Cambodia railhead some 50 miles inside the Indo-China frontier.

[Dispatches from Bangkok quoted the Thai radio as announcing an offensive stretching over almost the whole 1,000 mile frontier between the two countries, from Luangprabang on the north to Sisophon and Battambang on the south. "Several" Indo-China districts were said to have been "liberated" by the Thai invaders. Thailand claims territory from the French in Indo-China.]

Story of Naval Battle.

In the naval engagement the French reported that "several" of their warships [probably destroyers] came upon three Thai craft firing at a French patrol plane in the Gulf of Siam, attacked them, sank two, and severely damaged the third. The size or classification of the ships was not given. [Thailand's fleet includes four cruisers and 14 destroyers.]

An American oil man, the representative of the Texas company, told of the death trap set on Jan. 10 by French Foreign Legionnaires on a road hemmed in by jungle—and from which only three Thai troopers out of a whole column escaped death.

The French placed machine guns along the road, hidden in the dense foliage, and opened fire when the column was 500 yards away. The inexperienced troopers were cut down in 15 minutes.

French planes were said to have started large fires on three principal Thai airports—Aranya, Wadhana, and Prachinburi.

Japs Call for Action.

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 18, Saturday (AP).—The influential newspaper Nichi Nichi today called for Japanese action to "rescue the natives of Indo-China" from French rule and expressed growing Japanese impatience over the slow course of negotiations for an economic pact with Indo-China.

"Inseparable relations exist between the greater East Asia sphere of co-prosperity and the release from oppression of races living in southern Asia," declared Nichi Nichi. "This principle applies to Indo-China, where 23,000,000 natives are ruled by 30,000 Frenchmen.

U. S. ALCOHOL TAX AGENTS SEIZE 6 IN THREE RAIDS

Federal alcohol tax agents under the direction of Deputy Supervisor Ralph Herrick, in three raids yesterday, seized six men accused as bootleggers. Louis Lavender, 49 years old, 4908 North Drake avenue, was seized in a house at 4421 South La Salle street, where a 1,000 gallon still was being operated. The agents followed a delivery truck from the house to a garage at 7519 Exchange avenue, where they seized Jack Soroka, 44; Harry Segal, 31, and Milton Gladstone, 47. In the third raid, at 6421 Normal avenue, William York, 30, and Harry Anderson, 35, were arrested. The agents said they had previously followed a delivery truck loaded with illicit alcohol from the La Salle street house to this address.

Factor Is Freed of Liability on Liquor Store Rent Bill

John Factor and two other defendants were discharged of liability for $532 in unpaid rent on a liquor store at 4726 Sheridan road in a hearing yesterday before Judge Joseph H. McGarry in the Municipal court. The store was once rented by the Old Oak Liquor Stores, Inc., a dormant organization, headed by Factor. Judge McGarry ruled that Factor could not be held personally responsible for debts of the corporation.

SEXTON'S HAIR SINGED.

A tongue of flame singed the hair from the head of George Shaw, 62, sexton of the North Shore community church, 1011 Wilson avenue, as he was putting waste paper in the church furnace yesterday. Fire spread thru the basement and caused damage estimated at $700.

FREE PRESS HELD THE KEYSTONE OF U. S. DEMOCRACY

Editor Speaks at 235th Franklin Anniversary.

Democracy rests more securely upon a free press than upon any other one institution, Grove Patterson, editor-in-chief of the Toledo, O., Blade and past president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said yesterday. He spoke before a luncheon meeting in the Union League club held in observance of the 235th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin.

Grove Patterson.

"A democracy can last only in so far and so long," he said, "as the channel is kept open for the flow of approximately accurate information from the center to the border, and for the flow of criticism, praise and reaction from the border to the center.

What He Learned in Europe.

"I traveled thru 14 European countries recently, including the soviet union, Germany and some of the smaller nations of central Europe. I had been there before, more than once. But this time there was borne in upon me with far greater clarity and force the incontrovertible fact that the only thing that will keep one man or group of men from stealing a government and administering it in the interests of a privileged few is a free press."

Patterson took issue with President Roosevelt's recent definition of a democracy as the "rule of a majority." Patterson declared the glory of a democracy is, rather, that it is the one form of government which provides for the rights of a minority not in power.

When Majority Is in Power.

"What could be more despotic, more tyrannical than a majority in power, without provision for the rights of the minority?" he asked. "The majority is in power in Germany, in Russia and in Italy."

The speaker declaimed against the average citizen who, he said, fails to "think thru" the meaning of a free press and its significance in enabling a representative government to function. This average citizen, Patterson said he fears, thinks freedom of the press is merely a right which journalists are forever worrying about.

"The responsible editor long ago, or at least some time ago," Patterson asserted, "came to the conclusion that he faced the opportunity of making a newspaper into something more than a newspaper, of making it into an institution for constant and continuing service in the community."

AXIS TIES UP RAIL LINES SO BALKANS GO WITHOUT FOOD

Fear Riots as a Result of War Shipments.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 17 (AP).—Southeastern Europe—already forced to eat stale black bread and pay exorbitant prices for essential foodstuffs—now is facing new shortages because, officials say, so many rail lines have been commandeered for Nazi troop movements and Italian and German shipments of war materials.

Dispatches from Hungary and Rumania say that in many towns where ordinary supplies have been cut off by German use of railroads the inhabitants have appealed for commodities by truck to prevent rioting and famine.

Oil Shipments Jam Rails.

Similarly, Italian demands for quick delivery of vast quantities of Rumanian oil to bolster her dwindling supplies are said to have jammed Jugo-Slav railways as far as Trieste, causing a serious curtailment of food shipments.

The Hungarian food problem is reflected in a new government order halving the amount of food each householder has been allowed to keep on hand—50 pounds of flour, 4 pounds of dried vegetables, 6 pounds of fats.

Rumanian reaction to skyrocketing prices was said to have brought several public demonstrations, including one in a Bucharest public market in which one person was killed and several others injured.

Seize Excess Supplies.

Nearly all southeastern European governments have restricted bread sales to black loaves two and three days old. Rumanian officials found flour consumption was cut drastically by this order until the people discovered they could make the bread more palatable by toasting. Now a new order forbids serving of toast in restaurants, dining cars, and other public eating places.

Iron Guard squads are said to be raiding homes in many parts of Rumania, seizing what they consider to be more than normal supplies of food and selling them in public markets.

Even the commissar of the German expeditionary force in Rumania is finding difficulty in getting enough food for his several hundred thousand soldiers. One Bucharest report said the Germans faced the necessity of importing 60 per cent of the food needed by their troops in a country from which they had expected to obtain vast food exports.

Danish Food for Nazis.

Already long lines of Danish freight cars are arriving in Rumania, bringing dairy products for the Nazi army.

Ration cards have appeared in several large Jugo-Slav cities. Many city housewives, unable to buy lard, scour the countryside looking for peasants who will sell fats.

In Rumania eggs, which a few months ago sold at less than 5 cents a dozen, now bring more than 50 cents in "egg speakeasies."

Bulgaria's native cheese, one of the principal foods, can be had only with ration cards.

Italy Restricts Traffic.

ROME, Jan. 17 (AP).—The government announced a decree today authorizing railroads to restrict and speed up freight traffic to meet wartime demands on railroads.

One benefit was expected to be a solution to freight traffic jams which some observers considered responsible for temporary shortages of such nessities as food and fuel in some cities.

An official announcement said the new rules were "less drastic" than regulations already in force in some other countries or those applied in Italy during the world war.

STENCH BOMB IN BARBER SHOP.

Jefferson Park police yesterday were investigating a stench bomb attack on the shop of George Limpres, a nonunion barber at 4944 Belmont avenue, Thursday night. Since withdrawing from the union in 1924, Limpres told police, he has been the target of similar attacks.

TELLS TRAINING OF MIDSHIPMEN ON M-DAY BASIS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—Rear Admiral Chester W. Nimitz told the house naval committee today that for more than six months the navy has been training hundreds of reserve midshipmen under a plan originally intended for use after mobilization for war.

Nimitz, chief of the bureau of navigation, was testifying on a bill to permit members of congress to appoint an additional midshipman apiece to the naval academy, in order to increase the supply of officers. The committee unanimously recommended the measure after amending it so that 100 instead of 50 members of the navy and marine corps enlisted reserves could be appointed to the academy each year.

Nimitz said that under the reserve midshipmen training plan, the navy would have about 4,500 young officers ready by late summer to fill positions on the fighting ships. A total of 6,649 of those young reservists have had cruise training since June, Nimitz said, and 5,382 of them are going thru selected training schools ashore.

$2,825,903 PAID BY GAS COMPANY, A TAX WINDFALL

Levy Cut 3½ Million to End Long Fight.

The Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company paid $2,825,903 in personal property taxes yesterday, and at the same time gained a 3½ million dollar reduction in its total personal property tax bill for the last eight years.

Checks for the $2,825,903 payment were sent to County Treasurer John Toman after Judge Thomas J. Lynch in Circuit court issued a decree which ended seven years of litigation over the company's taxes.

Six Governments to Benefit.

The county's six major governments, hard pressed for revenues to bring their 1941 budgets into balance, will benefit substantially from the tax payment. The county's share is $587,036, including $424,630 in penalties accrued during the course of the litigation. The amounts the other governments will receive are: City, $916,426; school board, $827,067; park district, $273,691; sanitary district, $187,888, and forest preserves, $25,044.

The gas company's total tax bill for the years 1932-'39 inclusive was approximately 13½ million dollars. During the eight years the company paid $7,555,832 in taxes, but protested the balance on the ground that the assessor failed to allow proper deductions for depreciation, and on the ground that certain assessments were made on properties not subject to assessment. The city filed suit to collect.

Yesterday Assistant State's Attorney William Kearney submitted to the court certificates of error from Assessor John S. Clark, which reduced the company's assessments 50 million dollars from the eight year period. Earlier the company had waived its objections involving the depreciation allowances.

Reductions Follow Survey.

Kearny said the assessor's certificates of error reducing the assessments were largely of two kinds. About half of the reduction was accounted for by the assessment of personal property which had also been assessed as real estate and hence would have been subject to double taxation.

The remainder of the 50 million dollar reduction concerned properties that the Peoples Gas company acquired from the old Ogden Gas company in 1899. These had been assessed at approximately 3 million dollars a year during the eight years. After a six months' survey by his staff, however, Assessor Clark concluded the properties are now virtually nonexistent and hence not subject to assessment. The properties were carried on the company's books until 1936, but were written off in that year.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 17 [Special].—Vera Hruba, 20 year old Czecho-Slovakian ice skating star appearing with a revue here, fears her visitor's permit, which expires March 1, may not be renewed. Miss Hruba said that rather than face deportation to Germany she would marry an American citizen if "fortunate enough to find one who would be kind." Otherwise, she said, she will try to enter Chile.

LAYOFFS TO MEET FUND CUTS IN 2 COUNTY OFFICES

Two Cook county department heads told the county board finance committee yesterday that they plan to lay off employés, rather than cut salaries, to meet a proposed 10 per cent reduction in their 1941 departmental appropriations. The officials are Assessor John S. Clark and John F. Delaney, chief clerk of the board of appeals.

Commissioner Daniel Ryan, acting chairman of the finance committee, told department heads called before the committee that a cut of 10 per cent, and perhaps more, is in prospect for 1941. Departmental heads have made budget requests totaling $23,099,153. This is 5½ millions in excess of preliminary 1941 revenue estimates.

Both Clark and Delaney said wage cuts would probably impair efficiency more than layoffs, because present salaries in their departments are scarcely adequate. Other department heads who offered to "coöperate," with the board's economy effort are Coroner A. L. Brodie, Victor L. Schlaeger, clerk of the Superior court; Frank Lyman, clerk of the Probate court, and Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools.

STORE BURGLAR SENT TO PRISON.

Theodore Cain, 35 years old, was sentenced yesterday by Judge C. D. Page in the Kane County Circuit court at Geneva to serve one to five years in the Joliet penitentiary for the burglary of an Aurora store.

MR. WILLKIE CHECKS OUT.

Mr. Willkie, by prearrangement, was in the Town Hall audience in New York when the debate on war bill 1776, between Dr. Frank Kingdon, head of the New York chapter of interventionists, and Norman Thomas, the socialist, was broadcast. Mr. Thomas opposed the bill and American participation in the war. He did so with arguments which Republicans have made and could indorse.

At the moment which had previously been agreed upon Mr. Willkie was observed to be in the audience, and was asked to comment. He did so with a complete indorsement of Mr. Roosevelt's war policy, his bill, and the absolute powers it would grant. This is not the position of the Republican party, which is for neither war nor dictatorship.

Mr. Willkie entered the Republican party as a mysterious stranger, suddenly and to the astonishment of thousands of the party members who didn't recall the face or the name. He may now take his leave, quite as suddenly, still a stranger to the party's principles, altho no longer mysterious. Republicans who wondered how he got in will feel relieved when he gets out. His desertion of the party position during the campaign was one of those things that cannot be fully believed at the time they occur. People don't quite grasp the full significance of what they have seen and heard.

It was hard to believe that the Republican convention had been swept off its feet and had nominated a man who should have been running on the other ticket. When Mr. Willkie tried to tell the people that was just what had happened, it was impossible to believe him. It was impossible not to think that he meant something else, that he didn't mean he was just a yes man to the candidate he was supposed to be opposing, or that he was a fifth columnist opening the gates to the other side.

It is now apparent that the proper place for the Republican nominee was the one the Democratic convention didn't want to give Henry Wallace but very well could have given to Wendell Willkie. Millions of Republicans now see that they were duped and were, in effect, voting the Democratic ticket. They might have changed the name of the man in the White House but they wouldn't have changed the program, they wouldn't have changed the plans and intentions at all in foreign policy, and probably not much in domestic policies.

That can be seen now, and if Mr. Willkie has not already picked up his hat it should be handed to him. He should no longer be consulted in the national party organization, should have no place in its councils, and should neither give nor be asked advice. He was a Republican by name for less than a year and that period was much too long.

The party will take leave of its late standard bearer with the hope that it will never again see him or he it.

PUTTING A STICK IN TAX COLLECTIONS.

Speaking, presumably, for his colleagues on the Circuit bench, Judge Harry M. Fisher has offered a suggestion that should improve the efficiency of the plan to collect delinquent real estate taxes thru a special bureau in the county treasurer's office.

The Circuit judges have refused to approve the additional employés for the bureau. Judge Fisher says they are willing to reconsider if given proper assurances that other county officials will coöperate fully in the collection effort.

Under the present statutes collection of delinquent real estate taxes is in many instances a task beyond the powers of the county treasurer acting alone. He requires the assistance of the state's attorney, of the sheriff to a lesser extent, and he should have the wholehearted coöperation of the board of county commissioners.

If the judges, as a condition of establishing the collection bureau, call in these officials and exact from them definite promises of collaboration in the collection effort, it is assured that much greater chance of success. In demanding such assurances the judges are not unreasonable. They are merely taking a healthy precaution in order that the appropriation proposed may bring the results expected of it.

Judge Fisher reiterated the demand of the Circuit judges that something also be done about collecting delinquent personal property taxes, which amount to more than half the delinquencies in the county. In this field of action the treasurer needs little, if any, assistance.

As Judge Fisher points out, the present method of collecting personal property taxes thru suits filed by the state's attorney is cumbersome and unnecessary. The treasurer himself has a more effective method available whenever he has the courage to use it. He has the power, without resort to the courts, to issue his own warrant, seize the property of the delinquent taxpayer, and sell it to meet the unpaid bill. He should do this, and if the Circuit judges will insist that he do so as a condition of receiving the appropriation for the collection of real estate taxes, they will serve the public well.

In the Voice of the People yesterday Mr. Henderson White called attention to a method of collecting personal property taxes that has proved effective in Kansas City. There an applicant for any city license, including a vehicle tax tag, is refused it unless he is able to show a receipt for his personal property taxes.

Such a collection effort in Chicago would require the coöperation of the city government, which issues most licenses and permits. The procedure has been used in this city, but to a very limited extent. Permits are not granted to wreck buildings unless the real estate taxes are cleared up first. The city's theory in such cases is that the property owner, by wrecking the building, is destroying part of the collateral securing his tax liability.

Every time they make a budget the members of the city council wail over the failure to collect the taxes they impose. Their good faith in making these protests would be tested by offering them a chance to use a stick in the collection effort thru refusal of licenses to delinquents.

THE DICTATOR IS CLOSER THAN YOU THINK.

Mr. Hull, when he was questioned on the war bill, was asked by Mr. Tinkham: "Could not the President give away the United States navy under this bill?" "I am surprised that even you would want to waste time with such a question," said Mr. Hull. "It is a violent assumption."

Mr. Stimson, the secretary of war, appeared before the same house committee the following day and the question was asked again, this time by Mr. Fish, in these words: "This bill permits the President to give away all or any part of our navy, doesn't it?"

"Well," Mr. Stimson answered, "it permits him to transfer it on considerations that he thinks concern our defense. I can foresee conditions that might make it desirable that the navy be transferred. A situation might arise where it would be to our advantage to do so."

What was a violent assumption in Mr. Hull's evasive answer became an accepted interpretation of the bill to Mr. Stimson, the secretary of war. And Mr. Stimson is a true interpreter who didn't try to dodge. Mr. Roosevelt would assert the authority to transfer naval vessels as he saw fit, for the defense of any nation he wanted to help. They might be transferred to European waters, they might be transferred for service in British waters, they might go to the aid of Greece in the Mediterranean or of China in the far Pacific.

If congress passes the war dictatorship bill, it will grant just such powers as Mr. Stimson described and congress will abdicate. It will be only another reichstag.

POPULATION CHANGES.

The shifting of population as revealed in the census every ten years affords a basis for interesting speculation as to its various causes.

According to one analysis the 1940 inventory of population will result in the loss of one seat each in the house of representatives for Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Pennsylvania. On the other hand, California will gain three seats and one seat each will be added to the representation in the house for Arizona, Florida, Michigan, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, and Tennessee.

Of the many reasons which might be given for these changes, there is one that is perhaps the most plausible. Under the New Deal the idea that the government owes every one a living seems to have become attractive to a large number of people of the Ham-and-Eggs type and many of them have decided to qualify for the dole in warmer and more salubrious climates. Most of them went to California with the "Okies," but many southern states, including Florida, received their quota. None of the southern states will suffer a loss in congressional representation.

Analyzing the changes which have taken place during the last ten years in the populations of the cities we find some interesting facts. The 92 cities with a population of over 100,000 had an increase of 23.7% from 1920 to 1930, but an increase of only 5% from 1930 to 1940. Of the ten largest cities, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cleveland, and Boston all lost ground during the last decade. Detroit, which increased 57.9% from 1920 to 1930, had an increase of only 3½% during the next ten years, and Chicago had practically no increase.

These figures indicate a trend of population away from the larger to the smaller cities and towns. One important theory as to the cause of this is the decentralization of industry which is taking place. The business of meat packing affords an example. In 1919 there were nearly 50,000 people employed in the stockyards in Chicago. Now there are only about 20,000. The number of live stock trains into the yards has been greatly decreased since the days when there were no hard roads or motor trucks.

Packing plants have grown up all over the country and today buyers from these plants obtain their live stock from the surrounding territory and, in many cases, buy directly from the farmer and make delivery to the local plant by truck. To the same degree the marketing of fresh meat and packing house products is done largely in localized territories. In addition, almost every town, no matter how small, serving an agricultural community, has its cold storage plant and locker rooms where the rural population can store its meat supply from one season to the next.

The transfer of industries from cities in the middle west to locations on the deep water rim of the country, where they can enjoy the cheap water transportation made possible by the Panama canal, has made another shift in population to the detriment of the Mississippi valley.

If California's gain of three new congressmen is caused by its increase in nonproductive population, one wonders if it has, in the final analysis, fared any better than Illinois, which lost one congressman.

WHOSE OX IS GORED?

[Boston Evening Transcript.]

During the recent Presidential campaign a rich and prominent Democrat lent $275,000 to finance radio time for Democratic propaganda. He has since been chosen chairman of the Democratic national committee. Inquiries about his loan are being made by a senatorial committee in Washington.

During the 1936 campaign another rich and prominent man contributed heavily to the Democratic campaign fund. That was all right. But last autumn he contributed to the Republican chest and, later, he gave money to the No Foreign War committee. That was all wrong. So a Washington federal grand jury subpenaed him.

Verne Marshall asks a pertinent question. He asks: "In what place of power are decisions made as to which men are to be taken before a federal grand jury and which before a senate committee?"

PRIVILEGES OF THE PRESS.

Whence come all the people who overcrowd the northbound elevated trains between the hours of 8 and 9 p. m.? They left their offices at 5:30, and should have gone straight home. It's a relatively new condition, due to a growing custom of cocktails, dinner, and a movie downtown before returning to the two room flat.

One of the advantages of working for a morning newspaper is that it provides escape from the human herd in the great migrations downtown and back. But now the evening rush continues until midnight.

* * *

One of the disadvantages of working for a newspaper of large circulation is that you are never safe from social argument regarding its policy, on any matter from the comic strips to national issues. After meeting the situation for the tenth time in one day, the journalist is likely to snarl, "Et tu, Brute," and then his acquaintance goes around town saying, "What a bad temper Old Scrooge of the Banner has developed."

When the Linemaster became a newspaper man, his family, friends, and neighbors predicted that inside of two years he would turn out to be a stumblebum like all the rest of them. One group of his advisers hoped that before taking the fatal step he would seriously consider the possibility of earning a livelihood writing sonnets.

COMET CUNNINGHAM TAKES A LOOK.

In the year of nineteen forty,
Down thru interstellar space,
A youthful comet started out
A-hunting for the place

Called Earth; his grampa Halley
Often went there, it appears—(Astronomically, "often" means, you know, Once every fifty years.)

Venus eyed him coyly
And seemed about to wink—
"Just where is Earth?" he asked her;
And Venus said: "I think

That Mars can tell you better,
The red guy, on the right,"
And red he was, but turned to green,
Much like a traffic light

When he was asked directions,
And bitter was his glance:
"Earth! That bum! He's getting Too big for his darned pants!"

He next asked an old codger
In the moon about the Earth—
An old bird who just grinned and grinned
From something else than mirth.

But Kid Cunningham was scheduled
By some celestial law
To keep on going earthward,
And so he went and saw!

Then, "Wow!!!" exclaimed the comet,
"Man O man O man!"
He turned two million miles of tail,
And, boy, how he ran!

Nice Work If You Can Get It.

Any one can be an editor. All he has to do is sit behind a desk and "edit" such items as these:

Mrs. Lane of Hammond let a can opener slip last week and cut herself in the pantry.

James Milton climbed on the roof of his house last week looking for a leak, and fell, striking himself on the back porch.

That sets a seal of gold upon the floor,
And in the light the dust motes idly run

Some eager, some reluctant, some aloof,
Some bright with youth, some worn and seamed with age;
But each, intent upon his plotted way,
Moves quickly on while hoarded minutes fly . . .
And Life directs its never ending play
Before the newsboy's blank, indifferent eye.

HOW PNEUMONIA SPREADS.

WHAT responsibility has the home and the hospital for stopping the spread of pneumonia? While we do not like to admit it, the fact remains that we shall have many cases this winter. The causative microbe is prone to grow whenever it can find one who is run down, and thus constitutionally below par. All such persons present picked subjects. This is why it is well to utilize every possible precaution—not only for the sake of the victim—but in order to avoid transmission to others in the household.

Numerous instances have been recorded in which routine attention was not enough. For example, hordes of bacteria may be scattered about the living quarters—perhaps before the ailment is recognized. In consequence, they may be picked up, particularly by children. The malady then may run thru all the youngsters in the home—attack one after another. The only thing to do is to use the same alertness as we would in diphtheria or scarlet fever.

In one family described by Holle and Bullowa, six members were seized. First, a 9 year old boy; second, the mother; third, an 18 year old girl; fourth, the father; fifth, another sister of 6; and, sixth, a 3 year old. This group lived in a five-room apartment. The first case developed with a typical cough and fever. The child became so restless that he was allowed to sleep with his mother, who soon came down with the disease.

This report emphasizes the importance of isolating even those who have acute colds. The 9 year old lad no doubt was up and about for two or three days before the nature of his symptoms was understood. Had he been kept by himself, and had those who nursed him worn gauze masks and rubber gloves, he would have had a better chance to get well and the five others who became ill would probably have been spared.

Little effort is required to provide complete quarantine. As in any contagious disease—drapes, carpets, and rugs should be taken from the room. A basin of soap and water should be handy so that any one who enters or leaves the chamber may wash his hands—using paper towels for drying. All sputum should be collected on tissue and deposited in a paper sack, pinned to the lower sheet of the bed. When two-thirds full, the mouth of the bag may be closed with a rubber band and the whole burned. If this régime cannot be adopted, hospital care should be arranged for. After recovery, a thoro housecleaning is in order, with generous use of the laundry.

Fortunately, the outlook for the pneumonia patient is more favorable than it was a few years ago. Oxygen gas may be employed to maintain the blood at par and the chemicals of the sulfapyridine kind will usually prove curative. If serum is available for the exact type so much the better—as the neutralizing effect of this preparation is prompt and striking.

No one but the medical attendants should be allowed within the sick room. Not only is the sufferer likely to be disturbed, but the caller may become a victim of the disorder. Not long ago, a 34 year old woman was admitted to the hospital with a type 7 pneumococcus infection. Six days later a friend who had recovered from a different form of the disease dropped in to see her. Within 48 hours, the visitor was stricken and the organism was identical with that of the patient whom she had called upon.

Pneumonia is dangerous and catching and recovery from one variety is no protection against infection from another. We should recall that there are more than 30 species of this vicious germ.

REQUESTS FOR TAX INCREASES.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—The major local governments in Cook county—city, park, school board, sanitary district—are now before the legislature, asking pegged levies and increased pegged levies. Isn't this a polite name for a tax rate increase?

Later on, the county board will likewise appear before the legislature for the same or some other kind of relief.

Doesn't this give the new governor and the new legislature an admirable opportunity to do something in the taxpayers' behalf? Gov. Green has just gotten thru saying that that was one of his main objectives.

All these requests for relief have two things in common. First, the distress arises in large part from the inadequate, almost nonexistent, tax collecting efforts in Cook county. When any community owes its local government approximately $400,000,000, of which a large part could be collected if they really went to work at it, no wonder that all of the governments cannot make their budgets balance. Second, all of these governments stem from a common political leadership and responsibility. No matter what the Circuit court judges' committee may do or say regarding the county treasurer's request for a staff to collect taxes, and no matter what the county board may do or say regarding the financing of such a working force, the direction has its roots in the political leadership of the mayor and his associates.

How can any legislature in fairness to the great majority of us taxpayers who keep on paying, year after year, glibly vote these additional levies without saying, first to our local governments: Please go back to Cook county and talk it over among yourselves and with the Circuit court judges and with the county board. Make up your minds to collect what is owing, or as much of it as you can. Bring in your plan and your estimate of how much that will produce. If your report looks reasonable, we will then be in a position to intelligently discuss your problem and assist you in its solution. Self-help must precede charity, especially charity at the taxpayers' expense.

If Gov. Green and the legislature overlook this issue now, they and the taxpayers will have lost round number one, and the tax delinquency disease will likely continue to wear out the vitals of Chicago and Cook county. CITIZEN.

BELL PROBLEM.

Brookfield, Ill., Jan. 15.—Has any one of your hard of hearing readers solved the problem of hearing the doorbells or telephone without the aid of earphones? A larger doorbell has not remedied the situation. Now with the recent installation of a telephone, I am again stumped.

It is necessary that I hear the calls, as I have a member of the family who sleeps days. Sometimes insistent ringers wake him up, while one loud ring [or other signal] would bring me to the door immediately, and not bother him.

Some might suggest earphones but they are too inconvenient to carry around while working. HARD OF HEARING.

PRIVATE LIVES.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—My husband enlisted and spent 16 months in the last war, including nine months in France doing what he was told to do to help save the world for democracy.

After the war he received an honorable discharge and was returned home. I was happy to meet him but I was naturally shocked in meeting a total stranger in everything except outward appearance. I accepted my lot and tried to carry on, with a man always the last to get a job and the first to lose it. Eventually he received a compensation which helped mightily in raising four children.

In 1933 that compensation was taken away from us, as it was from many others to save money for the nation—[don't make me laugh].

Then war in France. A big battle was fought on top of the graves of our American boys buried there. Think of it—a battle fought over the bodies of our boys who died to end just such wars.

Today we have a little better living because my husband is working on material for war. This chance to work and earn a living may be had at the risk of putting up my three war aged boys for collateral in the near future. Who knows?

So I say, thank God for Senator Wheeler. A REAL WAR HATER.

MILK DEALER'S COMPLAINT.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Under the Mayor Kelly ordinance on milk every dealer has been called upon to make heavy expenditures to get the latest, most modern equipment and sanitary buildings. Now the city is seeking to collect from us annual fees covering the expense of inspections and office overhead. The amount is just a mere trifle of $390,000. We also call your attention to the annual operating tax of $25 for the average 1 ton retail vehicle, plus $5 for the grocer who collects this amount from the dealer he buys from.

Is this fair? A thousand times no, and we want every Chicagoan to know it.

MILK DEALER.

TIMELY OBSERVATION OF R. E. LEE.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—From Freeman's "Life of Robert E. Lee" I learn that on July 6, 1864, Lee wrote a letter to Jefferson Davis which contained the following sentence:

"Nor can we expect the policy of any government towards us to be governed by any other consideration than that of self-interest. Our safety depends upon ourselves alone."

COMMON SENSE.

INITIATION FEE.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—My husband is a laundry man, getting along very nicely with his work, but the laundry union has given my husband only one week to raise $112, or they will force the laundry to let my husband go. Why do they give a man only one week to raise that amount?

If the union would accept a man as a member he could draw commission and full salary and then the $112 could be paid quickly enough. They also take one dollar a week out of the pay for union dues, $52 a year. We are worried to death. We haven't the amount of the initiation fee so next week at this time I presume my husband will be out of his job. Unions are supposed to be organized to protect workers, not to put them in the bread line in the middle of winter.

LAUNDRY MAN'S WIFE.

ECONOMY.

Streator, Ill., Jan. 14.—Let's hope that Gov. Green doesn't use woman's economy. For the inauguration some of the gals cut off 16 cents' worth of sleeves so they could wear $22 worth of gloves. BILL.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

LIMITATION PERIOD ON NOTE.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Would you advise me the length of time the inclosed note would be good for collection? I have heard it was not good after 10 years if no interest or principal was paid.

2. In this case nothing was paid on this note until September, 1939, when this party began paying $5 a month, or a total of $70 to date. This is not enough to cover a year's interest.

3. Is this note good only for 10 years?

4. Does the monthly payment of $5 extend the validity of the note?

5. Would you advise me to have it renewed? R. S.

1. The Illinois limitation period is 10 years from the maturity date.

2. These payments would start the period running again so that the note would not be barred until 10 years from the last payment.

3. See preceding answers.

4. Yes.

5. A renewal might reduce th chances of a future dispute.

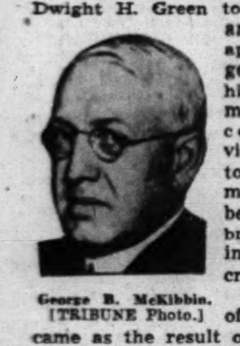
GOV. GREEN PUTS BRAKES ON FIRING STATE EMPLOYES

80 Get Dismissal Notes in Finance Offices.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



George B. McKibbin.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 17. — Gov. Dwight H. Green today manifested an intention to apply the brakes gently to any of his new cabinet members who, according to his views, threaten to use what might prove to be too vigorous a broom in sweeping out Democratic jobholders. The expression of his ideas came as the result of an announcement that George B. McKibbin, whose appointment as director of finance has been confirmed by the senate, but who does not take office until next Monday, sent notices of dismissal to about 80 employes in that department today.

All eighty, it was said, come within Gov. Green's category of unnecessary employes—40 in the sales tax division, 31 in the oil inspection division and the rest in the gas tax division. All these and more may be put out soon, but the governor said that McKibbin had not presented the list to him and that he expected the director to consult with him before the orders were made final.

Visits Chicago Tomorrow.

The governor leaves here tomorrow afternoon for Chicago where he will address the Associated Jewish Charities Sunday evening. He will return to Springfield on Monday but before leaving Chicago, he said, it is probable he will have a talk with McKibbin.

Green said that his instructions to his incoming directors were that they were to survey their departments and then report to him on the extent to which unnecessary jobs may be eliminated without injuring the service. He said he has not yet received an informal report on this subject from any of them.

He was asked if he knew that Martin P. Durkin, Horner appointee, who has not been replaced, had said that he received an offer of a position elsewhere. The governor replied that Durkin told him of the offer in a brief talk they had and that he intends to see Durkin again soon, probably next week.

Lyons May Take Post.

The governor declined to discuss reports that he has offered or will offer the post of chairman of the pardon and parole board to Richard J. Lyons, who supported him warmly after making an unsuccesful race for the governorship nomination. He did say that he hoped Lyons would become a member of his official family, but that the decision is a matter of "mutual determination."

Green laughed heartily when he was told that some of the Democrats in town now are referring to the executive mansion, where incidentally a cold has held the governor for three days, as the executioner's mansion.

Lueder Removes Four.

In some contrast to Green's orders to his own branch of the administration to go slow, State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder has summarily removed from well salaried jobs four principal appointees of his Democratic predecessor, Edward J. Barrett.

They are Ray Bergen, Barrett's chief assistant and constant companion, who drew $7,000 a year; P. J. O'Sullivan, said to be a Barrett cousin who received $6,000 a year in Barrett's Chicago office; George F. Ross, son-in-law of P. A. Nash, chairman of the Cook county Democratic committee, who had a salary of $4,320 as a statistical clerk, and Edward Rosenberg, the Stelle-Barrett manager in the primary last year, who was cut off from $3,600 a year he had been receiving as an assistant bank examiner.

DISCOVERS IRISH JOURNAL OF 1800 IN JUNK PAPERS

Policeman Ray Klem of the Stockyards district moved recently to a new home at 3029 Haynes court. Stopping a passing junkman, Policeman Klem spent a nickel for two bundles of old papers, with which he intended to start a fire.

The peculiar appearance of one paper caught his eye, and it didn't go into the fire. Now it's on exhibit in the Klem home—a copy of the Ulster County [Ireland] Gazette, dated Jan. 4, 1800. One story concerns the death of President George Washington. Another mentions an upstart in Europe who was threatening to make trouble. His name was Napoleon.

Leaps Into Chicago River, Spurns Aid, and Drowns

An unidentified man about 45 years old stopped on the east side of the Michigan avenue bridge shortly after the lunch hour yesterday, hung his overcoat on the railing, and jumped into the river. Park Policeman Michael Mulvihill, stationed hearby, threw a life preserver into the water, but the man, apparently ignoring it, drowned. Coast guardsmen recovered the body shortly afterward.

MOTHER OF GIRL CHARGES THREAT BY KUM BUMMER

The mother who charges that her daughter, 13 years old, was attacked by Hugh Greer Carruthers, ex-priest of the Kum Bum lamasery in Tibet, took the witness stand yesterday at Carruthers' trial on a charge of rape and said that her fear of Carruthers kept her from reporting the attack until long after it had occurred. The case is before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Joseph A. Graber.

The state charged that the rape took place on July 30 in the offices of the Neological [new logic] Foundation, 32 West Randolph street, which is headed by Carruthers. The defendant was arrested on Nov. 22.

The mother told the jury, "when I told Carruthers I would expose him, he said: 'I dare you, I'll fix you'."

Tells of Offer to Pay.

The final witness for the state was Allie T. Wirth, 4710 Kenmore avenue. Questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Sam Freedman, Wirth testified that he had been authorized by Carruthers to pay from $300 to $500 to the girl's aunt if the charge were dropped.

Wirth was arrested by Oak Park police and turned over to the state's attorney when he went to the aunt's home on Jan. 9, he testified. Wirth added that he had not discussed the case with the aunt. At one time during negotiations, Wirth said, Carruthers gave him $50 for expense money and an additional $100.

$300 Never Received.

On cross-examination, Wirth admitted that his arrest had been caused on information given to the state's attorney by Defense Attorney Cameron Latter. He also testified that Latter had told him to get out of the case and said that he had never received the $300 which was to have been paid to the girl's aunt.

The state rested after Wirth's testimony and the defense called as its first witness Herbert Marshall Himes, 1211 North La Salle street, who said he is director of extension education for the foundation at a salary of $220 a month. Himes said the girl's mother had told her story to him and asked what Carruthers was going to do about it. He said he referred her to Carruthers.

The trial was adjourned until Monday. Carruthers is expected to take the stand in his own defense on Tuesday.

RACKETS CZAR IS INDICTED ON DEWEY CHARGES

'Socks' Lanza and Others Named by Jury.

New York, Jan. 17 [Special].—Joseph [Socks] Lanza, alleged racketeering czar of New York's Fulton fish market until recently, was indicted by a grand jury today on six counts of extortion and one of conspiracy to extort money from local 202 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters [A. F. of L.].

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey described Lanza at the time of his arrest Jan. 8 as being so powerful that he continued to extract $120 a week from the union during two years he served in a federal prison for violation of antitrust laws in a fish market racket. On his release in 1939 he resmued his post as business agent of the Sea Food Handlers union, finally being forced by high A. F. of L. authorities to resign.

Gunplay Is Charged.

The conspiracy charge specifies that Lanza and two henchmen sent waterfront guerrillas and other strong-arm men to squeeze money out of local 202 by coercion, assault, and gunplay. The extortion is said to have extended from December, 1937, until recently.

Indicted with Lanza were James Carlo, 52 years old, who said he published a produce market sheet, and Nicholas J. De Stefano, 34, secretary-treasurer of local 202.

As the three were arraigned and pleaded not guilty late today before General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Goldstein, Dewey revealed that several others have been indicted in connection with the Lanza case. The names were not disclosed.

"The interesting thing about this indictment is the extremes to which big-time gangsters go these days for comparatively small pickings," Dewey commented. "Organized crime is obtaining small money in New York county these days."

Refers to $120 a Week.

Dewey referred to the $120 a week Lanza is alleged to have received, which is small money compared with standards a few years ago before the racket smashing prosecutor took office.

It also is alleged that Carlo and De Stefano commanded Sol Shuster, president of the local, to make De Stefano secretary-treasurer of the union. Shuster is serving a Sing Sing prison sentence of 10 to 20 years on conviction by Dewey of extortion.

If convicted Lanza faces up to 20 years as a first offender and up to 40 years if his federal sentence is considered a felony.

Judge Goldstein fixed bail of $30,000 for Lanza and $20,000 each for Carlo and De Stefano.

RADIO STATION IS WARNED OF BIAS IN BROADCASTS

FCC Renews Its License After Reprimand.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—A declaration that a radio station "cannot be an advocate," but must present all sides of important public questions fairly, objectively and without bias came today from the Federal Comunications commission.

It reprimanded station WAAB of Boston "for past practices," but renewed its license because, it said, John Shepard III., president of the Yankee Network, Inc., the licensee, had pledged not to color or editorialize news in the future.

Beginning early in 1937 and continuing thru September, 1938, the commission said, it was the policy of station WAAB "to broadcast so-called editorials from time to time urging the election of various candidates for political office or supporting one side or another in various questions in public controversy."

In these editorials, the commission asserted, "no pretense was made at objective, impartial reporting."

Must Not Be an Advocate.

Declaring the station "revealed a serious misconcept of its duties and functions under the law," the commission said:

"Radio can serve as an instrument of democracy only when devoted to the communication of information and the exchange of ideas fairly and objectively presented. A truly free radio cannot be used to advocate the causes of the licensee. It cannot be used to support the candidacies of his friends. It cannot be devoted to the support of principles he happens to regard most favorably. In brief, the broadcaster cannot be an advocate.

"The public interest—not the private—is paramount."

In renewing WAAB's license the commission said it was relying upon "comprehensive and unequivocal representations as to the future conduct of the station." It added:

"Should any future occasion arise to examine into the conduct of this licensee, however, the commission will consider the facts developed in this record in its review of the activities as a whole."

Turns Down Rival.

The commission denied an application by the Mayflower Broadcasting corporation which sought authority to replace WAAB on the air.

The communications act provides that the commission, before licensing a broadcast station, must find that "public interest, convenience, and necessity" will be served. In its recent annual report the commission said it had "the duty of determining whether the past conduct of stations has been consistent with their obligations under the law."

Broadcast stations are licensed for a one year period, altho the communications act authorizes a maximum of three years. Officials said the commission used the one year period, instead of the maximum, in order to "keep a better check" on station operations.

2 HURT AS ALTON PASSENGER TRAIN RAMS A FREIGHT

Two trainmen were injured early yesterday when The Fast Mail, a passenger train pulled by a Diesel engine, crashed into an empty freight train on the Alton railroad near Romeo, a village eight miles north of Joliet. None of the sleeping passengers was injured. The passenger train was en route to St. Louis.

The freight train was backing onto the north tracks to let the passenger train pass. Eight freight cars, including several tankers, were overturned. Several cars on the passenger train were derailed. The 312,000 pound Diesel engine hurdled a ditch and buried its nose in a corn field.

G. W. Brown of Bloomington, the engineer, was thrown out and injured. The engine caught fire, but one of the two firemen seized an extinguisher, and put out the blaze. William F. Young, conductor on the freight, who was riding on a side ladder, was seriously injured.

U. S. TO OPERATE POSTAL BUSES LIKE RAIL CARS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—A new highway postoffice service calling for use of huge bus-type trucks, equipped with the same facilities for sorting, handling, and dispatching mail as are railway postal cars, was announced tonight by Postmaster General Frank C. Walker.

Walker called the new service "one of the most significant developments in the field of mail transportation in recent years." He said it would not compete with railway mail service but was designed to supersede discontinued train service or supplement inadequate service.

The first route, to be known officially as the Washington, D. C., and Harrisonburg, Va., highway postoffice, will be inaugurated Feb. 10. Walker said two other routes had been selected but would not be announced until delivery of the trucks to be used on them.

2 Garages Fined for 69 Parking Law Violations

Fines of $1 each were imposed yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman of the Traffic court in 69 cases involving hikers for two loop garages who left automobiles parked in Michigan avenue between Madison and Monroe streets. Judge Gorman said he fixed the minimum fine because the garages had saved the city $1,725 by accepting service instead of having warrants served for each case. The garages were the Loop Shoppers' garage at 500 North Wabash avenue and the Adams and Wabash garage at 219 South Wabash avenue.

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 17 [Special].—Gilbert A. Willis, 54 years old, superintendent of Kankakee county schools, died today at his home in Momence after three days' illness of pneumonia. He taught in both grade and high schools in this county and in various schools of Chicago. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Raymond Kral of Momence, and a brother, Fred, of Chicago.

Cold Due to Follow Wet Snow; Motorists Warned

A wet snow fell over Chicago last night, blanketing streets and sidewalks with a heavy slush and making driving and walking hazardous. Clear and colder weather is expected for today, with increased hazards where the slush turns to ice. The Chicago Motor club warned that driving in most of the central west is risky because of slush and ice.

BANDITS MISS PAY ROLL.

Two bandits failed to get a pay roll at the Improved Sponging and Refinishing company, 426 South Clinton street, yesterday because a messenger had been delayed at a bank.

THIBAULT SINGS AS CYRANO ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Marion Claire Is Cast as Lovely Roxane.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Rostand's legendary drama, "Cyrano de Bergerac," set to music by Samuel Pokrass, will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Conrad Thibault.

Conrad Thibault, baritone of radio and the concert stage, will sing the rôle of the poet, swordsman, doctor, and musician who is afflicted with an enormous nose. Marion Claire will sing the rôle of Roxane, with whom Cyrano is in love.

Cyrano's nose keeps Roxane from returning his affection. She falls in love with Christian, a dull country youth. This rôle is to be sung by Earl Tanner. The three leading speaking parts will be taken by Bret Morrison, Luise Barclay, and Bob Bailey.

The Supporting Cast.

Robert Speaker will sing the part of Ragueneau; Earl Wilkie that of Bellerose. Other supporting players are: John Goldworthy, Marvin Mueller, Bob Jellison, Willard Waterman, Malcolm Meacham, Fran Carlon, and Donna Reade.

Cyrano de Bergerac was an actual person born in Paris in 1620, where he died 35 years later when injured by a falling timber. Some of the stories about him are legendary but his biographer, Henri Lebret, vouches for the tale in which he battles single handed 100 enemies.

A Romantic Plot.

The hero of Rostand's play resembles the actual man in that he is a swashbuckling personality and a romantic wit. Rostand makes much of the enormous nose. Christian, who knows he is too slow witted to win Roxane, comes to Cyrano in despair. Cyrano writes love letters for Christian which cause Roxane to fall under Christian's spell.

Christian is killed in battle, but before he dies, begs Cyrano to tell Roxane the truth. Cyrano, as a man of honor, declines to do so. She retires to a convent and for 15 years he visits her each week. Cyrano finally admits the deception when felled by an assassin's bullet. While dying in Roxane's arms, both find they have loved each other from the first.

The musical background will be by the W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus directed by Henry Weber. William A. Bacher prepared the adaptation and will direct the show.

WOLL GOES EAST TO CONFER ON VOTE FRAUD QUIZ

J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, left yesterday for Washington, D. C., to confer with Maurice M. Milligan, a special assistant to the attorney general in charge of a nationwide vote fraud investigation. Woll has been directing a grand jury investigation of alleged voting irregularities in Chicago in the Nov. 5 election.

He said he will submit to Milligan a preliminary report on the evidence which has been presented here during the testimony of more than 100 witnesses. The report was prepared by Martin Ward, William Crilly, and John Kiely, assistants to Woll.

Woll said the Chicago investigation will not be finished in February as intended originally. It was indicated the jury's term will be extended at least another month.

N. Y. SKYSCRAPER IS HARD HIT BY ELEVATOR STRIKE

New York, Jan. 17 [Special].—Workers in the 45 story Transportation building got some unexpected mountain climbing training today. There was no alternative to using the stairs when the skyscraper's 14 elevators were stopped by a strike of girl operators seeking higher wages.

Some employés stranded while at lunch were told to take the day off but Eleanor Treacy, 19 years old, a receptionist, telephoned her boss that the elevators were not running and offered to carry some lunch up 31 floors to him. Her offer was accepted.

Twenty-five employés of an insurance company on the 20th floor drew lots to determine which two would have to walk down and get lunch for the entire group. Two stenographers lost. They had to do plenty of climbing but the lunches were hauled up the outside of the building with a cord dropped from a window.

G. B. SHAW BALKS AT PUBLICATION OF HIS LOVE NOTES

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP).—Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the famous actress, directed in her will, made public today, that love letters written to her by George Bernard Shaw be published if the author's permission were obtained. But Shaw tonight ruled the world must wait.

Asserting that 46 years ago "everybody wrote love letters" to Mrs. Campbell, Shaw declared: "They must wait until the old gentlemen who wrote them can no longer make them ridiculous by their white hairs."

Mrs. Campbell's will suggested the letters be published "so that all who read them will realize that the friendship was an 'amitie amoureuse' [a tender friendship]." Mrs. Campbell, the original Eliza in Shaw's play, "Pygmalion," was 75 when she died in France last April.

STUDENT KNIFED AT TUSKEGEE; 11 STRIKERS JAILED

All Released After Quiet Is Restored to Campus.

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP).—Disorders among striking Tuskegee institute students resulted today in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrest of 11 before law enforcement officers succeeded in restoring quiet on the campus of the big Negro school.

While a score of officers guarded the grounds and envirous, Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the 11 were jailed after defying orders to disband and clear building entrances.

800 Avoid Classes.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria, where 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said the disorders had "very little basis," and that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

The institute president said strikers blocked entrances to prevent nonstrikers from attending classes. He added that strikers made open threats against students trying to enter and said girl students as well as men were intimidated.

Prisoners Set Free.

All of those arrested were released later without formal charges having been preferred against them. The injured student was not hurt seriously.

Dr. Patterson announced tonight 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and added that any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis." Students were warned that those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Communications Disturbed Slightly by Aurora Borealis

Earth currents induced by the aurora borealis, or northern lights, disturbed communications yesterday. Only minor disturbances were reported in the Chicago area. Wire services said the trouble diminished toward evening.

Today's News Is Principally of Betrothals

BY JUDITH CASS.

THREE engagement announcements are today's headline news in the world of society. Miss Helen Theodocia Chancellor is going to be married at some future time—no date set yet—to Francis Dewes Burgweger; Miss Katherine Lewis Vail is engaged to Raynor F. Sturgis Jr., and Miss Bonnie-Jean Clark's betrothal to William Harrison Fetridge is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Clark of Chicago and Barrington.

Miss Chancellor's engagement is announced by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Justus Chancellor Jr. of Winnetka. Miss Chancellor, who has a debutante sister, Patty, made her debut in 1938. She attended the University of Wisconsin and Northwestern. Mr. Burgweger, a son of Mrs. Dewes Burgweger of Winnetka and Henry Burgweger of Buffalo, is a graduate of Andover and Yale.

Family Party to Celebrate Betrothal of Miss Vail.

Miss Vail is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm D. Vail of Highland Park. Her fiancé's parents live in Cleveland. The engagement is being celebrated at a small family party tonight at the Vail home. To be here for the party and to spend the weekend with his fiancée and her family, Mr. Sturgis Jr. came west from New Brunswick, N. J., where he is in business.

After being graduated from the Roycemore school Miss Vail attended the Northampton School for Girls and Smith college. Her fiancé received his degree from Cornell university in 1937.

Miss Clark, whose interests since her 1934 debut have ranged from the Junior league to the regional board of the Girl Scouts, will have a spring wedding. Mr. Fetridge is the son of Matthew Fetridge and the late Mrs. Fetridge of Evanston.

From California Comes News of Another Troth.

From California comes word of the engagement of Miss Ann Cornwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oscar Cornwell of San Marino, Cal., formerly of Chicago, to Walter John Wallace Jr., son of Mrs. Earlda Baker Lane of Los Angeles and the late Walter J. Wallace. Miss Cornwell's sister, Mrs. Donald M. Swett, lives in Chicago.

Miss Cornwell and Mr. Wallace, both of whom are alumni of Stanford university, plan to be married in February. Miss Cornwell also attended the Flintridge school in Pasadena and is a member of The Spinsters, an exclusive southern California organization. Mr. Wallace is a graduate of the Harvard school of business administration.

Mr. and Mrs. James N. Rawleigh and her brother, Ernest L. Hughes of Barrington, have returned home from Louisville, where they were for the funeral on Monday of their mother, Mrs. William M. Burton. Mrs. Rawleigh had been with her mother in Winter Haven, Fla., for a fortnight before Mrs. Burton's death and is planning to return to Florida in about 10 days.

Mrs. Rawleigh probably will be joined in the south by Mr. Rawleigh and their sons, James Jr., who is in the hospital at Fort Bliss, Tex., recuperating after an emergency appendectomy, and William, who is at the University of Michigan. Mrs. Burton had been living in California for the last few years, but before that was active in social and philanthropic circles in Chicago and Lake Forest.

Bridge, Backgammon, Supper at Casino Club Tomorrow.

Following the plans of Mrs. Huntington B. Henry and Mrs. John A. Stevenson, tomorrow's party at the Casino club will include bridge, backgammon, and supper. The party starts at 4:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Herman Chor [Suzanne Noble] will have the title rôle in a three act comedy, "Blanchette," by Eugene Brieux, to be given at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and Monday by the International theater. Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. Philip Maher, and Mrs. William Burry Jr. have planned luncheon parties before one of the performances, which will be in the Goodman Studio theater.

Two engaged couples will be especial guests at a cocktail party Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carlton Davis are giving at their apartment on East Bellevue street from 5 to 7 o'clock this afternoon. The party is officially for Miss Jeannine Young and Edson Benton Cooke, who will be married this spring, but Miss Denise Root and Ernest Eversz, whose marriage takes place next Saturday, will be among the guests. All official entertaining for Miss Root and Mr. Eversz has been called off because of the recent death of Miss Root's mother, Mrs. Dudley Root. Mrs. Davis, the former Ann Elizabeth Hall, will be Miss Root's only wedding attendant.

Two year old Michaela Williams thinks a penguin is an amazing bird, especially this one brought from the south pole by Admiral Richard E. Byrd. Her sister, Patricia, is somewhat less impressed, with the sophistication of a four year old. The children's mother, Mrs. Lynn A. Williams of Evanston, is president of the Evanston senior board of the Infant Welfare society, which will sponsor two lectures to be given on Tuesday by Admiral Byrd. The afternoon talk will be presented in the Haven school auditorium, and the evening lecture, in the Evanston Township High school.

Admonition.

Noël Flint tells the story of the lioness who, with her cub, was lolloping over their native habitat. The mother grew tired and, seeing two nice shade trees, lay down under one and went to sleep. Shortly afterward she was awakened by a frightful din and saw her child chasing a tourist around the other tree.

"Julia," she said in a sharp, accusing voice, "how many times have I told you to stop playing with your food."

WISHFUL THINKING.

Domestic Interlude.

Mrs. Francis A. Harper Jr. was struggling with a rug she is making from stockings and carpet warp (TRIBUNE pattern X-360). She was pursuing two reels of carpet warp and one ball of stocking strips around the breakfast table when Mr. Harper made some remark that called for an answer. She spoke sharply, then apologized. He threw her the ball of stockings from the hall where he had captured it and said kindly, "Never mind, dear, your warp is worse than your woof."

Performances and Recordings.

(In the Morning Mail.)

"Half the beauty of owning a record player and recorder these days," writes Paul Hugo Little, "is in making your own recordings. For there are so many wonderful performances over the air, performances the equal of which may never be duplicated. The Feuermann interpretation of the Dvorak Cello concerto with our own Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Sunday the reading of the Mahler First symphony by the New York Philharmonic under Dmitri Metropoulos. This last I took down in its entirety, including the thunderous applause of bravos and whistling; even the humorous little episode of Mr. Metropoulos kissing Michel Piastro, the concert master, on the cheek.

"My mother knew Mahler intimately when he conducted the New York Philharmonic back in 1910 and described him as a nervous, high strung man of great sincerity who said of his music, 'My time is yet to come.' Certainly the performances today justify these words. Paul Hugo Little."

Good Morning!

The Oriental has, really, quite a little bit of something in its current feature—and without making a bit of "Hullabaloo" about it, either!

Mr. Morgan is, so to speak, the turkey, the dressing, the cranberry sauce, and the dessert. In other words, the main attraction of the show. But his supporting cast supplies excellent fixin's and I guarantee that you won't regret the time spent watching this picture.

A lot of new talent in that supporting cast! Leni Lynn, for instance—a little New York school girl whose classmates believed in her and donated their pennies to send her to Hollywood. Leni has an exquisite soprano voice and carols like a bird—a rather timid little bird!—in this, her first singing rôle. You'll love her smile! Then there's Virginia O'Brien, dead pan blues singer from "Meet the People"; Larry Nunn, the little fellow with the tragic face whom you met in "Strike Up the Band," and Charles Holland, a Negro tenor who attracted much attention on a recent Red Cross benefit program. . . . Interesting, every one of them.

Mr. Morgan is seen as a fugitive from alimony row—I'm speaking broadly. . . . He has been married three times and he has three children—two girls and one boy—each with a different mother. . . . Mr. Merriweather is a variation of a one man band. He can play 20 different rôles—male and female . . . and when the action opens he is casting about in a radio studio trying to get a bite for a show which he has had transcribed on a record that nobody will listen to. . . .

The inexperienced young vice president of a large broadcasting network—a golf professional who is where he is because his fiancée, daughter of the president, wants to marry a business man instead of a golfer—is at last contacted, feels that in Mr. Merriweather's show he has found just the extraordinary sort of thinks the Perkins Pills people are looking for—and puts it on the air. . . . You remember the Orson Welles monstrosity? It's like that. . . .

Well, to be brief, the three wives, thinking Pop's due to be in the money, catch up with him. With them are their very delightful children who go for Dad in a big way, like each other a lot, and gang up to protect him from their mammas and land him a radio job. . . . The film shall go on from here. . . .

Mr. Morgan is perfectly delightful, and entertaining after the manner in which you like him on a weekly radio show. Virginia Grey and Dan Dailey Jr. make a pleasing romantic team. Dan plays the vice president who DOESN'T marry the boss' . . . O, I almost told you something! . . .

Good direction and a number of highly unexpected situations keep your interest tuned in.

See you tomorrow.

Miss Del Rio has been seen frequently in recent months in company of Orson Welles, stage, screen, and radio actor-producer.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 17.—Can you imagine the kind of chump Bob Hope is? He wants to marry Dorothy Lamour—and all he wants to marry her for is so he'll be exempted from the draft.

Such, panting fans, is the plot of the new Hope-Lamour movie, "Caught in the Draft." And to go on with it: Dorothy suspects Bob's motives are strictly nonmilitary. In order to allay her suspicions Bob fixes it to pretend to enlist. He hires an actor to impersonate a recruiting sergeant during the real sergeant's lunch hour, and bravely drives up with Dorothy to enlist. Unfortunately the real sergeant forgets to go to lunch—and Bob finds himself in the army.

Miss Lamour is having the time of her life in more clothes than she ever wore before on the screen. She has about 14 outfits, all trig and stunning. Her recent ceremony of burning her sarong took a load off her mind and the clothes Buddy de Sylva bought have made a new woman of her.

But, alas, 'tis temporary. When "Caught in the Draft" is finished Miss L. will make a dainty leap into a grass skirt for a remake of the old Gilda Gray wow, "Aloma of the South Seas." For this one Dorothy has a fine idea she is going to put up to the front office and they'll be chumps not to accept it.

"I've never done a dance," she explains. "A couple of flashes in a couple of pictures, but never a whole dance number. And I want to do one in 'Aloma.' After all, what would it have been without Gilda Gray's shimmy? The dance I have in mind is a hula-rumba, or a rula-rula, or something. Anyhow, a combination of a rumba and a hula. I'm sure it can be worked out and I can learn it. I learned the hula when I was in Honolulu a few years ago."

Paramount feels a little silly about one expenditure on the draft picture. Hope, in the plot, is a movie star—which is why he doesn't want to go in the army. And in one scene 14 kids besiege him for autographs. The studio yesterday had to pay $154, or $11 per youngster, for this shot, and the kids were allowed to keep the autographs. "I must be slipping," mused Bob, "when they have to pay people to do this."

A couple of stages away, Madeleine Carroll, Fred MacMurray, and John Loder are working in "A Night in Lisbon." The scene is the basement of a London hotel during an air raid. Everything very dressy and a dance floor and stiff upper lips all over the place, carrying on. Producer-director Ned Griffith says the scene was inspired by a real news picture of night life in London's Savoy hotel.

You'll never recognize "Night in Lisbon" as John van Druten's old play, "There's Always Juliet." But basically the story is the same, and Dame May Whitty is again in the rôle she made notable at New York's Empire theater eight years ago.

Capacity House Hears Recital by Flagstad

BY EDWARD BARRY.

It was no night for a picnic in Grant park, but enough people to fill virtually every seat in the giant Civic Opera house ignored last evening's atrocious weather to be on hand to greet the great Norwegian soprano, Kirsten Flagstad. The occasion was a benefit recital sponsored by the Norwegian relief committee of the state of Illinois.

From a stage flanked by the flags of the United States and of Norway, Mme. Flagstad first led the audience in the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and the Norwegian anthem. Then she went into her program proper, which consisted of two groups of Scandinavian songs, one in English, and excerpts from Wagner music dramas.

Mme. Flagstad's epic qualities are an old story, so the principal news value in last night's recital sprang from her success in dealing with such confidential little songs as Hakanson's "Someone Kissed My Forehead" and Johansen's "The Fjord's Hillside."

Their frail content she was able to project successfully by means of delicate inflections and a haunting pianissimo. Her singing had an engaging me-to-you quality which goes almost unnoticed amid the panoply of opera.

Both Mme. Flagstad and her expert accompanist, Edwin McArthur, contributed their services for this recital and provided their own transportation to Chicago.

Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, daughter of Count Leo Tolstoy, famous Russian novelist and social reformer, will leave here today after a four day visit. The countess came to Chicago to attend the charter meeting of the Chicago committee of Tolstoy Foundation, Inc., a national organization for aid to Russian refugees, last evening in the Y. M. C. The Tolstoy Foundation was founded by the countess and a group of New Yorkers a year ago last April. Herbert Hoover honorary chairman.

According to the countess, there are 86,000 White Russian refugees, who fled Paris after the German occupation, starving in the south of France. Among them are famous scientists, musicians and writers, including Ivan Bunin, author and Nobel prize winner. Seven thousand others have sought refuge in stricken Finland.

It will be the work of the Chicago committee to produce affidavits and transportation money to bring these Russians to this country, where their talents will enhance American culture, the countess stated. The committee is headed by Prof. Vladimir N. Ipateev, well known chemist of Northwestern university, honorary chairman, and Grigorovitch Barsky, attorney and former chairman of the Russian court of justice, president.

Jean Ladd and W. W. Stafford Wed Tonight

Altho they set their wedding ahead a month and discarded plans for a church ceremony, Miss Jean Ladd and Wirt Wright Stafford are having a formal service tonight in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. The Rev. Leland H. Danforth of the Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth will officiate at the 8:30 o'clock ceremony. After the reception the couple will leave for a week's trip to New Orleans, after which they will return to Kenilworth.

Miss Carolyn Mellinger will be maid of honor, and Miss Nancy Donaldson, bridesmaid. James Siddall, as usher, and Richard Stafford, as his brother's best man, complete the wedding party. The bridegroom and his brother are the sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Stafford of Portland, Ore.

Here for the wedding are the Frank Austins, Mrs. J. W. Stark and her daughter, Jean, and the C. Richard Brands of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. John G. Heidelberg of Toledo, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marr of Flint, Mich.

Who Is This Girl?

By Helen Topping Miller

[Copyright 1941: By Helen Topping Miller.]

SYNOPSIS.

Dining at the apartment of his employer, Harp Greenlee, a sheepman who has gone soft with city ways, Dan McCullough, manager of the ranch, San Mateo, meets Storm, a lovely young girl. Harp introduces her as his niece, but Mac has heard him introduce many women before as his nieces, and he wonders just who Storm is. Mac tells Harp and Steele Dunlap, Harp's lawyer, the ranch needs money to fight Humphrey Dane, who is trying to shut off their water, and they suspect him of stealing their sheep. Beatrice Abney, whom Mac meets at Harp's dinner party, asks Mac about her ex-husband, an artist who is drinking himself to death near San Mateo.

INSTALMENT VI.

FALLING IN LOVE.

The park was windy and bleak, bare with autumn and almost deserted. A chill blue light still lingered in the open spaces, but the people who walked there moved briskly, collars turned up against the chill.

McCullough walked quickly, too, trying to tire his body so that his brain would stop grinding and let him sleep. He did not look at the people he passed nor see the girl till she turned back with a little cry.

"O, Mac!"

He turned quickly, every drop of blood surging up into his face till it stung.

"O, hello, Storm. I didn't see you at first."

"You looked right thru me. I still feel invisible. Were you in a hurry —or just walking?"

"I'm just walking. How about coming along?"

He spoke in spite of himself. He had told himself a dozen times that he'd make a point of not seeing her again, knowing all the while that not seeing her again would be pure torment. All day, and thru the night before, she had been in his thoughts, been an aching weight upon his heart as no woman had ever been before.

"I'm just walking, too," she fell into step beside him. "I get so restless! There's so little to do. I do my nails and read books and go to a movie—and that bores me, too—and then I walk in the park and meet you."

"So you haven't anything to do?"

"Almost nothing at all. In school there was a definite schedule for every hour—I miss that. I go out a little—but the girls are all so experienced somehow, and I'm so terribly awkward—and I don't know how to talk to men at all. Harp says I say all the wrong things to men. He gets furious when boys come to take me out."

"Jealous?" McCullough heard the dry, tonelessness of his own voice.

"That would be silly, wouldn't it—for Harp to be jealous of me. But I believe he is, really. You see—I know how it is with Harp. Nobody has ever loved him, really. They love his money and his cars and his parties, but they don't love poor old Harp and he's lonely for want of loving."

"I've loved Harp—as much as he would let me," McCullough said, "but he's very self-sufficient. Just how well do you know him, anyway?"

"I know Harp very well. I've known him ever since I was very young. But nobody really knows Harp—because he's always hiding even from himself."

"Aren't most people doing that—hiding from themselves?"

She thought about that for a moment. She looked very small and young, with a little brown velvet hat that came to a point perched elfishly on her bright hair, and her hands in the pockets of a fluffy, tan ulster.

"Perhaps that's what is the matter with me," she said. "I haven't learned to hide from myself yet—or from any one. The sisters were always telling us to be simple and honest and sweet—and to be like that, out in the world, makes you—helpless, don't you think?" She lifted her amazing lashes.

"Guile and shrewdness do get along," McCullough agreed, "and hypocrisy flourishes—so it does confuse your thinking a little."

"And people look at you so calmly and tell you lies," Storm added. "Even nice people."

McCullough laughed then and the laugh eased a tightness within him. "How about a cup of hot tea?" he asked. "Could you do with a muffin or a crumpet or whatever it is that goes with tea?"

"I'm starving," she confessed. "I didn't know that cowboys ever drank tea."

"I'm not a cowboy exactly. I run a ranch—but I run it mostly behind a desk with a telephone in my hand. But sometimes I run it from the saddle, and I like that better than market reports or paper work. San Mateo's a business—a pretty big business—too big for me, I think sometimes. How about this tea place—does it look all right to you?"

"It's all right, I think. I want hot tea with cream, a thin sandwich with sliced cucumbers—if there are any."

He pulled out her chair. "Mind if I have a cocktail? I seem to be tired, for some reason."

"You're tired because you've been trying to get something—and not succeeding. That's true, isn't it?"

"You're a very wise young woman. Yes, that's true. I want things for San Mateo. I want to make it the place it could be. Some of that is vanity, undoubtedly. I want to do a good job and justify Harp's confidence in me, and things interfere. But how did you know I'd been trying to get something and not succeeding?"

"Isn't that what tires people, usually? When you get what you want, you aren't tired. You feel like dancing. And that isn't wisdom. It's what you see—everywhere. I merely have more time to watch people living than you do. I watch them all the time. Now, let's talk about you. You haven't always been a cowboy, running a ranch, have you?"

"No. Once I was a schoolboy, playing football and thinking it important. And then I was a college man with a roll of sheepskin with Latin words on it, and I thought that was important—till I found out how unimportant it was, in a world full of young fellows with sheepskins. So I went to work. That's all about me. What about you?"

Her lashes came up again, and then they fell and McCullough thought that their screening hid something bewildered. Something uncertain and anxious and a little afraid.

"There's nothing to tell about me," she said. "I'm a kind of vegetable growth. I speak a little school French and I can play a few little tunes on the piano. I know how to walk into a ballroom, but I never walk into any." She dropped sugar into her thin china cup, watched it melt in the tea, added cream, a drop at a time. Her small, even teeth bit a scrap from the sandwich on her plate, there was a little line cut between her brows.

"You need young people," McCullough said, sagely feeling magisterial and profound. "Harp shouldn't keep you shut there in that house."

"But—what can I do?" she asked. "Everything is so—so odd, somehow. I ask questions—and there are never any answers. Sometimes I think I'll run away—but where could I go?"

Every nerve in Dan McCullough's body suddenly began tingling, altho the drink he had ordered had hardly been touched.

He looked at this girl's young face, her chin that was set a little, the mouth that had suddenly straightened and taken on a bewildered uncertainty, the small, puckered knot between her brows, and abruptly the pale and glamorous dream that lives vaguely in the back of young men's minds sprang alive and possessed him.

He knew what had kindled that sultry anger in his blood all day, had made his night sleepless and tight strung and shot thru with odd angers. He was falling in love—and it hurt!

Why, he asked himself drearily, had it had to come like this?

Darkened with doubt, tortured by uncertainty, condemned to silence by the loyalty he owed to Harp Greenlee?

He said, brusquely, keeping his eyes away from her face, colored like a flower, "Ever think about going to work?"

"Yes, I've thought about it," she said, tonelessly.

"Americans are still free," McCullough reminded her.

Something seemed to go out of her face, like a light blown out behind a curtained window, color draining out like wine from a glass overturned. A shadow came in its place. She looked older, and there was a look in her eyes like a lost child in the dark.

"I'm not free, Mac," she said, "I'm bound—by so many things. Things I don't even know—or understand. Why——" she demanded sharply, "are we talking like this? I don't even know you very well. I've never talked about myself to any one before."

"I think you've known me—and I've known you—all our lives."

She pushed back her cup abruptly and stood up, her eyes taking on a stimulated brightness, her smile forced.

"I want to dance. I like that music. Will you dance with me, Mac?"

Universal day—Take it easy today. Enjoy a lecture or read something serious.

Vocations—The nine as a vocation number is pleasant one to have, either as the straight nine or one of the combinations. The 18 gives the enterprising one and the strongly materialistic eight, adding force to the very expressive and universal nine. Franz Josef, former emperor of Austria, was an outstanding example of this combination—the dominating ruler but with the universal expression of his talents. Charles M. Schwab was another type of this combination, and so was Paganini. The expressive side of this number was brought out by Amelita Galli-Curci who was born on the 18th.

February is the accepted cherry pie month, even tho we don't have fresh cherries until June. But February is the birthday month of the father of his country whose unofficial emblem is the cherry tree. And there are two other special days in February for which a red colored dessert is most appropriate. These are the birthday of another American president, Lincoln, and St. Valentine's day.

During February a national champion of cherry pie making is crowned, too. And since fresh cherries are out of season we buy the canned, unsweetened, pitted red cherries for our pies.

Even tho February is a couple of weeks away, cooks have been asking for cherry pie recipes, so here are two of our best ones to try out now or a little later.

Cherry Pie.

Pastry for double crust.
2½ cups drained canned cherries [unsweetened]
¾ cup cherry juice
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add to cherry juice and cook in a saucepan until thick. Add cherries and butter. Pour filling into a pastry lined pie plate and top with lattice strips, or a pricked, full upper crust. Seal the edges of the pie firmly. Bake in a preheated, 450 degree oven for ten minutes. Reduce heat to 375 degrees and bake 25 minutes longer.

Tapioca or flour may be used as thickening agent in the pie. Two and a half tablespoons of tapioca or three tablespoons of flour should be sufficient to replace the cornstarch.

Cherry Chiffon Pie.

1 tablespoon plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup juice from canned cherries
¾ cup chopped canned cherries

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes. Beat egg yolks and mix with ¾ cup sugar and the salt. Add fruit juices and cook over hot water to a smooth custard, stirring constantly. Add chopped cherries and softened gelatin. Stir until gelatin has dissolved. Cool until somewhat thickened. Whip egg whites to a stiff foam and beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar gradually. Fold into the rest of the filling. Fill baked pie shell or graham cracker crust and chill until firm. Top each serving with a small spoonful of whipped cream, and garnish with a whole cherry.

Style No. 2693 is designed for sizes small, medium and large. Medium size requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 3 yards of rickrack braid.

Style No. 3120 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. Medium size requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 2½ yards of binding.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is a sound generality [assuming that a generality can be sound] to say that defenders should use false cards sparingly but that a declarer should false-card at almost every opportunity.

Sometimes a declarer's failure to false-card acts as a veritable compass for the defenders. To wit:

East, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	2 diamonds	2 hearts	Pass
3 hearts	4 clubs	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	5 clubs	Double	5 diamonds
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

East properly started with one spade, rather than one heart, so that he would not have to "reverse" in order to show both suits. The rest of the bidding speaks for itself. South was highly aggressive in going to the five level, but hoped that he would get off with a 300 penalty as against the game that seemed reasonably sure for the opponents.

West opened the spade ace [lucky for him he didn't choose the heart king!] and continued spades, East collecting two more tricks in that suit, then shifting to a low club. It was at this point that South made a play that was a dead giveaway. He put in the club ten. It held, of course, but now, when the diamond king put East back on lead, East was in no doubt as to the proper return. Declarer had shown every high club except the king, so the defenders could not hope for another trick in that suit. Obviously, no heart tricks could be expected, either. So, by the simple process of elimination, East returned the 13th spade, on the chance that West had a higher trump than dummy's nine spot. As may be seen, this play assured the defenders another trick, regardless of declarer's action. If he discarded a club West would get in his diamond ten. If he trumped high, hoping for a 2-2 diamond break, West's ten spot would be promoted to a sure winner. Thus, the five diamond contract was defeated three tricks, 500 points, which was excellent compensation to East-West for the game that had been snatched from them.

Note what a vast difference it might have made if declarer had not been so gracious about revealing his precise club holding. Suppose, on East's small club lead, declarer had properly false-carded with the queen, then as before, returned the diamond king. East, upon winning, would be in quite a dilemma as to the best defense. He could not possibly know whether declarer lacked the jack of clubs or the ten of diamonds. In the first named case it would be fatal to lead the 13th spade because declarer, with solid diamonds, would ruff high and discard a club from dummy, thereby shutting out the defenders' club trick. Declarer's revealing of the club situation, however, told East that he could not hope for the club jack in the West hand, and steered him to the one play that might succeed. Perhaps East would have made the winning decision in any case if left to his own devices, but it is very bad play when a declarer forces a defender to guess right.

Lincoln Park to Open Orchid Show Tomorrow

A display of nearly 500 varieties of orchids, the largest such exhibition in the Chicago region in more than 25 years, will open tomorrow at the Lincoln park conservatory and will be open daily without charge for at least a month. A small group of orchids also will be exhibited at the Garfield park conservatory entrance. These flowers, as well as the rest of the park district's $50,000 collection, resulted from the gift of 2,500 plants in 1,000 varieties to the old Lincoln park in 1906 by H. Gordon Selfridge. Mr. and Mrs. Selfridge had one of the finest private collections of orchids in the world on their Lake Geneva estate.

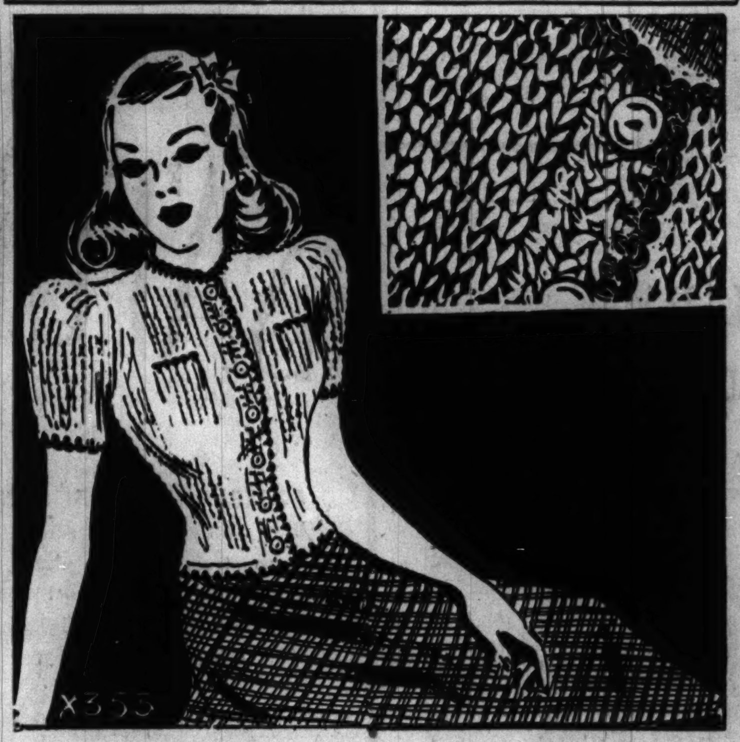
Knitted "Jiffy" Jacket



BY JEAN MACDONALD.

This clever, hand knitted jacket is knitted with large needles and is on the order of a "jiffy" sweater. Buttoned down the front and slightly fitted at the waist, it is ideal for wear with a street suit or with a ski outfit for sports. The ultra-ambitious knitter may embroider gay, colored flowers down the front and dispense with the pockets.

For instructions in knitting the "jiffy" jacket, No. X-353, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Curiosity Aids in Development of Your Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

No, you're not the only one, even tho you may think it.

Other mothers and fathers have to stand up under a barrage of questions. Other mothers and fathers have to rack their brains to find answers. And other mothers have to say sometimes, "I don't know."

I came across a list of children's questions which I made some time ago. I thought it might comfort some of you who have been beseiged these winter afternoons when the children are more indoors, for misery does love company. Here they are:

Where do all the children stay before they're born?

Why can't animals talk?

What kind of a noise do you think a tyrannosaurus used to make?

Why is Uncle John's nose so long and thin?

Why am I your little boy instead of somebody else's?

Why haven't snakes got feet?

What happens when you die?

Where is Columbus now?

Where is heaven?

Just because I'm a little girl, why do I have to wear dresses instead of pants?

What does electricity look like?

Why do people think it's bad luck to open an umbrella in the house?

Why are whales so big?

Why do the tears come to my eyes when I feel bad?

Why can't I roll around in the dirt after my bath, the way puppy does?

How does our dog know when it's time for daddy to come home?

If God is so good, why does he let me be so awfully sick?

Why do I like some children better than others?

Why are boys allowed to punch and "wrastle" and girls aren't?

Why do we call a horse a horse?

Why haven't I wings like a bird?

Why are some people so nice and some people so cranky?

What will happen when the world comes to an end?

Why does everything cost money?

How do birds know that it's fall even when the weather is warm?

Why do you like my hands clean instead of dirty?

Why are my eyes brown and your eyes blue?

Why can't I take my turtle to bed with me?

The answers are NOT in the back of the book. They're in the back of our heads. It's their curiosity and our attempts to satisfy it that helps our children to grow and develop.

New Blouses Give Touch of Spring to Suits

BY REA SEEGER.

Along with the first brave showing of early spring suits comes the exciting new blouse to wear with these trim duets of colored fine soft wool. The annual shopping binge is on for such suits to slide under dejected looking but still necessary winter coats.

Some adventurous souls park the winter coat to give it a much needed rest and get into light colored suits teamed with a matching coat or a topper of dark contrast. Nevertheless the blouse needs are the same. Whether you search for a brand new frilly affair of crisp white or tinted organdy or one of the smartest of heavy crêpe affairs the present assortments have everything in size style and trim contrast.

Fine handwork is particularly noticeable, fagoting, fine tucking, even dainty embroidery between panels of tucking, make the lovely new finds appealing. Sailor collars are used for many of them, or square cut yokes that resemble sailor collars. Val edging and knife pleating combine to add the frills for otherwise simple suit blouses. Long sleeved models are as plentiful and decorative as the elbow length.

Simple classic shirtwaist blouses come in sheer materials and, as the heavier silk crêpes, in snowy white and all the flattering pastels of yellow, pink, and blue. Stitched banding and stitched edges plus delicate pastels offer a lot of contrast for tailored suits.

Blouse tops cut and seamed in a jaunty short jacket outline are ideal finds for the separate skirt and jacket mixer. These are worn over the skirt belt, and come in fresh colors of linen and novelty cottons. Bright gay stripes, checks, plaids, and prints are new and effective ways to make suit or jacket contrast. Pockets and interesting details like flat appliqued bows and bands provide the only trim.

These new collections just unpacked are well worth a trip to town, for the interesting low price marks and the new springlike crispness of the trim and materials.

Pastor to Be Ordained to Episcopal Ministry

The Rev. Richard L. Sonne, for the last 14 years rector of St. Andrew's Reformed Episcopal church in Beverly Hills, will be ordained to the Episcopal ministry tomorrow at the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, 1490 East 55th street. The Rt. Rev. Edwin J. Randall, suffragan of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago will officiate. The Rev. Mr. Sonne has been appointed pastor of St. John's Episcopal church, Flossmoor. He succeeds the Rev. John C. Evans, who resigned Jan. 1, to assume direction of the Chicagoland Church Hour over station W-G-N.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

A couple of photographs of London A. R. P. girls getting their quota of violet rays via a sunlamp set up in a bomb shelter reminded us that lots of women to whom a tan is becoming and for whom a sunchasing trip is out of the question can arrange for sunlamp treatments at their favorite beauty salons. You can work up a smooth, deep, and completely painless tan with supervised sun treatments and your health will benefit too. We have a hunch that with all these glowing South American colors coming up in the fashion picture beautiful coats of tan will be ultra-chic this coming year.

For the intrepid skiers and skaters we recommend the "ski jelly" one of the beauty specialists brought out last year. It's a colorless jelly, comes in a tube, and is something of a miracle worker in keeping the wind ruffled skin smooth and well oiled. It should be worked into the clean skin before you go outdoors. And, of course, it gives a sheen, which is far more attractive than a powdered surface when you're dressed for strenuous outdoor activities. It gives a certain amount of protection from burning and should be reapplied if you're out in the wind and sun for long hours at a stretch.

What we particularly like about it is that after using it your skin doesn't have that wind shriveled, crinkly look that it usually takes on when you've done ice skating or skiing for even a short time. Men can use this, too—and should.

35 ARE INDICTED AS BOOTLEGGERS; 21 FROM CHICAGO

Charge Alcohol Running Into Canada.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 17 [Special].—Twenty-one Chicagoans were named in a federal indictment returned today against an international bootleg ring. Fourteen other persons, living in Michigan, Ohio, and Canada, were also indicted.

The 35 defendants are charged with conspiring to manufacture alcohol illicitly and thus evading the payment of $2,500,000 in internal revenue alcohol taxes.

According to John C. Lehr, United States attorney, the syndicate manufactured booze in two huge Chicago distilleries and smuggled it across the Detroit river into Canada, where a ready market existed because of war boosted prices. The syndicate sold at dry era prices in Canada, getting from $35 to $50 for a five gallon can of alcohol.

Names Two as Leaders.

Lehr named Abe J. Moss of Detroit, a former prohibition rum runner and smuggler, as the big boss of the huge conspiracy. Chief of the Chicago end, it was said, was Hyman Frank, who formerly lived in the 5100 block in Madison street there.

The government's cleanup of the international ring began last May when revenue agents raided stills at 1539 North Kilpatrick avenue and 3042 Lawrence avenue in Chicago. These stills had a combined daily capacity of 2,500 gallons.

At that time officials said the Chicago division of the syndicate operated three public garages as blinds for warehouses, ran nine trucks and three passenger cars to serve interstate patrons, and employed a corps of expert purchasing agents to buy supplies.

Operate Fleet of 36 Trucks.

In all, the ring operated a fleet of 36 trucks and passenger cars, and 4 boats. The booze was trucked to Detroit, and smuggled across the river in the boats at night.

The Chicago raids resulted in the indictment of Frank and 13 others last June. Some of them were reindicted in today's action. The Chicagoans named with Frank today were Nathan Rosen, Bernard Schneiderman, Edward Witt, David Wolinski, Jack Isenberg, Ernest Switzer, Harry Anderson, Walker Matthews, colored; Louis Molaro, and Samuel Mindell, described as transporters; John S. Frankel, alleged front man for the syndicate; Harry Steiner and Robert Abramovitz, named as cookers; Al Berk, Leonard Bloom, and Benny Sirt, truck drivers; Clemens J. Taifel and James Welborne Jr., listed as renters of distillery premises, and David Rothman and Louis Schneiderman, alleged manufacturers.

Eight Detroiters, in addition to Boss Moss, including his wife, Ann, were named, as well as three Canadians, and two men from Cleveland.

The indictment contains seven counts, each carrying a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

WILL BE SOUGHT HERE.

Ralph Herrick, assistant to E. C. Yellowley, head of the government alcohol tax unit in Chicago, said yesterday that some of the Chicagoans indicted in Detroit, Mich., were under indictment in Chicago and under bond. They will be rearrested, he said, and search will be made for other defendants.

OFFICE WORKER DEFENDS LAWYER IN JOSLYN CASE

Miss Marie Endrizzi, office secretary to Attorney Thomas Hart Fisher, testified in Fisher's behalf yesterday in an effort to refute charges that he had spent long hours in the company of Mrs. Charlotte Joslyn. Fisher represented Mrs. Joslyn in a suit that resulted in her being divorced from George R. Joslyn, son of a wealthy manufacturer of electrical supplies.

Two former servants testified Thursday that Fisher had made half a dozen visits between Jan. 1 and June 1, 1938, to Mrs. Joslyn's home in Lake Bluff. Miss Endrizzi testified Fisher was in his office virtually every afternoon during that time.

The hearing, before Master in Chancery John J. Kelly, resulted when Fisher presented a bill of $24,000 for legal fees in the divorce. Alvin Hubbard, Joslyn's attorney, contended Fisher's relations with Mrs. Joslyn were more than those of lawyer and client and thereby outlawed the fee.

CITY HOLDS LOOP SHOWING OF NEW GARBAGE TRUCKS

Garbage trucks lined La Salle street between Wasington and Randolph streets opposite the city hall yesterday as Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, introduced the city's new enclosed garbage conveyors to the public.

The occasion was the delivery of the last of the first batch of 50 of the new trucks, which cost $281,000. They have a capacity of 21.4 cubic yards and haul garbage at a saving of about 20 cents per cubic yard. The trucks, painted a bright orange, were lined up alongside some of the old trailer wagons that have a capacity of from 5 to 9 cubic yards.

Fifty more of the trucks have been ordered and will be in operation within two months, Hewitt said. The 100 vehicles will replace the 140 hired trucks heretofore used by the city. Each of the new trucks is loaded thru a hopper in the rear.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Preliminaries in four of the eight Silver Skates derbies will be held this afternoon on the Waveland avenue rinks, 3700 Sheridan road, Lincoln park. The weather man has promised colder weather by this morning and this will permit qualifying trials this afternoon in the 24th annual races sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Despite yesterday's above freezing temperatures, both of the Waveland rinks still are frozen altho there were puddles of water from snow and rain. Twelve hours of freezing weather will produce a perfect surface. Workmen were busy yesterday keeping the surface of the rinks smooth and removing slush.

Only this morning's weather can determine whether preliminaries can be held this afternoon. But in any event it is planned to distribute racing numbers to four age classes. Then, if the qualifying trials are postponed and it is possible to hold all the races tomorrow, much of the clerks' duties will have been accomplished.

Get Numbers Today.

Skaters who are to report today between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m., for their skating numbers are entered in the following derbies.

Boys' midget, under 12 years of age.
Boys' juvenile, 12 to 13 years of age.
Boys' junior, 14 and 15 years of age.
Girls' junior, under 16 years of age.

The permanent numbers already issued by the Illinois Skating association for the season will not be used today or tomorrow. Association skaters registered for the Derbies must apply for their numbers with other contestants.

Preliminary distances to be skated in today's trials are as follows: Boys' midget, 110 yards; boys' juvenile, 220 yards; boys' junior, 440 yards, and girls' junior, 220 yards.

There are 2,215 boys and girls eligible for today's preliminaries. Total registration for the 24th series of eight Derbies is 3,300.

Skates Are Prizes.

All contestants reporting for their preliminary races today and tomorrow will receive souvenir bronze buttons. Twenty-four pairs of skates are the prizes for the championships. The eight winners receive silver skates, and chromium and bronze skates are the awards for second and third place, respectively, in each Derby. Silver medals are awarded to all finishing fourth in the finals while fifth and sixth place finishers receive bronze medals.

In the three longest races, the men's senior two mile championships, boys' intermediate one mile championship, and the girls' senior one mile, the skater leading each race for the largest number of laps will receive a gold medal. The Walter Eckersall memorial trophy is awarded for one year to the club scoring the greatest number of points. This trophy quite likely will be won by the Catholic Youth organization or the Northwest Skating club.

250 Prizes Distributed.

The club which has the most contestants competing in the preliminaries will get a silver trophy. Each winner of a preliminary race receives a gold medal. Two hundred and fifty prizes are given exclusive of the souvenir buttons.

Tomorrow skaters in the boys' intermediate, men's senior, girls' intermediate, and girls' senior derbies will report between 10 a. m. and noon for their racing numbers. The first preliminary starts at 1 o'clock. Because of the size of the meet any skater who fails to report to the clerks between these hours will be barred from the races.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Things happened around the world three cushion billiard tournament in Bensinger's arena yesterday. Altho it didn't have anything to do with the day's competition proper, the most important action was the release of one Willie Hoppe from St. Luke's hospital. The defending champion, who has been ill for a week, was pronounced fit and ready to go along about next Friday.

In the tournament itself a man who has been three times runner-up for the championship scored his third straight victory. A gusher of billiard oil was struck in a game that went 67 innings. Two of the newcomers to the tournament started out so fast that they scored 16 billiards in the first four innings.

Veteran Meets Rookie.

Aside from the happy Hoppe news there was the oil case. This involved Veteran Tiff Denton of Kansas City and Novice John Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles, each of whom had gone into the second afternoon match with a record of one won and one lost. The oil employed in billiards is not the same viscous fluid used in automobiles, sewing machines, or salads. It is that distinctive commodity which is the essence of cue defense. Tiff and Fitz ladled it out so plentifully in trying to balk each other that it required 67 innings before Denton clicked off the decisive point on a three cushion bank to win, 50 to 48.

Allen Hall, the Chicagoan who has run second three times in the big show, scored victory No. 3 by defeating a fellow townsman, Len Kenney, 50 to 35, in 45 innings.

Paul Takes Care of Joe.

The private battle between two of the tournament debutants, Joe Moriarty and Paul Lewin, both of Chicago, occurred in the final matinée session. Paul finally scored his first victory in four starts and handed Joe his third defeat in three appearances by winning a 50 to 30 argument in 65 innings. Lewin teed off with a 4-3-2 chain and Moriarty came back with 5-1-1. Then Joe took 40 innings to gain his sixteenth billiard, and Paul just doubled that figure in the same span.

Herb Peterson was the young man whose record was unblemished by a zero for nine frames. It didn't do the young man much good, for he was playing Joe Chamaco, the Mexican who plays every shot, even when he isn't at the table. Joe eventually ran off from Herbert, 50 to 34, in 49 innings.

In the final match of the evening, Welker Cochran rallied to beat Clarence Jackson, 50 to 48. Thus Welker joined Hall at the top of the standings with three victories.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

WILLIE HOPPE, who probably has the most delicate technique in sport, marvels at the stick handling finesse of the Blackhawks' Johnny Gottselig, his favorite hockey player, and the putting touch of Horton Smith and Paul Runyan. . . . Columns of newspaper space are devoted to the achievements of football coaches, baseball managers, and other athletic leaders, but we doubt if there is another coach whose record excels Matt Mann's performance with the University of Michigan swimming team. . . . Mann, who went to Ann Arbor in 1925, has developed eleven Big Ten and eleven National Intercollegiate championship squads. . . . The Wolverines in Mann's time never finished worse than second in a national meet and have won the team title seven times in the last eight years. Lou Boudreau, the Indians' shortstop, was born on the seventeenth day of the seventh month in 1917. . . . Bill Hapac, forward on the Chicago Bruins basketball team, is looking forward to the time when he will wear a Detroit uniform. . . . Hapac starred in basketball and baseball at Illinois and next year will join the Beaumont club of the Texas league, a Tiger farm. . . . Coaches in the National Football league predict that the new college rule removing all restrictions on substitutions will not last more than two seasons. . . . Even Ellsworth Vines, Jimmy McLarnin, and Dick Bartell are making passes at trophies in open tournaments. . . . The Washington Senators received more than $85,000 in rental and concessions from the Redskins' 1940 football games. . . . Jack Tobin of St. Mary's, Cal., who is regarded as one of the best basketball players on the Pacific coast, is a brother of Jim Tobin, the Boston Bees' pitcher. . . . Andy Frain and his ushers gathered a ton of missiles from spectators as they went into Chicago Stadium for the Blackhawk-Red Wing game last Sunday night. . . . Few of the record crowd of 19,386 were able to smuggle in anything to throw at Bad Man Giacomo Orlando, but there was one who fooled Frain's alert inspectors. . . . He avoided suspicion by wearing a straw hat into the rink and later sailed it at Orlando.

Your Wedding Day.

Dear Son:

Since first you made your special plans
How quickly time has slipped away,
And suddenly it's very near,
As it becomes your wedding day.
So much there is within my heart,
So much a deep unspoken prayer,
But all my love will go with you
Upon this new, untrodden stair.

Be good to her, the girl you love,
Who soon will be your happy bride,
And may the years that lie ahead
Forever find you side by side.
But as you pledge your troth to her,
Somehow it all will pass away—
And for a moment I shall glimpse
The little boy of yesterday.

ZIVIC BATTERS EX-CHAMPION TO HIS 1ST K. O.

19,000 Watch Fritzie Keep Crown.

New York, Jan. 17 [Special].—Henry Armstrong, the gallant Hammering Henry who won the distinction of being the only fighter ever to hold three titles at one time, was stopped by Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh in 52 seconds of the 12th round tonight before a crowd of 19,000 which paid $78,242 in Madison Square Garden.

Armstrong, who sought to regain the welterweight title which he lost to Zivic on Oct. 4, announced his retirement from the ring after the bout. It was Armstrong's first fight since loss of the championship and the first time he ever had been unable to finish a bout.

Given "One More Round."

"My eyes won't hold up any more," Armstrong said, "and so I'm thru. I'm going into the wine business in California."

Both his eyes were cut.

Referee Arthur Donovan ended the battle after having twice entreated Armstrong to save himself further punishment. After the tenth round, Donovan notified Armstrong he would give him "one more round."

Fritzie Zivic peppering Henry Armstrong with lefts last night.

Armstrong came out after this warning with a flash of his old, furious fighting style, trying to demonstrate that, tho battered and bruised, cut and bleeding, he still had plenty of fight left in him.

Armstrong Pounds Zivic.

Thru the eleventh round he pulled the crowd to its feet, in a rally that inspired ringside veterans.

In this fleeting period, Armstrong hammered Zivic around the ring. He pelted the champion with lefts and rights to the body, plied him with left jabs and right hand smashes to the head and face. Repeatedly Armstrong grazed Zivic's jaw with desperate rights, which he hoped would turn the tide of defeat.

For two minutes Armstrong was Zivic's irrepressible ring master. It was spectacular ring work.

Then Zivic took control, stepped to the attack, and thru the last minute of the round punched Armstrong repeatedly with short, stinging lefts and rights that ripped old wounds.

Rules Fight Can Go On.

When the 11th ended, Dr. William H. Walker, boxing commission physician, climbed into Armstrong's corner to examine Henry's battered features, particularly his cut and swollen eyes. However, Dr. Walker said the fight could go on, and Armstrong started the 12th round much as he had started the 11th. But now he could not repeat the desperate stand.

Armstrong shuffled into a barrage of straight lefts, a criss-cross fire of lefts and rights, all punishing blows. He tried with a roundhouse right, missed, and slipped down. Up he came, charging recklessly, only to be pelted by another shower of Zivic's lefts and rights to the head, face, and jaw. Donovan then stopped the fight.

Armstrong came out of Los Angeles in 1936 and fought his way thru three divisions to the throne of each. He gave up the featherweight title voluntarily and lost the lightweight crown to Lou Ambers.

HAARLOW A TEAM ALL BY HIMSELF; GETS 33 POINTS

Leads Calumet Rout of Englewood, 44-24.

Bob Haarlow, star center on the Calumet High school senior basketball team, yesterday placed his name beside that of Brother Bill, former Bowen and University of Chicago sharpshooter, in the Public School league's record books.

Bob scored 33 points on eleven field goals and eleven free throws, the highest individual total this season, as Calumet defeated Englewood, 44 to 24, on the latter's court. He failed, however, to approach Bill's mark Bill scored 52 points in his last prep game, against Morgan Park in 1932.

The victory was Calumet's third straight in the south section and the quintet now is tied for the division lead with Hirsch. Calumet led, 20 to 10, at the end of the first half and held a 31 to 15 advantage at the third period.

The Lane Tech and Lake View senior squads also scored their third consecutive victories. Lake View defeated Von Steuben, 39 to 36, while Lane Tech whipped Amundsen, 20 to 16. In the junior division, Parker won from Harper, 39 to 26, and Von Steuben triumphed over Lake View, 45 to 30. Lineups:

124th Faces Detroit Polo Trio Tonight

Detroit's entry in the National Polo league, the Ivorys, will endeavor to score the first victory for a Detroit team over the 124th Field Artillery since March 6, 1937, when the two teams clash in the 124th armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue, tonight.

Detroit has acquired Tom Healy, and Dan Peacock, who was injured in the visitors' victory over Evanston a week ago, also will be back in the lineup. The third man in the Detroit lineup is its captain, Volney Bayley. The Artillerists will use the same lineup they employed two weeks ago when Evanston defeated them, 20 to 14. Lieut. Don Rice will be at No. 1, Capt. Romeo Mura at No. 2, and Maj. William S. Everett at defense.

The 124th can tie both Detroit and Evanston in the standings by winning. Detroit thus far has won its single game, Evanston has broken even in two contests, and the Artillerists have lost a game.

Probable lineups:

DETROIT.		124TH F. A.
T. Healy	No. 1	Lieut. Rice
Bayley	No. 2	Capt. Mura
Peacock	Back	Maj. Everett

Referee—Capt. J. S. McAnulty.

TRIBUNE SPORTS MOVIE THRILLS I. A. C. AUDIENCE

'A Great Show' Is Verdict of All Concerned.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The "All-American Way," a sound movie which follows Tribune sport promotions all thru the calendar from winter to autumn, was shown last night before an Illinois Athletic club group which was both enthusiastic and thoughtful. Comments varied from such spontaneous remarks as "That's a dawg-gone good show!" to carefully worded opinions about the effect of sports on national destiny.

As the gathering settled back for after dinner cigarets, a swiftly moving succession of events swept across the screen. Youngsters streaked over ice in quest of Silver Skates; others stood up and slugged it out for the glory of Golden Gloves. The nation's greatest baseball players went to bat in the original interleague All-Star game; full backs pounded thru the line and ends made sensational catches as the professional football champions battled the college All-Americans.

Charity Is the Beneficiary.

These were the events with which THE TRIBUNE has given an outlet for the athletic aspirations of thousands of young men and women. The spectacles have entertained millions. The profits, all of which went to charity, have done $950,632 worth of good.

"This is a picture which should be given a wide distribution among schools and colleges," said Judge Cornelius Harrington. "It would be a good thing to show it in corrective institutions also. When youngsters turn their interests to athletics they become too absorbed in them to think about getting into trouble."

Vincent O'Brien, a lawyer, expressed surprise at the scope of Tribune activities after the film "Trees to Tribunes" had been followed by the "All-American Way."

It Makes a Broad Picture.

"You see an event here and another there in the course of the season but you forget to connect them as parts of one big, coherent plan," he said. "It's amazing when they're all presented to you together."

Capt. Harry J. O'Connell of the Chicago police force was an interested spectator. Speaking from the vantage point of his own particular field, he said "There's nothing like sports to turn potential criminals into good citizens."

J. A. Hadwiger, commodore of the Columbia Yacht club, was pleased with the attention Tribune promotions gave to the strictly noncommercial sports such as rowing, swimming, etc. Leroy J. Clark, who was chairman of the dinner, expressed gratification at the interest of those who attended.

The "All-American Way" is available without cost to fraternal and commercial organizations, clubs, schools, and similar groups. Application for showings may be addressed to the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

HAWKS ORDERED TO DRILL TODAY FOR BRUIN GAME

The Blackhawks, smarting over the 5 to 1 defeat dealt them Thursday in Montreal by the Canadiens, arrived home last night. A workout in the Stadium was ordered for today by Manager Paul Thompson in preparation for the clash with the Boston Bruins tomorrow night. Thompson plans to devote most of the drill to smoothing out crudities in the defense play of Rookies Red MacKay and Johnny Mariucci, altho he insisted neither of the pair nor Goalie Sam LoPresti was responsible for the loss to the Montreal team.

Minor penalties proved the undoing of the Hawks and Goalie LoPresti against the Canadiens.

PROS HEAD HOME WITHOUT PICKING A COMMISSIONER

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

National Football league club owners ended two days of informal discussion in the Blackstone hotel yesterday without reaching a decision on the announced purpose of the meeting, the selection of a commissioner of professional football.

They did, however, arrive at unanimous agreement on a motion to revise the league's constitution and by-laws at the annual league meeting in Chicago in April to provide for the office of a commissioner and eliminated the names of a dozen or more candidates for the position.

It's Still a Secret.

The identity of those remaining in consideration is a closely guarded secret, but owners intimated they expected to narrow the field to one man and have him under contract by the time they gather in April. Beyond admitting that none of the candidates lived in Chicago, the owners were painstakingly noncommittal. It is reported, however, that the present list contains none of the names previously mentioned.

A statement at the conclusion of the meeting said "the creation of the office of commissioner will not affect the status of the other officers of the league."

Mr. Marshall Explains.

Amplifying the statement, George Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, said:

"Professional football is expanding to such proportions that the National league no longer can afford to operate on the limited scale necessary back in the days of limited gates, uncertain sponsors and irregular schedules. Our constitution, excellent for its purpose at the outset, has become outmoded and cluttered up with conflicting regulations by the addition of amendments thru the years. We have agreed to rewrite it almost completely at the April meeting and adapt it to present conditions, including the office of commissioner."

Lambeau Just Makes It.

In addition to effecting and administering working agreements with these leagues, the commissioner's duties will include the shaping of a more definite plan for the protection of and coöperation with college football. Some progress was made in this direction at the draft meeting in Washington last month when the owners agreed unanimously to adopt a resolution at the April meeting making it impossible for a player who still has a year of college competition to participate in professional football, even tho his class has graduated, unless the athlete can get the permission of his graduate manager and the president of the league.

Curly Lambeau of Green Bay, who had called the meeting, arrived yesterday at its conclusion, after a three day trip from California on three airlines and two railroads.

Three Quintets Seek First Victory in Big Ten Tonight

Three Western conference basketball teams which have failed to win a Big Ten game so far—Northwestern, Michigan, and Chicago—continue their search for victory tonight. Thrice beaten Michigan entertains Wisconsin in Ann Arbor, Mich. Northwestern, defeated by Ohio State and Indiana, plays Illinois in the Evanston Township High school gymnasium, and in the Midway field house Chicago's Maroons, whipped by Ohio State, face Minnesota.

The undefeated conference leaders, Ohio State and Indiana, are not scheduled in the Big Ten, but the Buckeyes face a difficult assignment. Undefeated Duquesne plays Ohio State in Columbus, O.

Benson Goes to Forward.

Altho Illinois and Wisconsin have identical records, each having won two games and lost one, the Northwestern-Illinois game probably ranks higher in interest than the Wisconsin-Michigan contest because of the natural rivalry which surrounds it and the fact that the Wildcats were beaten by the conference leaders and still believe they are a better squad than their Big Ten record shows.

Coach Dutch Lonborg of Northwestern, has been seeking more speed and a quicker scoring break. Tonight he will move George Benson to forward in place of Clarence Hasse. Johnny Welsh, a junior, also may get a chance at forward. Northwestern will stand pat on the remainder of the lineup with Henry Clason at the other forward, Don Clawson, center, and Russ Wendland and Capt. Al Butherus at the guard positions.

Illinois Squad Arrives.

Illinois' squad arrived in Chicago last night. Coach Doug Mills is expected to start Henry Sachs and Bob Richmond at guard with Vic Wukovits in reserve. Capt. Johnny Drish and Hoots Evers, forwards, and the lanky Art Mathisen, center, complete the lineup. The Illini have defeated Purdue and Michigan and like Northwestern, were beaten by Indiana.

Others on the Illini squad are Bob O'Neill and Alton Shirley, centers; Bill Hocking, Hap Shapiro, Dave Dillon, and Keith Brown, forwards, and Wayne Staley and Dick Albaugh, guards.

Chicago's Maroons are prepared to play a cautious game in the hope of their first conference victory over Minnesota. Altho Minnesota is stronger than Chicago in reserve power, the Maroons still recall that the Gophers last year provided the only victory Chicago was able to muster. The Gophers are expected to start four of their six letter men, with Bill Lind, center, the only sophomore in the lineup. Chicago's two letter men, Capt. Joe Stampf, and Chuck Wagenberg, junior guard, will be supplemented by two choices from among the Maroon sophomores, plus Jack Fons, a minor letter man.

Minnesota, after breaking even on eight pre-season games, also has split its two Big Ten contests, losing to Iowa, 41 to 34, after beating Wisconsin, 44 to 27, in the conference opener. Chicago won four of its six preseason games, but absorbed a 68 to 38 drubbing from Ohio State in Columbus.

Wolverines Lack Height.

Altho the Wolverines have averaged 40 points a game against Ohio State, Purdue, and Illinois, their lack of height and general defensive lapses have brought defeat in each contest. Michigan's one tall regular, Sophomore Center Jim Mandler, has been carrying more than his share of the load and stands second in the conference individual scoring ranks with 39 points. The Chicago boy is being counted upon heavily against Wisconsin tonight.

Mandler's assignment will be to stop Gene Englund, the Badgers' high scoring pivot man who has scored 33 points.

BOB EARL STOPS AHLBECK FOR 2D VICTORY IN ROW

Robert Earl, Morgan Park lightweight, stopped Torsten Ahlbeck in the third round of a scheduled five round amateur bout in Madison Athletic club last night before a capacity crowd of 1,400. Referee Jimmy Lavelle stopped the match and awarded the decision to Earl after Ahlbeck had dropped to the canvas twice. It was Earl's second successive victory over the heretofore unbeatable Senn High school football player.

Lou Angelucci, city Golden Gloves middleweight champion, knocked out Richard Hammond of Kansas City, Mo., in the second round of a secondary feature, also set for five rounds. Other results:

William Jordan beat Buster Crow [3]. Jim De Wald beat James Fair [3]. Lee Harvey beat John Manning [3]. Harry Cole beat Jerry Pittro [3]. Joe Baldassano stopped Gene McKnight [2]. Oscar Williams beat Roger McLean [3].

Pete Blouir, Gary light heavyweight, pounded out a decision in five rounds over Walter Kanzler of the Madison Athletic club in the windup bout of an amateur boxing show last night in Chicago Towers club. Other results:

José Manjarrez stopped Sam Malmed [3]. Charles Johnson beat Joe O'Neil [3]. Ed. Longazo stopped Ralph Manning [1]. Vince Panazzo beat Ed Camp [3].

BIG TEN ACTS TO AID IN NATIONAL DEFENSE PLANS

Scholastic and athletic leaders of the Western conference acted yesterday to place facilities of Big Ten schools behind the government's national defense program.

A group of presidents, faculty representatives, athletic directors, and physical education authorities, acting as a joint committee, laid down several recommendations in resolutions adopted at a meeting in the Sherman hotel.

Work Out Own Programs.

One resolution urged that member schools "take such measures as may be necessary and feasible for the accomplishment" of national defense aims and "to provide the necessary financial means and the necessary adjustment in university programs as to hours, credits and otherwise so that these ends may be effectively accomplished."

Karl Leib of Iowa, faculty committee chairman, explained that the recommendations were phrased in general terms "because each school must work out its own program of coöperating with the government."

He pointed out that one change in curriculum being studied would provide credit for students in physical education classes. At present no credit is given.

Four Presidents Attend.

The Big Ten officials amplified their purpose in joining hands in this project "not only that the young men of our institutions may realize their potential capabilities for immediate defense purpose . . . but also for the welfare of the nation for all time to come."

Twenty-two officials attended the conference, including four presidents, A. C. Willard, Illinois; E. C. Elliott, Purdue; Herman Wells, Indiana, and Franklyn Bliss Snyder, Northwestern.

Athletic directors, meeting separately, voted to move the outdoor track meet in Minneapolis up to May 16 and 17 from May 23 and 24, and to set back the golf tournament on the Millrose farm course from May 26-27 to June 18-19. The changes were made to avoid conflict with final examinations at certain schools.

OIL SHIPPERS ASK 'MULTIPLE-CAR' RAIL RATE SLASH

Propose 20% Reduction for 25 Carloads.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—Attorneys for the Petroleum Rail Shippers association today requested the Interstate Commerce commission to reduce the rates on multiple car shipments to eight terminal points in the middle west.

The points involved are Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Jefferson City, Mo.; Des Moines, Ia.; Iowa City, Ia.; Omaha, Neb., and Minneapolis, Minn.

In oral arguments before the I. C. C. the attorneys said that lower rates are necessary to enable them to compete with shippers using pipelines and water transportation.

Ask Slash of 20 Per Cent.

The association proposed a reduction of 20 per cent for shipments of 5,000 barrels or 25 cars, as well as lower rates on single car shipments. The attorneys said that high transportation costs were driving petroleum shipments off the railroads.

They contended also that the commission had established a precedent for reduced rates in its decision permitting rate reductions for multiple car shipments of black strap molasses from Louisiana to Peoria, Ill.

Railroads Oppose Rate Cut.

On behalf of the railroads, M. G. Roberts told the I. C. C. that a commission examiner had suggested a 34 per cent reduction in multiple car rates. Roberts asserted that the volume of business handled by railroads would have to be increased 51 per cent to maintain revenues at their present level if the cuts are ordered.

He said the railroads did not believe that increase in business could be expected. Roberts added that the petroleum industry did not lend itself to multiple car shipments as shipments had numerous origins as well as hundreds of destinations.

HIRES.

I have been impressed by the profitable operations of many soft drink companies. What has been the experience of Hires?—G. E.

Answer: Sales volume of the Charles E. Hires company, Philadelphia, in the 1940 fiscal year was the highest in its history and net earnings for the period were second only to those of 1930.

The company's earnings record in recent fiscal years ended Sept. 30 follow:

	Net sales.	Net income.
1936	$2,567,411	$288,503
1937	4,419,689	716,695
1938	4,598,165	601,011
1939	4,804,577	800,115
1940	4,941,450	862,029

Hires has outstanding 417,120 shares of $1 par common stock. The present capitalization resulted from conversion of the old class A common and the management stock into old class B common shares, and an exchange last year of three new $1 par common shares for each of the old class B shares. Dividends on the new stock totaled $1.50 a share in 1940. The shares are listed on the New York Curb exchange.

The company manufactures syrups for root beer beverages, distilled water, and carbonated drinks.

INDICT FORMER UTILITY HEAD ON POLITICAL ACTS

Union Electric Co. Payments Alleged.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 17 (AP).—A two year investigation of the Union Electric Company of Missouri by the federal government resulted today in indictment of the $250,000,000 three state utility and its former president, Louis H. Egan.

A federal grand jury charged Egan and the corporation with conspiracy and violation of the corrupt practices section of the public utility holding company act of 1935 thru contributions to political parties and candidates.

Recipients named in the indictment range from candidates for township assessor to state legislature and congress.

"Kickbacks" Are Charged.

The indictment asserted the donations were made from a "secret fund" accumulated thru refund of purported legal fees, "kickbacks" from contractors and business associates, and padding of expense accounts of company employés.

Testimony in a federal court trial last year placed the total of the alleged "slush fund" at $579,000. This trial resulted in conviction of Frank J. Boehm, former executive vice president of Union Electric, on a charge of perjury in testimony before examiners of the Securities and Exchange commission. He has appealed from a 5 year sentence.

Another Serving Sentence.

Albert C. Laun, former vice president and legislative representative of the company, pleaded no contest to a similar charge and is serving a sentence of a year in prison.

The SEC began its inquiry into Union Electric's affairs in November, 1938. Egan, who had been president since 1920, Boehm and Laun resigned in May, 1938.

Indictment of Egan and Union Electric represent the second phase in a three state grand jury investigation of business and political practices of utilities in the North American company system, announced by the department of justice last fall.

Faces State Action.

A grand jury at Springfield, Ill., last Dec. 3 indicted two North American units and three individual defendants on charges similar to those returned here against Union Electric. A third grand jury inquiry is scheduled for Des Moines.

In addition to the federal charge, Union Electric is accused of violation of the Missouri state corrupt practices act in a suit which seeks forfeiture of its corporate charter. Trial of the case was completed last week by Circuit Judge Edgar B. Woolfolk of St. Charles county, Mo., who had it under advisement.

CHARGES STATE TAXES DESTROY TOBACCO PROFIT

H. B. Patrey of the National Association of Tobacco Distributors said yesterday that the various state tobacco tax laws were tending to reduce or "even eliminate" the distributors' profits. He spoke at the association's annual convention in the Palmer House.

During 1940 tobacco taxes in 26 states having this levy amounted to approximately $90,000,000, while the federal tobacco tax brought in around $638,000,000 in revenue for the government, he said.

An exhibit of various tobacco products and other goods sold in tobacco stores is being held in connection with the convention, which will end today.

CONSUMER GROUP ASKS SLASH IN OHIO COAL PRICE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—The consumers counsel division of the department of the interior petitioned the bituminous coal division today for a reduction of 25 cents a ton in the minimum mine price on 7,000,000 tons of Ohio industrial soft coals marketed annually.

Officials said the price of the Ohio product, which is sold to Ohio, Michigan, New York, and Pennsylvania industries in competition with Pennsylvania and West Virginia soft coal had been increased 55 to 60 cents a ton under provisions of the bituminous coal act.

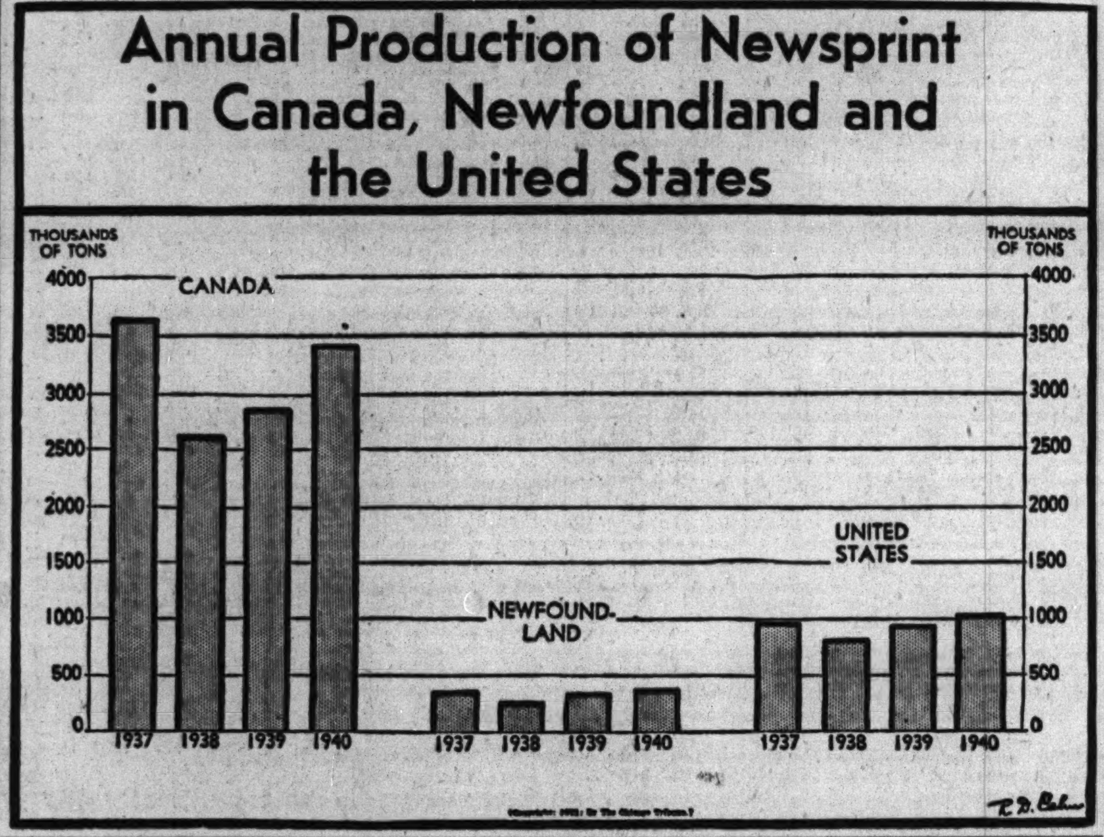
The petition, if granted, would cut $1,750,000 a year off the cost paid at the mine by distributors, officials said.

BIDS ARE TAKEN ON STUDEBAKER ENGINE PLANTS

Altho war department officials have not yet approved the site for the airplane engine parts factory to be built in Chicago by the Studebaker corporation, bids already are being taken on proposed plants at South Bend and Fort Wayne.

The two other plants will each have a 400 by 1,000 foot building main unit of steel frame and concrete construction, according to plans by Giffels and Valley, Inc., Detroit architects. There also will be an "industrial relations" building, a boiler house, oil and gasoline storage building, and other small units, covering approximately 16 acres.

The Chicago plant, it was said, will occupy a 50 acre site, altho much more acreage may be purchased.



J. P. Morgan's $500,000 Gifts to Sons Told

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—Henry S. Morgan testified today at a Securities and Exchange commission hearing that his father, J. P. Morgan, called on the telephone one day and said that he [the father] would give him $500,000 in cash.

During the same conversation, Morgan said, he asked his father to sell him 5,000 shares of Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., preferred stock for $500,000. The elder Morgan agreed, and as a result the stock was delivered instead of cash, the witness said.

Study Firms' Relationship.

The method of acquiring the stock was a point considered by the SEC in a hearing to determine whether the relationship between J. P. Morgan & Co., Inc., and Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., was such that the former could not be corporate trustee and the latter underwriter for the same security issue because of a "conflict of interest" forbidden by the trust indenture act.

Henry S. (left) and Junius S. Morgan, sons of J. P. Morgan.

Questioned by SEC attorney's, Morgan said that the "essence" of the transaction was that he had purchased the stock "with my own money." He said that the idea of buying the stock had originated with himself while his father was telling him about the gift he intended to make.

Brother Got $500,000, Too.

Junius S. Morgan testified that his father had given him $500,000 at the same time that his brother received that amount, but that he had not bought any stock with the gift.

Questioning also drew from Henry Morgan that an agreement which would have permitted him to withdraw his name from the corporate name at any time he should leave Morgan Stanley & Co. was canceled March 18, 1940. Henry Morgan is secretary and treasurer and a director of the underwriting company.

He said that the agreement concerning the name had been made because at the time Morgan Stanley & Co. was formed, he wished to see how things would go.

Firm "Well Established."

He subsequently agreed to yield the right to withdraw his name if he left the company, he said, because by 1940 the company was well established. Both Henry and Junius Morgan testified that they knew of no existing agreement concerning the use of the name Morgan in a business enterprise.

The hearing was adjourned and the matter was to be taken before the commission immediately, altho the respondents reserved the right to ask for oral arguments. SEC officials said that an early decision was expected because of plans to offer the securities—$25,000,000 of debentures and serial notes proposed to be issued by Shell Union Oil corporation.

Bank Elections

Bank elections held yesterdav included the following:

METROPOLITAN STATE BANK—All directors and officers were reëlected at annual meetings.

NILES CENTER STATE BANK—All directors and officers were reëlected at the annual meetings of stockholders and the board of directors.

SOUTH SHORE NATIONAL—Ray P. Duffy, manager of the new business department, elected assistant cashier. Other officers were reëlected.

CLOSED BANK PAYS OFF, AIDED BY DEERE & CO.

Implied Pledge Worth About $700,000.

This is about an implied pledge—not legally binding—that proved to be worth approximately $700,000 in cold cash.

Early in 1933, when banks were facing runs or threatened runs, Deere & Co., farm equipment manufacturer, published a notice that it had faith in the People's Savings Bank and Trust company of Moline, Ill. The notice said that Deere was leaving its deposits in the institution and believed that with the coöperation of depositors the bank would survive the storm.

But the Bank Soon Closed.

In February, 1933, People's Savings closed, and for eight years the receiver of state banks worked to liquidate the assets, paying depositors a total of 79 per cent of their money, including about 40 per cent repaid at the time of closing. By the end of 1940, all that was left was a batch of culled over assets, and the receiver lacked $1,444,959 of being able to pay the depositors 100 per cent.

It was estimated that if the remaining assets were offered at public sale to clean up the bank's affairs, they would yield not more than enough to raise total repayments to 90 per cent of the $7,000,000 on deposit when the bank closed.

Repay 100 Per Cent.

Yesterday depositors of the closed bank were cashing checks for a final repayment of 21 per cent, which raised the total returned to them to 100 per cent instead of the prospective 90 per cent. The added 10 per cent—$700,000—was made possible by a transaction thru which Deere & Co. had supplied $1,286,407. The receiver had enough cash to raise the rest of the needed $1,444,959. In return for the $1,286,407 Deere took over the bank's remaining assets.

On Jan. 7 Circuit Judge L. E. Telleen had ordered the final payment after approving transfer of the assets to Deere. J. M. Connors, deputy for Charles H. Albers, state bank receiver, handled the case. With the checks which the depositors began receiving this week was a note saying that the payment was made possible by Deere & Co.

DON'T SPECULATE IN FARM LANDS, WALLACE WARNS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—Vice President Elect Henry A. Wallace cautioned American farmers today against speculative production of agricultural products or land buying as a result of price advances which might result from defense spending.

Farmers are faced instead, he said, by the necessity of making additional reductions in production of some crops, particularly those which normally find an autlet abroad.

He added that present farm-aid programs may have to be overhauled to meet problems growing out of the war, the defense program and peace, when it comes.

These views were expressed by Wallace in his final report as secretary of agriculture, a post he relinquished last September.

CHICAGO IS EXPECTED TO HOLD AUTO SHOW DESPITE N. Y. ACTION

Chicago proposes to hold its annual automobile show next autumn despite the announcement by the Automobile Manufacturers association that the national automobile show, held in New York, has been canceled. Samuel B. Shapiro, general manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, announced yesterday that based on present conditions Chicago's show will be held.

Shapiro said that the Chicago association "thoroly supports the national defense program" and that it believes that it can best be supported by maintaining the national economy at a high point. It is estimated that about 6,000,000 persons in the United States gain their livings, either directly or indirectly, from the automobile and truck business.

DETROIT TO PLAN SHOW.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 17 [Special].—The Detroit Auto Dealers association will meet Monday to promote a national automobile show in Detroit next fall, President J. A. Mason said today.

Civilian Uses of Aluminum May Be Pared

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 [Special].—Maximum aluminum requirements for military and civilian purposes will reach their peak under the present program next December, but if developments result in a still larger military demand the need for greater ingot capacity will have to be met by some reduction in civilian consumption. This is the essence of a report now in the hands of Edward R. Stettinius Jr., chief of the industrial materials division of the national defense advisory commission.

Meanwhile, the bureau of mines forecast today that domestic aluminum production would reach a peak rate of 825,000,000 pounds annually by July, 1942. By July, 1941, it said, the annual production rate likely would be stepped up to 690,000,000 pounds.

Large Users to Be Affected.

The defense report states, in effect, that if the new military program goes beyond that formulated last October, or if the number of heavier planes ordered is larger than already scheduled, civilian use of aluminum will have to be restricted.

This does not mean, it was explained, that all civilian use of aluminum would be halted. It will probably mean that while "pots and pans" will continue to be made, large consumers, such as makers of interstate buses with heavy aluminum parts, may have to curtail operations.

The industry would be able to meet the need for the additional ingot capacity, it was indicated, by temporary curtailment of some civilian objects and by additional fabricating capacity, provided it has sufficient notice of the higher peak of requirements.

Production Rising Rapidly.

The latest aluminum figures were completed recently after a visit to the west coast airplane plants by army, navy, and procurement division officers inquiring into reports of an aluminum shortage.

Illustrating the rapid increase of aluminum production, the report pointed out that in June, 1940, the industry produced 35,000,000 pounds, compared to an estimated 51,600,000 pounds in January, 1941, 64,500,000 pounds in July, 1941, and 76,000,000 pounds in July, 1942. These figures, however, were said to include some imports of refined metal.

Civilian requirements, estimated at 47,200,000 pounds in January, 1941, will rise to 61,000,000 pounds in July, 1942, the report said. Total military requirements for January, 1942, were estimated at less than half of the civilian requirements.

In making estimates of aluminum requirements the staff that made the study assumed that the aluminum should be delivered to the airplane companies four months in advance of delivery schedules for the planes.

BREWSTER AERO. SELLS STOCK TO EXPORT OFFICERS

New York, Jan. 17 [Special].—The board of directors of Brewster Aeronautical corporation on Dec. 9, 1940, authorized the issuance and delivery of 50,000 shares of capital stock in the company upon private sale at $12 a share to F. William Zelcer, Alfred J. Miranda Jr., and I. J. Miranda, officers and directors of Brewster Export corporation, it was disclosed today. The proceeds, together with any proceeds from other stock under option, will be used for additional working capital, according to a listing application approved by the New York Curb exchange on Dec. 17, 1940.

The Brewster Export corporation is the sole foreign sales agent of the Brewster Aeronautical corporation on a commission basis not to exceed 12½ per cent of the contract price of foreign orders, the statement said.

Rail's Passenger Traffic Up as Fog Grounds Planes

Fog in Chicago and a heavy sleet storm in New York yesterday gave railroad business a boost when planes were grounded. The New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited used two sections both ways between Chicago and New York. J. M. Switzer, passenger traffic manager, reported that the road has had a steady increase in its passenger business in recent weeks. The Pennsylvania's Broadway Limited left Chicago yesterday with a capacity load.

C I O CALLS OWN INT. HARVESTER MOLINE STRIKE

Firm Denies Charge of 'Lockout.'

With a threat that strikes may be called at seven other International Harvester plants, the C. I. O. Farm Equipment Workers Organizing committee yesterday called a strike of its members at the company's East Moline, Ill., works, and said picketing would be started. The plant was closed Thursday following a sitdown strike by about 150 members of the independent union which is the recognized agency for employes.

Operations at the East Moline plant were at a standstill despite an announcement by E. W. Stahl, superintendent, that the plant would be open for all those who wished to go back to work. Only the maintenance men were on the job.

Statement by Union.

Terming the strike a "lock-out," the C. I. O. union issued the following statement concerning the situation:

"1. This is not a bona fide strike, but a lock-out caused by a minority in collusion with the company. [The company denies the lock-out charge.]

"2. The C. I. O., in order to protect the jobs of the locked out workers, is forced to take the legal steps of declaring the plant on strike and C. I. O. members will refrain from working and will establish picket lines at the plant.

"3. The company union contract clause, having been cancelled by the strike, the C. I. O. will insist that the company enter into no new contracts with the independen union."

Stand of Company.

In reply to this statement, Stahl informed the C. I. O. local that the action by the independen union did not nullify the contract. For this reason, he said, the company was not in position to bargain with the C. I. O. He reminded the union that as far as the company was concerned the plant was still open, inasmuch as the company deemed the action Thursday by the independent union an "illegal stoppage of work."

Stahl received a message from Gerald Fielder, secretary-treasurer of the C. I. O. union, who said that "unless you break off negotiations with the employés' association and start negotiations with our officers who represent a majority of the employés, we shall instruct our other Harvester locals to begin striking Monday."

Make 18 Demands.

At the time of the sitdown strike it was said that the independent union's grievance concerned a dispute over seniority ratings. However, yesterday morning officials of the independent union presented 18 demands to company officials. Included were an increase in wages, elimination of peace work rate on the assembly line, a change in the seniority regulations, a 10 per cent bonus for night workers, and a closed shop.

Almost identical demands had been made by the C. I. O. union, which is the recognized bargaining agency for the Chicago tractor works and the Richmond, Ind., plant.

Buffeted by snow and cold, the pickets last night extinguished their bonfires and left the scene. They were expected to return this morning, however.

The strike at East Moline has put some 1,400 employés out of work.

FORD OPPOSES ELECTION.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 17 (AP).—The Ford Motor company declined today to agree to a consent election for collective bargaining in its Lincoln plant, and the United Automobile Workers [C. I. O.] immediately announced they would press for a vote.

The company formally told the National Labor Relations board that it would not enter a stipulation consenting to an election.

I. A. Capizzi, Ford attorney, outlined the Ford stand in a letter to Frank H. Bowen, regional director of the NLRB. Bowen notified the company 10 days ago that the U. A. W.-C. I. O. had petitioned for an election claiming a majority among the 3,800 Lincoln employés.

Frisco Railway Orders 12,300 Tons of Steel Rail

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP).—The St. Louis and San Francisco railway today ordered 12,300 tons of steel rail and track fastenings for delivery in 1941 for approximately $1,125,000.

KNOX PROPOSES FREE TRADE WITH SOUTH AMERICAN NATIONS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox today suggested the United States allow a "complete free exchange of goods and freedom of trade" in commerce with South America. His statement came at the end of his testimony before the house foreign relations committee on the lend-lease bill before congress.

After Representative Sikes [D., Fla.] had asked whether Knox knew of any better method of western hemisphere defense than the pending bill, Knox replied:

"I've got a rather radical suggestion which will shock some of my Republican friends here, but I think the best thing we can do is to treat South America the way we treated the great west, and have a complete free exchange of goods and freedom of trade.

"If we remove every last barrier from that trade, we'll tie them to us with economic bands of steel."

Laboratories Will Win War, Says Aeronautical Engineer

William B. Stout, pioneer Detroit aeronautical engineer, told members of the Executives' club at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman yesterday that aviation research is the foremost factor in the present war in Europe. He said the United States now is behind Germany in aviation research facilities.

William B. Stout.

"Until five years ago the government financed laboratories at Langley Field were the principal testing grounds for aviation research and development," he said. "During the last five years Germany has built five testing laboratories larger than Langley Field."

Research Vital Factor.

Stout said that the present war is not one of men and guns alone, but mainly one of research and mechanical invention.

"British planes at the present are better than those of Germany—but how long will this last," he continued. "We do not know what new planes Germany might be building. We do know, however, that the planes of today will be obsolete in a short while."

He said that if the United States is to keep abreast of airplane development it must concentrate on research activities. Congress recently authorized the construction of aviation research laboratories near Cleveland, O., and San Francisco, Cal.

See Big Expansion.

Stout predicted that aviation in the near future will be the largest industry of the world. He said that when the automobile manufacturers combined with airplane builders that planes would be built in great quantities and of excellent quality.

"This will take months," he said. "You can only get a crop of mushrooms overnight."

Stout asserted that aviation is in the front line of all our mechanical and technical advances and that by helping aviation other industries are helped.

"Aviation progress will carry the world farther than the war can destroy," he concluded.

INT. HYDRO. STOCK HELD IN TRUST IS ORDERED VOIDED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 [Special].—The Securities and Exchange commission today issued an order directing Joseph B. Ely, C. Brooks Stevens, and Henry G. Wells, as trustees, to cancel 2,500,000 shares of the common stock and 1,000,000 shares of class B stock of the International Hydroelectric system which they hold in trust for the International Paper and Power company and the International Paper company.

The trust, set up in 1939 by the two companies to enable them to dispose of their power securities, is practically dissolved by the commission's order.

The commission contends that the continued existence of the trust as a holding company of the Hydro system complicates its structure contrary to the public utility holding company act.

100,000 SOCONY OIL CO. SHARES ARE SOLD OVER COUNTER IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 17 (AP).—The growing custom of distributing large blocks of stocks to buyers after the New York Stock exchange closes continued today when 100,000 shares of Socony-Vacuum Oil company stock were sold by Lee Higginson & Co. and Spencer Trask & Co.

The stock was distributed at $9 a share and was understood to be for British account. The stock closed on the "big board" at that figure, up 12⅛ cents.

Financial circles estimated that today's over the counter deal brought to nearly 1¾ million shares the amount of stock handled by this method within the last six weeks. The largest individual transaction took place yesterday when 500,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey stock were offered by a large syndicate which acquired it from the E. S. Harkness estate.

FULLER WARNS OF LULL AFTER DEFENSE BOOM

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 17 (AP).—Walter D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, urged Americans tonight to be "watchful lest in our speed to forward defense, we unnecessarily sacrifice our hope and promise for the future."

Looking to the immediate future and on to the period when armament production slackens, Fuller declared in an address before the Poor Richard club celebrating the 235th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin:

"Once we have the wheels of industry turning at practically full speed on defense, we must find ways to keep them going in normal circumstances. Principally we must find ways of increasing the buying power of millions of Americans thru finding ways which will enable them to produce more.

"No mere passage of laws or changing our monetary system is going to answer miraculously this question of greater buying power."

OHIO AIRCRAFT VALVE PLANT TO COST 11 MILLION

Thompson Products Discloses Plans.

A new $11,000,000 plant will be built at Cleveland, O., by Thompson Products company for production of aircraft valves and parts for the national defense program, F. C. Crawford, president of the company, announced yesterday.

F. C. Crawford.

The company's present plant at Cleveland supplies parts to the automotive industry. Work on the new plant will start within a month.

Meanwhile the war department announced award of the following contracts to Illinois companies: To C. F. Pease company, Chicago, lamp assemblies, $38,869; Caterpillar Tractor company, Peoria, tractors, $5,385, and W. Shanhouse Sons, Inc., of Rockford, khaki cotton trousers, $32,119.

Will Make Horns for Navy.

The navy department announced Federal Electric company, Inc., Chicago, received a $5,724 contract to supply electric horns to the navy.

Arrangements for financing the Thompson Products project thru Defense Plants, Inc., a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, will be completed next week, Crawford said.

Last week the war department reported that Thompson Products had failed to act on a letter of intent issued three months earlier, and said the project had been delayed as a result. Company officials attributed the delay to a "misunderstanding" and said plans are now proceeding "at full speed."

May Require New Housing.

In planning the factory, requirements for more than 1,000 special aircraft parts and many types of valves had to be considered, and the work was complicated further by the government's constantly expanding aircraft program, Crawford said.

The factory will be built in Euclid, Cleveland suburb. Mayor K. J. Sims of Euclid said 2,000 new housing units may have to be built to accommodate plant workers.

Caterpillar Tractor, Chicago Screw company, and Cool: Electric company, Chicago have applied for certificates permitting them to amortize over a five year period, for income tax purposes, plant expansion undertaken in connection with national defense work, the war department reported.

At Charlestown, Ind., E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., which is building a $74,000,000 smokeless power plant for the government, hired 3,000 pipe and steamfitters, raising total employment on the project to about 19,000.

CAR AND TRUCK OUTPUT AT NEW JANUARY PEAK

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 17 (AP).—Ward's Reports, Inc., today estimated car and truck output this week at 124,025 units, the largest weekly volume of any January in car manufacturing history.

Last week assemblies numbered 115,935 cars and trucks, breaking the previous January high mark of 111,330 for the week ending Jan. 13, 1940. A year ago this week 108,545 vehicles were assembled.

Ward's said the outlook was for volume at present levels or close to them, and added that January sales are in line with normal expectations.

RAILS HELP CUT PRICE LOSSES IN STOCK TRADE

Selling of Metals Cause of Downturn.

New York, Jan. 17 (AP).—A last minute burst of strength in rail stocks today put props under a generally falling market and enabled weak steels and other industrials to reduce substantially losses running to a point or more. Mild rallying signs at the start disappeared when selling of the metals turned somewhat insistent. The transportation group was resistant thruout, however.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was unchanged at 43.8. It was the sixth successive session in which the composite had recorded no progress. Transfers totaled 575,280 shares compared with 609,720 Thursday.

Cause of Rail Strength.

The rail section apparently reflected mounting traffic and net operating incomes for the principal roads. Some commitments were reinstated elsewhere, brokers said, on the belief that the erasure of nearly all of the post-New Year's advance put the market in a position for another recovery attempt.

Altho next week's steel mill operations were expected to touch a new record peak, the metal shares were retarded by reports that the government would insist on a sharp extension of production facilities for defense at a cost to the companies of many millions. Thoughts that labor difficulties may soon confront the steelmakers also cast a shadow.

Chicago Stocks.

The price trend on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday was generally lower, altho 21 of the 92 issues traded recorded slight gains. Transfers totaled 26,000 shares, compared with 27,000 Thursday. Libby, McNeill & Libby stock, a large block of which was registered with the Securities and Exchange commission Thursday, was the volume leader, closing at 7, unchanged.

A comparison of several stocks listed both in Chicago and New York, showing the changes here in the hour after the New York close, follows:

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 17 (AP).—A buying flurry in rail issues animated the bond market closing today. Trading followed a leisurely pace most of the session and prices generally were mixed. The last hour filip helped a wide group of bonds rated as speculative.

Revival of buying interest in the rails was connected with the still widely favored notion that the carriers were in line for a long period of improvement.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois shares, selling ex dividend, declined 2½ points yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Other leading issues were unchanged.

WOOL AND ZINC CLIMB; OTHER STAPLES MIXED

Metals Move Up as Needs Exceed Supplies.

Wool tops reached another new 1940-'41 high in May deliveries and zinc rose over ¼ cent a pound yesterday. Gains and losses were about even among other major commodity futures. Copper, tin, domestic sugar, cocoa, and cottonseed oil advanced moderately, while rubber, hides, Santos coffee, and silk declined. Cash prices were steady.

A peak $1.12 2/10 a pound was set by May wool tops before profit taking cut the close to $1.11 6/10 bid. The range was unchanged to 0.4 cent higher. In the cash market the bid price was $1.20, 1 cent down from Thursday's sale figure.

Nonferrous Metals Rise.

A tight supply situation in the face of increasing needs for national defense stimulated nonferrous metal futures. Zinc bounded 0.25 to 0.65 cent a pound, March contracts adding 0.49 cent at 9.49 cents and May 0.25 cent at 9 cents. Copper futures were ahead 0.05 to 0.13 cent at 11.40 cents a pound for May, and tin finished unchanged to 0.10 cent higher at 50.10 cents a pound bid in that delivery. There were no future sales in lead.

According to trade reports yesterday, supplies of cash zinc are equal to about one week's requirements at the current rate of shipment.

FRESH PORK CUTS MARKED DOWN; HOG MARKET DIPS

Average Declines 5 Cents to $8.15 Per Cwt.

Unseasonably warm weather, a setback in wholesale pork prices, and slightly larger receipts weakened the market for hogs again yesterday. Reductions were slight, however, the day's average moving down only 5 cents to $8.15 a hundred pounds. Top loaps, at $8.50 and $8.55, were about equal to Thursday's close. Small lots sold at $8.60, compared with a peak of $8.75 early Thursday.

Packers cut top light loins to $19 a hundred pounds, compared with the winter's peak of $20 the day before. The heaviest loins were bought 50 cents lower, at $15.50.

Day's Receipts Larger.

Farmers unloaded 74,000 hogs at the eleven principal markets during the day, an increase of 8,000 over a week earlier and 19,000 more than a year ago. However, the five day total this week, at 373,000 head, compared with 440,000 last week, and 471,000 a year ago.

A large share of good 180 to 240 pound hogs brought $8.35 to $8.50, while most 250 to 300 pounders sold from $7.90 to $8.25. Butchers weighing 325 to 500 pounds ranged from $7 to $7.80. Most 300 to 500 pound sows brought $6.75 to $7.60.

Lamb Market Is Firm.

Steady to strong prices prevailed for slaughter lambs. Local packers and eastern interests paid $10.65, the top price. Fresh shorn stock sold at $9. A scant supply of old sheep and yearlings held steady.

Only 2,000 cattle arrived yesterday. Steers and yearlings were bought steady to slightly lower, the best available selling at $14.65. Steady prices were paid for heifers, bulls, and calves. Beef cows, canners, and cutters were a shade lower.

GENERAL MOTORS APPEALS "SOUTH BEND DECISION"

Oral arguments were concluded yesterday in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals on the appeal of the General Motors corporation against the "South Bend decision" in which the G. M. group was convicted and fined $5,000 each for violation of the Sherman antitrust act. The parent company and General Motors Sales corporation, General Motors Acceptance corporation, and General Motors Acceptance Corporation of Indiana, Inc., were accused of coercing dealers to use the GMAC plan in instalment sales financing of General Motors automobiles.

Edward S. Ballard and John Thomas Smith argued on behalf of the companies. Ballard said that the purpose of G-M activity instead of seeking to restrain trade was to sell more cars. He said the companies were "legally powerless to restrain their own commerce unlawfully." Smith argued that the government in the proceedings appeared to favor the middlemen instead of the public. He insisted that G-M in its activities had sought to protect the interests of its millions of customers.

CHICAGO FIRM STARTS PROFIT SHARING PLAN

The Barrett-Cravens company, with general offices and factory in Chicago, announced yesterday that it had started an "employés' savings and profit sharing plan" with the beginning of the new year.

The company will pay to the fund at the end of each year not less than 10 per cent of the net operating profit after taxes, but not more than four times the amount paid in by member employés. The plan calls for the deductions from the wages of participating employés of not more than 5 per cent or less than 3 per cent each pay day. The yearly total contribution by each employé is limited to $200.

E. J. Heimer, vice president, said that about 94 per cent of the company's eligible employés had joined within a week after the plan was conceived. The company produces handling equipment.
